MUMBAI.

Prepared by professor Anthony Writer, Jyotisha Bharati, Bharatiya Vidya Bhavan, Mumbai, Maharashtra, India

FOREWARD

This is a collection of notes, prepared and compiled by Mr. A S Writer, who has been teaching both Astrology and Palmistry at the Bharatiya Vidya Bhavan since 1994.

Prior to that he was a student of this Institute and is a gold medalist in Jyotir Vid. During his career as a lecturer he was involved in research in Natal astrology, Krishnamurthy Padathi and Palmistry. He has completed a thesis on Fixed Stars and has been awarded Jyotir Visharada.

While compiling and preparing these notes he has referred to a vast collection of text books as mentioned in the bibliography. He has taken care to illustrate the subject in very simple and lucid language which can be easily read and followed both by the students and the layman who wish to get an insight into the elements of Astrology.

He expresses his deep gratitude to the Management and staff members of Jyotisha Bharati for encouraging and guiding him from the inception, both as a student and lecturer.

Further, he confesses that this book would not into print if not for the untiring and selfless work of Mr. Jaydeep Malaviya and his dedicated team.

I whole-heartedly recommend that this collection/compilation of “The Elements of Astrology” be read and used for further studies and research work.

Shri. Jinabhai G. Lad.
Principal Jyotisha Bharati.
Bharatiya Vidhya Bhavan.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The notes in the present form have been collected from various sources to enable the students to save their valuable time for cross-references.

At the outset I wish to express my deep gratitude to all my teachers, specially :-

- ⊕ Late Shri Gopalkrishna Modi Principal of The Bombay Astrological Society as well as Jyotisha Bharati
- ⊕ Prof. Jinabhai Lad - Principal of Jyotisha Bharati,
- ⊕ Prof. G.B. Forbes - Co Principal,
- ⊕ Prof. D.V. Thakur.

For teaching me the fundamentals of Astrology. The charts for the Properties of the Planets is the contribution of Prof. D.V.Thakur. Many of the other charts and tables have been incorporated from the works of Mr. Jaydeep Malaviya who put in immense labour with dedication with the sole aim that his endeavor would benefit the student community at large.

I also wish to express my deep gratitude to the students community for their invaluable support all through out.

I also wish to express my deep gratitude to my students :-

⊕ Mr. Jaydeep R. Malviya and the members of his team

for their selfless and untiring efforts to go the entire scrip troy work and present it in a style that could be read and followed with ease and convenience.

Astrologically yours,

Anthony Writer

Significance of a Horoscope

The twelve signs of the Zodiac form the basic clock relating to the journey of the Sun through the heavens, a cycle that takes a year to complete. This astrological year starts in the late March at the time when the Sun enters Aries . Thereafter the signs change at monthly intervals. The Zodiac is divided into twelve Signs or Rashi's . Theoretically each sign is of 30. Aries is the first sign of the Zodiac ; followed by Taurus and the others.

The Zodiac chart is the map of the heavens at the time of the event is under reference. Hence the birth chart is the map of the heavens at the time of the birth at the given place of birth of the child and is known as the “Birth Chart”. The rising sign at the time of the birth is known as the Ascendant and signifies the East direction and is also the 1st. house of the horoscope. The sign opposite the ascendant is known as the descendent, is the West direction and is the 7th. House of the horoscope. The sign at the top and at right angles to the ascendant is the known as the Mid heaven ,is the South direction and the 10th. House . The sign opposite the Mid heaven is known as the Nadir , is the North direction and the 4th. House.

Signs : They indicate the trend and the quality of the human mind. They confer power to resist against odd environments or circumstances.

Houses: They denote the environment, circumstances and conditions of human life. Each house has its own specialties. Each sign is a content and each house is a transparent receptable . This content when put into the house gives a special quality to it. The beginning of the house is known as the Cusp of the house . The house extends from the cusp of the house to the cusp of the next house. However the Indian tradition to call cusp as “ Bhava Madhya “ is now accepted by Western Astrologers also, that being the most sensitive point of the House.

Planets: The human mind is influenced by planets according to their inherent tendencies and the way their influence works in every walk in life. Desirable influence is felt under good aspects while undesirable influence is experienced under bad aspects or afflictions – a planet in bad aspect is termed as a planet in affliction or afflicted or afflicting.

Triplicities

There are three signs falling in each of the 4 elements hence known as Triplicities

The 4 Elements (tatvas) are Fire, Earth, Air, & Water

- ✚ Fire Signs (Agni): Restless, Energetic, Optimistic, & Assertive. (Also known as Meshadi rasi) Aries Leo Sagittarius

- ✚ Earth Sign (Pruthvi): Practical , Sensual , Persevering & Reserved.(Also known as Makaradi rasi) Capricorn Taurus Virgo

- ✚ Air Sign (Vayu): Objective, Sociable,Independent, & Mentally active.(Also known as Tuladi rasi) Libra Aquarius Gemini

- ✚ Water Sign (Jal): Emotional , Sensitive & Intuitive
(Also known as Karkadi rasi) Cancer Scorpio Pisces

Signs in the same triplicity are in trine

Planets in Fire Signs

Live in a highly excited state,
Inspired activity,
And maintaining the state of being
Is crucial for the fire signs
To stay healthy and happy

Planets in Earth Signs

Are grounded in physical reality;
The material world and considerations
Are related to security & achievement
Motivate their behavior
More than anything else.

Planets in Air Signs

Live in the abstract realm of thought
A thought for them is real
As any material object

Planets in Water Signs

Live in the feelings
It is their emotional state
That determines their behavior
Than anything else

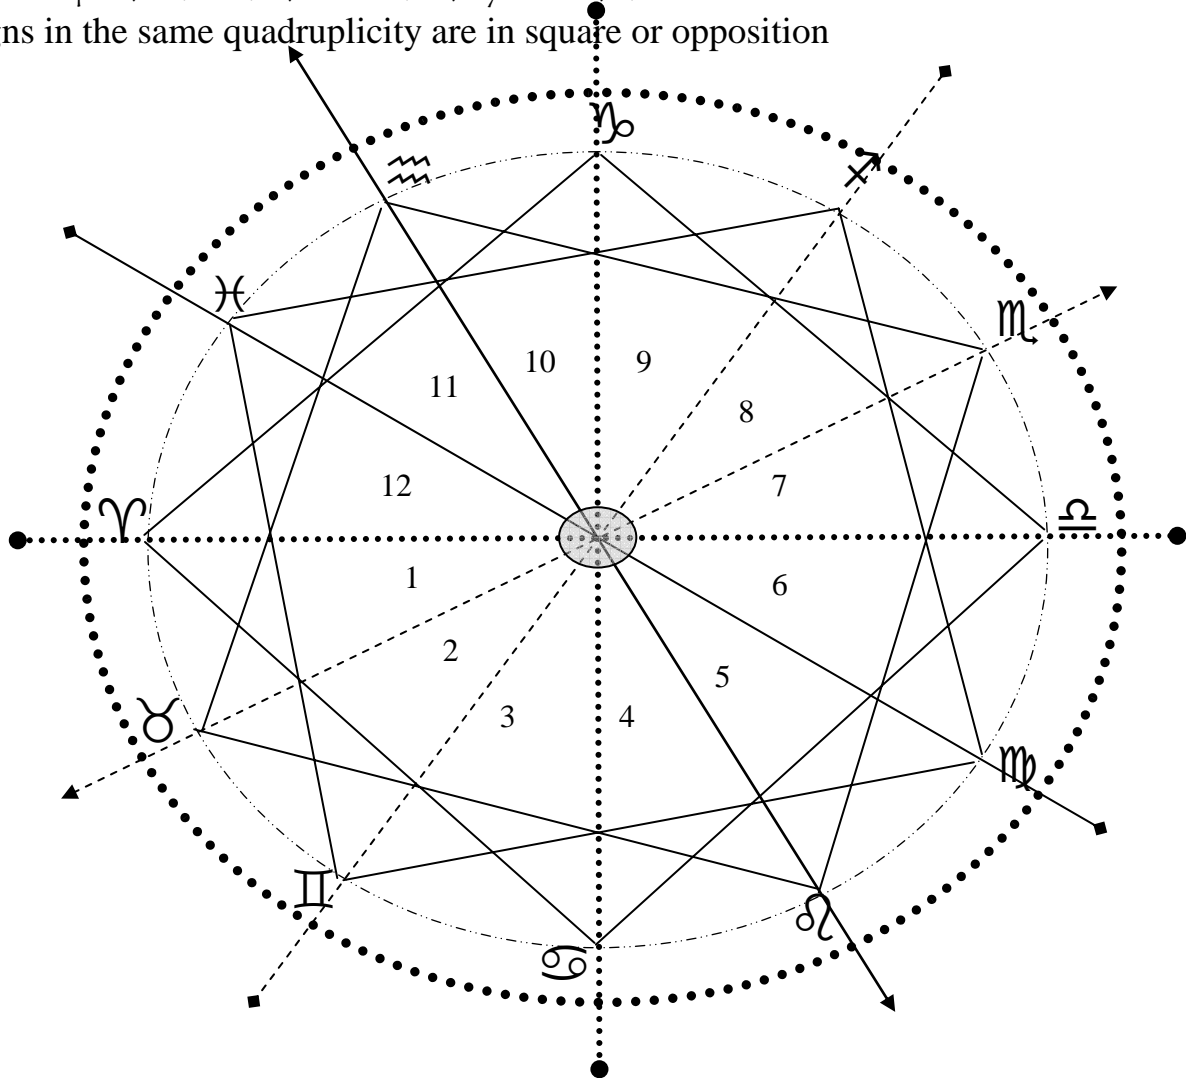

QUADRUPPLICITIES

There are four signs falling in the 3 characteristic and hence known as Quadruplets. The Three Qualities (Characteristic) are Cardinal, Fixed & Mutable.

Anything that requires needs move should be in the Movable Sign. Anything that requires Permanency should be in the Fixed Sign.

- Cardinal sign (Movable or Chara): Enterprising, Self Motivated, like to initiate and involve themselves in a project.
- Fixed Sign (Sthira): Detrmined Loyal and often resist change.
- Mutable sign (Common or Dwiswabhava): Adaptable, Flexible , unpredictable and Stimulated by new ideas.

Signs in the same quadruplicity are in square or opposition

POLARITIES

There are six signs in each polarity

The Two Polarities / Sex are Masculine / Positive and Feminine / Negative.

- Masculine or Odd Signs: If most of the planets or points occupy these Signs the native is more masculine in appearance and by nature, even though a female. They are also called cruel or fierce signs
- Female or Even Sign: If most of the planets or points occupy these Signs the native is more gentle and feminine in appearance and by nature, even though a male. They are also called as gentle or saumya signs.

Thus the above can be summarized as

	FIRE	EARTH	AIR	WATER
CARDINAL	Aries	Capricorn	Libra	Cancer
FIXED	Leo	Taurus	Aquarius	Scorpio
MUTUABLE	Sagittarius	Virgo	Gemini	Pisces
Profession	Kshatiyas	Shudras	Vaishnavas	Brahmins
Gender	Positive	Negative	Positive	Negative

The Trinity of the Zodiac

- Aries, Taurus and Gemini form the Intellectual Trinity
- Cancer, Leo and Virgo form the Maternal Trinity
- Libra, Scorpio and Sagittarius form the Reproductive Trinity
- Capricorn, Aquarius and Pisces form the Serving Trinity

Forms of Signs

- ◆ Quadrupeds (4 legged) - Aries, Taurus, Capricorn and Later half of Sagittarius.
- ◆ Bipeds (2 legged / Human) - Gemini, Virgo, Libra & 1st. half of Sagittarius and Aquarius.
- ◆ Keetapedes (Reptiles) - Scorpio, Pisces & Cancer.

Planets and Aspects

Aspects indicate opportunities and situations, either easy or difficult, which arise in life. Good aspects bring favourable opportunities or situations; whilst bad / hard aspects create difficult situations. But they do not obstruct progress or success in life.

Geometrical relationships between planets are called aspects. These relationships affect and modify the energies of the planets concerned. Some aspects have been shown to generate problematic events in our lives, while others seem to smooth the path with relation to the areas governed by the planets, signs and houses concerned.

Should a planet have difficult aspects, or be in an unsympathetic position in the zodiac, it is said to be afflicted. Its negative characteristics may be exhibited on occasions through unfortunate personality traits, or through difficult circumstances arising in your life. Should it have favourable aspects, however, its effects will be more beneficial.

Difficult aspects, especially to the "malefic" (dangerous) planets, are often quite problematic and can even be catastrophic in their effects. They are, naturally enough, more conducive to personal development, for they tend to generate complex results requiring considerable interpretation and self-analysis, while favourable aspects more often produce simple effects which are easy to understand. In any case, the chart must be viewed as a whole, for positive and negative characteristics may cancel each other out, or appear in mitigated forms, according to circumstances depending upon other factors.

Aspects usually described as difficult are :-

- ❖ opposition (180° apart on the chart circle)
- ❖ square (90°)
- ❖ semi-square (45°)
- ❖ sesqui-quadrate (135°)
- ❖ quincunx or inconjunct (150°) and
- ❖ contra-parallel (opposition of declension, or latitude).

Favourable aspects are :-

- ❖ trine (120°)
- ❖ sextile (60°)
- ❖ semi-sextile (30°) and
- ❖ parallel (conjunction in latitude).

Conjunction (0°) may be favourable, difficult, or both, depending to a great degree upon the nature of the planets involved.

Other aspects can be important in certain circumstances, as can the midpoints between planets, along with a number of other sensitive positions on the charts, but they are beyond the scope of the present discussion.

HOW THE ASPECTS EXPRESS

Conjunction	°	Sign	Express through	Prominence	Effect
Semi-sextile	30 ⁰	1		growth	Slightly Good
Sextile	60 ⁰	2		opportunity	Good
Square	90 ⁰	3		obstacle	Bad/hard
Trine	120 ⁰	4		luck	Very Good
Inconjunct	150 ⁰	5		expansion	Slightly Bad
Semi-square	45 ⁰	1.5		friction	Slightly Bad
Opposition	180 ⁰	6		separation	Very Bad
Sesquiquadrate	135 ⁰	4.5		agitation	Slightly Bad
Conjunction / parallel in declination	0 ⁰	same		intensity	Mixed

- ▶ When the aspect is formed between Sun or Moon and another planet 10 orb may be allowed and between Sun and Moon – an orb of 12
- ▶ When swifter of the two planets is going towards an aspect – it is an applying aspect and it is separating after completion.
- ▶ A separating aspect is stronger than an applying aspect. You can resist the evils of a separating aspect but it is not possible to resist against the evils of an applying bad aspect.
 - ▶ When two planets occupy the same degree of declination, whether N or S , they are in parallel position. Like the conjunction , its nature is variable and an Orb of only 1 is allowed.

THE GRAND CROSS

The Grand Cross, as its name implies, incorporates planets in square and opposition to each other and involves all four sign of a particular quality – Cardinal, Fixed or Mutable. It is sometimes referred to as a “Dilemma”, in that when it is triggered – especially by a transiting planet-everything seems to happen at once. As a result, people with this tricky combination often seems to lurch from crisis to crisis as if their mettle is constantly being tested. But if and when they finally master their formidable energies, they may be capable of quite exceptional result. People with a cardinal grand cross have tremendous drive and energy, but also meet with a great deal of resistance in achieving their aims. While they may blame others for the frustration they experience, may of it is self – induced , for they seldom plan or think carefully before they act and insist on doing everything their own way. Those with a Fixed Grand Cross Tend to do everything within their considerable power to keep things as they are . valuing reliability and preservation above all else, they will passionately hold out against anything or anyone who tries to upset their sense of order ; when change inevitably comes it is usually dramatic and sudden. Mutable grand cross types have n o difficulty accepting change – infact, this is their problem. Rather than face a challenge they tend to alter their course in the vain hope that by changing their external circumstances, they can avoid unwanted difficulties. The lesson they have to learn is that their conflicts arise from within, as a result of a lack of consistency and tendency to spread themselves too thinly.

THE GRAND TRINE

The Grand Trine consists of a triangle of three or more planets – including sensitive points such as the Ascendant and MC – which all make trine aspects to each other in one of the Elements (Fire, Earth, Air, Water). Traditionally, the Grand Trine was thought to be extremely fortunate, but the modern view is that on its own it may be too fortunate. Since it shows natural talents which usually emerge early on in life, there may be a tendency to take these gifts for granted and a corresponding lack of resolve to develop them. The effects are much more positive when one or more of the planets in Grand Trine also makes a hard aspect – such as a square or opposition – to another planet. This stiffens the ‘easy come, easy go’ attitude, urging the subject to put more effort into channeling their planetary energies purposefully. A more common version of a Grand Trine is the minor Grand Trine, which occurs when two planets trine each other and at the same time makes a sextile aspect to another planet. The effects are similar but often more dynamic since the sextile introduces a sense of perseverance that may otherwise be lacking.

The Stellium

A Stellium (also known as Satellitium) is an aspect pattern made up of three or more planets which are either in the same sign or in the same house (although if they are only in the same house and their signs are different, the effect is less intense.). the group of planets form a chain of conjunctions, so that while the first and last planets in the chain may not be in aspect to each other, they are joined through their conjunctions to the planets in between. The effect is to exaggerate the qualities of the sign(s) and house (s) in which the stellium falls – although sometimes overpoweringly so, at the expenses of any planets which do not happen to aspect this relatively common configuration.

The T-square

The T-Square-an opposition with one (or more) planets squaring both ends – is similar to the Grand Cross, expect that it has one 'arm' missing. It is held to be easier to handle than the Grand Cross, for the empty arm offers an escape route and creates less of a feeling of being torn four ways. The tensions sets up can also be released through any planet(s) which makes sextile or trine aspects to one of the planets within it.

The same sorts of dilemmas apply to the Cardinal, Fixed and Mutable qualities of the T-Square as to the Grand Cross. However, because the planetary energies are not as prone to being bottled up, people with this combination usually manage to sort out their inner problems more easily.

The finger of Fate (Yod)

The finger of fate (Yod) is a rare pattern in which two planets in sextile to one another are both quincunx (150 Deg.) to a third. The Yod takes its name from the Hebrew meaning ‘blessed’ and is reputed to have a quality of fate about it – in other words, the planets and houses involved point to a certain direction in life. This is not an easy pattern to work with, but if the tensions it shows can be resolved, great achievements are possible.

The Mystic Rectangle

The mystic rectangle is a complex pattern consisting of two oppositions, the ends of which form sextiles or trine to each other. Because of its shape, the flow of energy may be limited to the soft aspects, missing out the hard ones altogether and leaving important issues unresolved, as with the Grand Trine. However, if the oppositions are integrated, the blend of hard and soft aspects can result in the kind of dynamic tensions that enables peoples to develop their natural abilities to the full.

The kite

The kite occurs whenever three planets in a Grand Trine link up to another which opposes one and is sextile to the other two. Its effect is much the same as the Mystic Rectangle in that the many soft aspects can lead to a reluctance to face the difficulties shown by the planets in hard aspect. But again, if the issues shown by the opposition are confronted, the potential rewards are high.

DISSOCIATE PATTERNS

A Dissociate Grand Trine occurs when one planet of the triangle falls in a different element from the other two. This can only happen when the planets involved are either very near the end or at the beginning of their respective signs. Because one of the planets in this configuration falls in an inharmonious sign, the flow of energy is less stable than the pure Grand Trine. The errant planet introduces a quality of tensions rather than a square to the aspect pattern, and offers a greater chance of using the planets' collective energies assertively. Dissociate Grand Cross and T-Squares are also softer versions of their pure forms. At least one planet in the configuration falls in a different quality to the others, and consequently tones down the overall level of tension. The same principles apply to all dissociate aspect patterns.

The Planets

Astrologically, each sign symbolises certain specific characteristics in nature and, as the planets move through the signs, they stimulate (or perhaps simply reflect) reactions in the individual

Each planet symbolises particular sides of your character; for example, Mars stands for action and passion, Jupiter stands for fortune and higher thought and so on. Planets are located symbolically in the chart: the signs and houses filter their energies through the planets.

The Sun passes through one sign a month on its annual passage around the Zodiac.

Other planets, because they actually orbit the Sun, seem to travel rather erratically through the Zodiac. This is really an illusion, generated by our changing earthly perspective with respect to the planets' placement in their orbits, but it does have some interesting effects. From time to time, all planets except the Sun and Moon slow to a halt ("station") and then begin to move backwards through the Zodiac. This phase is called retrograde motion.

The Planets can be divided as under

The Sun and the Moon – also known as the lights

Inferior planets namely – Mercury and Venus followed by the Superior planets namely – Mars , Jupiter and Saturn

The two shadowy planets – The Nodes of the Moon – Rahu and Ketu

The Extra Saturnian planets namely- Uranus, Neptune and Pluto

The Sun (Sol)

Rules: Leo

Exalted: Aries

Detriment: Aquarius

Fall: Libra

Exalted Degree: 19 Aries

Principle: vitality , sense of individuality; creative energy; radiant inner self (attainments of sour); essential values.

Urges represented :urge to be and to create.

Needs symbolized: Needs to be recognized and to express self.

Positive expression : Radiation of spirit; creative and loving pouring of self.

Negative expressions : Pride, Arrogance; Excessive desire to be special.

The Sun, the life-giving heart of our solar system, rules will and individuality. It is the core of your potential and uniqueness as an individual: who you are and what you are about. It represents the main direction and focus you want your life to take and your determination to accomplish what you set out to do.

The Sun's position in your horoscope demonstrates the depth of your personal honesty and integrity, the ability to command respect and authority, to impress and influence others. It indicates the stamp of your character, the deepest flavour of your individuality.

- As significator denoted vitality, energy, ambition, love of reputation, glory and immortality.
- In the physical body the sun is sympathetic or representative of the heart.
- In the head it is representative of the eyes.
- In the soul it is representative of the power of love.
- In the mind it is representative of the understanding and the will to achieve one's purpose.
- If the sun is close to the meridian then the functions of ambition for power, honour and glory are emphasized; if the sun be close to the horizon, then the functions of vitality, energy and capacity to achieve are emphasized.

In Fire Sign

- basically motivated by inspiration and aspirations.
- Recharges energy through vigorous, physically demanding activity and by pursuing new visions for the future.

The Moon (Luna)

Rules: Cancer

Exalted: Taurus

Detriment: Capricorn

Fall: Scorpio

Exalted Degree: 3 Taurus

Principle :Reaction , Subconscious predisposition, Feeling about self (self-image), Conditional Responses.

Urges represented : Urge to feel inner support; Domestic and Emotional Security .

Needs symbolized : Need for emotional Tranquility and sense of belonging, Need to feel right about self.

Positive Expression: Responsiveness, inner contentment; flowing; adaptable sense of self.

Negative expression: over sensitivity; insecurity, inaccurate; inhibiting self of self.

The Moon reflects the power of the inner light, channeling - molding it into the shape of your personality. While the Sun stands for the character, or ego-self, the Moon displays your nature in a way that can be grasped by the outer world. Ruling desire as opposed to self, or need as opposed to reason, she indicates your feelings about yourself; how you handle relationships and your emotional response to situations&experiences.

The Moon manages the flow of your daily functions: physical, emotional and mental. The Moon symbolizes your home base and domestic environment, representing babies and young children, your mother and other important women in your life.

- As significator represents the emotional nature, the feelings, the sentiments and the habit forming mind.
- In early life it represents the mother, in a male horoscope it represents the wife in adulthood.
- In any horoscope it always has significance as relating to family affairs.
- In the physical body it governs the glandular body.

In Fire Sign

- Reacts to changing experiences witty direct action and enthusiasm.
- Feels comfortable when expressing confidence and strength.

In Earth Sign

- Reacts to changing experiences witty steadiness and stability.
- Feels comfortable with self when being productive and working towards goals.

In Air Sign

- Reacts to changing experiences witty forethought and objective evaluation.
- Feels comfortable witty self when expressing ideas & interacting.

In Water Sign

- Reacts to changing experiences witty sensitivity and emotion.
- Feels comfortable with self when feelings are deeply involved.

Moon's Nodes

In astrology, the Moon's Nodes are not planets in the strict astronomical sense, but rather sensitive points on the ecliptic, where the Moon crosses from north to south latitude and vice versa. The body of the "energy dragon" is the fourth-dimensional path of the Moon by declination, as she weaves her web around the earth. The nodes are commonly known as the Dragon's Head (Caput Draconis Latin), the North Node, and Dragon's Tail (Cauda Draconis), the South Node, although in Indian Astrology they are known as Rahu and Ketu. The Dragon's Head, a "shadow planet" exalted in Gemini, is considered benefic (good), whilst the Dragon's Tail, exalted in Sagittarius, is considered malefic (evil) in influence. Their motion is normally retrograde at the rate of roughly one degree every 19 days (compare the 19 year cycle of lunation); periods of direct motion are therefore considered unfortunate.

The Dragon's Head (North Node): Rahu

Rules: Virgo & Aquarius.

Exalted: Gemini & Taurus.

Detriment: Pisces & Leo.

Fall: Sagittarius & Scorpio

Aspects to the North Node concern or affect relationships to prevailing trends, attitudes and opportunities. The Dragon's Head represents your karmic objectives in this lifetime. It points the way towards soul growth and evolution. The sign holding your Dragon's Head reveals the flavour of your karma in this lifetime, while its house placement shows the area of life in which you need to develop, or become conscious of this karma. Positive aspects to the Dragon's Head are generally favourable from the benefics (Venus and Jupiter), Sun, Moon and Mercury, whilst sextile or trine from Mars, Uranus, Saturn, Neptune and Pluto also have beneficial effects. Square and opposition from the benefics and conjunction, square and opposition from the malefics are unfortunate, according to the matters signified by house and planet afflicted.

The Dragon's Tail (South Node): Ketu

Rules: Pisces & Scorpio

Exalted: Sagittarius & Scorpion

Detriment: Virgo & Taurus

Fall: Gemini & Taurus

Aspects to the Dragon's Tail display the results of innate unconscious tendencies and karmic patterns as they emerge in the life. They tend to be separative and destructive. Any aspect to the South Node from any planet is unfortunate for matters to do with the house and planet activated thereby. Past life hangovers are represented by the position and aspects of the Dragon's Tail.

Mercury

Rules: Gemini & Virgo.

Exalted: Virgo.

Detriment: Sagittarius & Pisces.

Fall: Pisces.

Exalted Degree: 15 Virgo

Principle : Communication, Conscious mind (i.e., logical or rational, mind),

Urge represented :Urge to express one's perceptions & Intelligence through skill or speech.

Needs symbolized : Need to establish connections with others, need to learn.

Positive Expression : Creative use of skill or intelligence, reason and power of discrimination used to serve higher ideals; ability to come to agreement through objective understanding and clear verbal expression.

Negative Expression: Misuse of skill or intelligence; amorality through rationalization of anything; opinionated and one-sided "communication".

Mercury symbolizes mentality: your intellect and mental outlook, the way you think and communicate. This fast-moving planet stands for ideas, methods and information, especially as expressed through communication and media. Through its ruler ship of your hands, Mercury indicates your manual dexterity and mechanical skills.

Mercury also governs transportation: how you get where you're going, both physically and mentally. Are you a hare, or a tortoise? Mercury's position in your chart will tell all!

- Acts on the perspective and intellectual faculties.
- Stimulates curiosity about things and desire for knowledge
- Directions to strong aspects of mercury promote business activity, desire for travel and promotes interest and success in learning.

Positive expression: Courage, Initiative, Will power Consciously directed towards legitimate aim.

Negative expression :Impatience, Violence, Improper use of force or threat.

Mars, the god of warriors, rules physical energy and efforts. His placement in your chart expresses the strength and direction of the physical force that drives your ego. Mars fires your emotions, but also powers your mental endeavors and communicative skills. The red planet governs energy, strength, courage, life force and expansion.

Mars describes male relationships and associations, risk-taking inclinations, and the physical challenges you are likely to encounter. Well-placed, Mars endows powerful energy and an indomitable will to succeed, but when poorly placed can mean accidents, injuries or other forms of violence, according to the inclinations of the sign and house concerned.

From a romantic point of view, Mars in a woman's chart shows the most desired kinds of men, whilst his placement in a man's chart indicates the activities or mode of action undertaken in pursuit of romantic inclinations and desires.

In ancient mythology, Venus, the beautiful love goddess, was always getting up to something with Mars, the fierce god of war. None of the other gods could ever work out what the lovely Venus saw in the headstrong, arrogant Mars, but she certainly fancied him, no matter what anyone else said or thought.

Governs the red corpuscles of the blood. His nature is drying and heating. He gives bodily vigour, ability, courage and combativeness. He strengthens the desires, the appetites and the passions. He gives success through enterprise, daring, adventure, combat, attention to material means and practical details. He excels in overcoming obstacles, either natural or human, more by forcefulness than by craft or strategy, unless indeed he be assisted by some other planet denoting craft and strategy, as for example, mercury, Saturn or Uranus. Mars is a very necessary element in most of the practical affairs of life. Without Mars humanity would be unable to function in any cold environment.

Negative expression : Overconfidence; laziness; scattering energy; leaving the work to others; irresponsibility; overextending self or promising too much.

Jupiter is masculine, disciplined, co-operative and priestly. He rules the potential for growth and expansion on many levels: physical, intellectual, spiritual, cultural, and the accumulation of material assets, power and status. Jupiter describes your optimism and aspirations.

Jupiter is a giant self-illuminating planet, radiating more energy than it receives, in keeping with his role as lord and teacher of the gods. Traditionally described as the greater fortune, Jupiter governs joy, luck and well-being. When well-aspected, he provides superb opportunities for expansion and success. Poorly aspected, he generates over-confidence and foolhardy actions with little care for the consequences.

Jupiter spends about a year in each sign, taking twelve years to complete the journey through all twelve signs.

- In the lowest aspect of human consciousness represents the love or desire for wealth, ease and desire of material means. Jupiter bestows on the individual not only the desire for wealth but also judgment and intelligence to obtain wealth and the sense of responsibility to conserve it.
- In the higher aspects of human consciousness, Jupiter represents benevolence, conscience and judicial considerations.

- In the highest aspects of human consciousness, Jupiter bestows wisdom, knowledge of divine things, reverence and spirituality.
- As a significator Jupiter stimulates the development of judgment and benevolence.
- Jupiter preserves the life, safeguards the health, prevents accidents or renders them harmless, gives honour, bestows power and wealth.
- In the highly developed he gives steadfast faith and the assistance of the highest order of spiritual world.

Positive expression: Disciplined effort, Acceptance of duties and responsibilities, Patience, Organisation, Reliability.

Negative Expression: Self- restriction through too much reliance on self and lack of faith , rigidity , coldness, defensiveness , grappling inhibition , fearfulness and negativity.

Saturn, the grim reaper, rules responsibilities, restrictions and limitations you are apt to encounter, and the lessons you must learn in life. He does not deny or diminish imagination, inspiration, spirituality, or good fortune, but he does demand that these things be given structure and meaning.

The karmic lessons we have come to experience and overcome in this lifetime are expressed by Saturn. He spends around two and a half years in each sign, taking about twenty-nine years on his journey through all the signs. Each twenty-nine years naturally presents us with the challenge to rise to new levels of awareness, or face the consequences of having failed to gain the wisdom required so to do.

- Denotes necessity for obedience to law. Necessity is the mother of invention.
- Teaches the value of labour, of patience, intelligence and economical use of time and material.
- Without Saturn men would lack bones, teeth, hearing, hair and skin.
- Saturn protects and limits the soul till it is capable of leaving its earthly conditions and entering its spiritual heritage.

In Fire signs

- Need to stabilize one's identity and express creative energy with more regularity and objectivity.
- Effort should be put into mastering the physical world and developing a systematic approach.

In Earth Sign

- Needs to stabilize ones efficiency and precession in work and in handling daily responsibility.
- Efforts should be put to mastering the physical world and developing a systematic approach.

In Air Signs

Detriment: Leo

Fall: Taurus

Exalted Degree: 23 Scorpio

Principle : Individualistic freedom, freedom of self ego

Urges represented: urge towards differentiation ,originality independence form tradition

Needs Symbolised :need for social approval ,need to rely on one's own resources and work.

Positive expression: Attunement to truth; originality Inventiveness, Directed experimentation ,respect for freedom.

Negative expression: Willfulness, restless impatience; constant need for excitement and purposeless change; rebellion; extremism.

Uranus, the planet of sudden and unexpected changes, rules freedom and originality. In society it rules radical ideas and people, as well as revolutionary events that upset established structures.

The personal implications of Uranus in your life are shown by its house position and its aspects with other planets in your chart. It describes areas of unpredictability and difference. Being highly unorthodox, Uranus identifies the unusual or unique. Friends and associations to which you belong are indicated, as is your potential involvement with arcane studies, science and technology, computers, and the media.

Uranus, one of the outer, transpersonal planets, takes around seven years to transit one sign, or about 84 years to move through all twelve signs. Groups of people with Uranus in the same sign are separated by 84 years, so the influence of this planet is primarily generational.

Neptune

Rules: Pisces

Exalted: Cancer

Detriment: Virgo

Fall: Capricorn

Exalted Degree: 3 Cancer

Principle : transcendent freedom; unification; freedom from self ego

Urges represented : urge to escape from the limitations of one's self and of the material world.

Needs symbolised : Need to experience a oneness with life a complete merger with the whole

Positive expression: Attunement with the whole realisation of spiritual dimension of experience; all-encompassing compassion living an ideal.

Negative expression: Self-destructive escapism ,evasion of responsibilities and refusal to face one's motives and to commit self to anything.

Neptune, the planet of deception and spiritual enlightenment, rules the oppressed and abandoned: the misfits of society. On a higher level it rules visionaries, and those who are glamorous and charismatic. It represents spirituality, mysticism, and ideals.

Speaking personally, Neptune's house position and its aspects with other planets in your chart will describe spirituality, abstract thinking, illusion, disillusionment, and areas of your life where things aren't always what they seem. It rules derangement, guilt, persecution and describes the potential for experiences related to confinement, abandonment, and addiction or physical intolerance to drugs and alcohol.

Neptune, one of the outer, transpersonal planets, spends about thirteen years in each sign, taking around 164 years to move through all twelve signs. Since 164 years separate people born during its transit of one sign and those born when it returns, Neptune's significance in any sign is described as generational or historical.

Uranus & Neptune:

- Are frequently regarded as malefic, but this opinion is derived from a shallow and shortsighted views of character and purpose.
- The evil they bring is caused by the ignoring of their proper purpose or by warping their forces into improper hand of activity.
- Both Uranus and Neptune are spiritual planets and act to develop and hasten human evolution.
- When an individual's evolution is retarded Uranus and Neptune act to remove the hindrances or obstructions. The hindrances to evolution are ignorance, greed, laziness, lust, tyranny, and prejudices. Therefore, the institutions, habits or characteristics to which these vices are attached are the ones apt to be assaulted or overthrown by Uranus or Neptune.
- Obstinate refusal to consider or apply spiritual principles to the life may cause these transcendental planets to act with tremendous malevolence in the life, either to limit the life from useless indulgence or to free the life from shackles binding it to useless hindrances. Considered from a physical standpoint Uranus and Neptune may be compared to high frequency electric phenomenon, requiring for its control extraordinary precaution in insulation and proper grounding.
- Neptune's vibrations are of such high frequency that they tend to break down the insulation in the brain cells and nerve fibers of the body unless a proper outlet is found for its activities. This is cause of the chaos or confusion or frequently ascribed to Neptune.

Pluto

Rules: Scorpio

Exalted: Leo

Detriment: Taurus

Fall: Aquarius

Exalted Degree: 15 Leo

Principle : Transformation; Transmutation; Elimination

Urges represented : urge towards total Rebirth, Urge to penetrate to the core of experience

Needs symbolized :need to refine self; need to go off the old though plain.

Positive Expression : Acceptance of the need to focus one's mind and will power on one's own transformation; having the courage to face one's deepest desires and compulsion and to transmute them through effort and intensity of experience

Negative Experience :compulsive expression of subconscious cravings; willful manipulation of others to serve one's own ends, ruthlessly using any means to avoid the pain of facing one's self; infatuation with power.

Pluto, the lord of the underworld, symbolises the forces of deep transformation in our lives. A slow-moving planet, Pluto's influence is in general most clearly noticeable as it distinguishes one generation from the next.

In your personal life, Pluto's significance is found in its house position and the aspects it makes to other planets in your chart. Pluto rules intense energy, signifying the areas in which you consciously or subconsciously seek to exercise power or control. Pluto, linked to your karmic responsibility, also indicates those areas where you need to gain deepest level of understanding. the

The outermost known planet in our system, Pluto completes its journey through all twelve signs in around 248 years. The period Pluto spends in each sign can vary from twelve years to thirty-two years, due to the eccentricity of its orbit.

Planet in Houses

The Sun

In the First ` Ambition and a love of power tend to be well supported by good health and vitality. Add to these courage and strength of will which may contribute much to success. Pride and a keen sense of honour are normally well-developed and the disposition is likely to be masterful with a leaning towards egotism. Practical capabilities, however, usually accelerates advancement, bringing recognition and the goodwill of superiors, while cheerfulness and an optimistic temperament help to ensure popularity.

In the Second House: Extravagance and a love of ostentation and splendor fortunately tend to be counterbalanced by the ability to acquire money easily. Another important factor often is the power to arouse the interest of those in influential positions who consequently may help considerably to further material prosperity.

In the Third House: Keen observation and eagerness for investigation increase the capacity for educational progress. Science and literature usually have a strong appeal. Occupational interests tend to come well to the fore and play a large part in the development of the personality. Love of change and travel also often help to widen the interests. Relatives may contribute to material prosperity.

In the Fourth House: Filial sentiments and family ties are strong and inheritance through the parent is probable. Occupations connected with land or property have normally a strong appeal and ability for this kind of thing is marked. Constitutional weakness may be a feature of early life and there may be an uphill struggle against adverse circumstances. These difficulties tend to disappear in later life. Some tendency towards secrecy and a highly reserved temperament.

In the Fifth House: Love of pageantry and social occasions is usually well marked, with consequent attention to amusement and pleasure. Charm of personality tends to arouse the interest of the opposite sex. Music and drama have a strong appeal. It is likely that the family will be limited.

In the Sixth House: Considerable administrative efficiency usually brings well-paid positions well within reach and success is promised in responsible posts, preferably under the direction of others. Liability to frequent changes of occupation owing to a feeling of not being sufficiently appreciated. There may be some constitutional delicacy and proneness to disease, with slow powers of recuperation.

In the Seventh House: Marriage tends to assume considerable importance, usually bringing improvement of social status. The marriage partner is likely to be a person of exceptional loyalty and magnanimity. Popularity, especially with superiors, is another feature which may contribute to early success. Litigation tends to produce favourable results, possibly through the kindly interest of the judge.

In the Eighth House : Probability of financial benefit by marriage, although this may be dissipated by the extravagance or generosity of the marriage partner. Gain by inheritance is likely. The chances of a long life tend to be reduced and in the case of a woman there is some likelihood of widowhood. A possibility of posthumous fame.

In the Ninth House : High ideals and lofty ambitions go hand in hand as a general rule with tolerance and depth of understanding. There is a love of travel and probably much attention to matters of a highly enterprising nature. Intellectual and scientific pursuits have a strong attraction and there is usually much ability for the professions, such as university work, the law, the church the civil service.

In the Tenth House : Success and the ability to hold positions of trust are probable, but the benevolent interest of superiors is likely to be another important factor. Public recognition may result in election to public office. Or a state appointment with considerable responsibility may be made.

In the Eleventh House : Friends and acquaintances, especially those in positions of responsibility, may contribute largely to early success and the realisation of the ambitions. Social prestige is likely to be enhanced by progress in business, for ability to hold executive posts in public companies or societies is probable.

In the Twelfth House : Possibility of conflict with those in authority or incompatibility in family life strengthen the inclination for seclusion and a quiet, retired life. Those in a superior position are likely to give assistance if necessary. Ability for hospital or prison work, or laboratory research is highly probable. There may be setbacks during early life and a possibility of estrangement from family and friends.

THE MOON

In the First House : Considerable restlessness is usually tempered by an easy-going disposition, but love of travel is likely to be strongly marked. A roving existence is by no means unlikely. Sociability tends to be a strong feature and there is likely to be considerable ability in all those occupations which bring the person into close contact with the general public. Thrift may play an important part in the accumulation of wealth.

In the Second House : There is likely to be considerable fluctuation in finances, although they tend to be on a satisfactory basis. The chief danger appears to reside in a marked love of opulence and general extravagance. These tendencies, however, are counterbalanced by spasmodic spells of great thrift and devotion to the simple life.

In the Third House : Love of change and variety is likely to encourage travel and stimulate interest in those occupations, such as newspaper work, in which novelty is the dominant element. Publicity may have a strong appeal. Mental activity widens the range of the interests, possibly at the price of superficiality. Assimilative capacity makes for an easily educated person, but the driving force tends to come from imagination rather than intellect.

In the Fourth House : Family life tends to be an important factor in the development of personality and the major interest are usually centered round domestic questions. Frequent removals may occur, but gain can normally be expected from houses and land. Financial benefit may also come from inheritance.

In the Fifth House : Inconstancy and unusually fickle affections are linked up with a love of gambling and speculation. There may be a rather exaggerated interest in amusement and social activities. Fondness for children is usually strongly marked and it is highly probable that marriage will result in a large family.

In the Sixth House : Service is likely to be the key to success and the greatest benefits tend to come from work in a subordinate capacity. A possibility of some material gain from inferiors, although it is for initiative and responsibility likely to be limited and the best results will tend to come from work performed under direction.

In the Seventh House : Popularity tends to confer success in all dealings with the public at large and contributes to social success. Money or property may result from marriage and partnerships are likely to prove profitable. Probable interest in public life and the ability to hold official positions. Some liability to loss through litigation.

In Eighth House : Possibility of money by legacy, or through mother, wife, or partner. Several children are likely, though there is a chance that some of them may die. There may be some financial losses after marriage or litigation greatly reducing the benefits derived from legacies. Considerable respect likely to be accorded after death.

In the Ninth House : Strong interest in religious and philosophical questions is likely, with a learning towards mysticism. Imagination is usually strong and tends to encourage mental changeability. The person often experiences dreams of unusual vividness. Much travel, especially by sea, is probable and is likely to be productive of gains. Publicity may be centred on the person, possibly in connexion with a change of religious opinion which attracts grave censure. Impulse and over-hasty conclusions may create difficulties in travel.

In the Tenth House : Popularity and prosperity are likely to come from success in public ventures. Feminine interest is likely to be aroused and success usually comes from occupations in connection with the public at large. Thrift helps considerably in the accumulation of property although there may be some gains from external sources. Reversals of fortune, scandal and public censure may result from unfavourable conditions.

In the Eleventh House : A wide range of friends brings popularity and success in connection with societies, associations and clubs. Women tend to play a large part in the life. There is a possibility of danger, however, from self-seeking friends who presume on friendship to further their own ambitions.

In the Twelfth House : Home life tends to be favoured or an occupation involving seclusion, such as nursing, prison work, or charitable work. There is a liability to indulge in clandestine love affairs although these need not necessarily be disastrous. The major danger would appear to be deceit, secret enmity and treachery.

MERCURY

In the First House : Quickness of wit and mental ingenuity tend to be strongly marked making for an argumentative disposition with considerable resourcefulness and probably ability as a public speaker. There is likely to be vital love of knowledge, devotion to study and interest in literary pursuits. Adaptability is a striking feature, but there is some danger of degenerating into vacillation and diffidence.

In the Second House : Gain is likeliest to come from Mercurial occupations and some form of agency or an occupation in which the person acts as messenger often proves highly lucrative. Considerable skill in the handling of money is normally another interesting feature. Books tend to exercise an inordinate fascination and there will probably be considerable expenditure in this direction. Financial loss, when it occurs, is likely to come from defective reasoning or unwise speculation at the instigation of a friend.

In the Third House : Serenity and an optimistic outlook tend to enhance the mental faculties and encourage a love of study. There is likely to be considerable practical ability and success is probable in such occupations as journalism, teaching, or clerical work. Also in all occupations in which the handling of messages figures, such as work as a postman or telegraph clerk. Harmony usually characterises dealings with others member of the family and considerable benefit may be derived from their assistance.

In the Fourth House : Home conditions are likely to assume undue importance and environment may cause much mental disturbance. Instability and frequent changes of residence may result. Benefit tends to accrue from occupations such as publishing, newspaper work, scholastic work, or the running of registry offices or estate agencies. Gain may also arise from study or literary work pursued at home.

In the Fifth House : Refinement tends to be an important characteristic, but interests usually centre more around mental activities than sensual pleasures. Ability for drama or acting may be conferred. All occupations, in fact, connected with entertainments, theatres, or singing tend to be productive of gain. Children usually play a large part in the life and have a special fascination. Where losses arise they may be due to speculation or come through children.

In Sixth House : Too much mental activity is likely to be the chief source of difficulties. There is a liability, under the spur of ambition, to over-tax the physical resources and create health troubles. In particular, disarrangement of the nervous system may result in digestive disorders. Trouble arising from dealings with servants or subordinates also tends to induce worry. In the main, success is likeliest to come from work in a subordinate capacity, such as clerk or assistant. Keen interest in dietetics, however, may produce success along these lines.

In the Seventh House : Popularity in literary and scientific circles and considerable ability as a public speaker contribute largely to success. Partnership is likely to be an important factor in connection with the occupation, especially an alliance with a younger person. There is a possibility of marriage to a relative or employee, prefaced by much correspondence or travel. Intellect tends to be a stronger force than the emotions. There may be much hostile criticism at some period of the life and this may result in litigation based upon a libel action.

In the Eighth House : Mercurial occupations in partnership, or some form of literary or scientific agency, are the most promising sources of gain. Financial benefits may also come by marriage or by a legacy. In the case of the latter, litigation is likely to ensue. Questions of finance tend to exercise the mind and there may be periodic difficulties in connexion with money.

In Ninth House : Travel is likely to be an important factor and the occupation may be linked up with it in some way. The power of self-expression is strong, bestowing ability for such things as literary or philosophical work, the law, or the diplomatic service. Instability is likely to constitute the gravest obstacle to success and there is a liability to make frequent drastic changes of opinion with consequent re-orientation of the endeavours. This inconstancy is likely to be an element in the difficulties which may arise with superiors and legal troubles also are by no means unlikely.

In the Tenth House : Resourcefulness and great mental activity are conducive to the necessary ability for coping with the contingencies of life. Success in publishing, lecturing, or writing and similar pursuits dependent upon the power of vivid self-expression is highly probable. In general, however, the maximum success results from efforts in a subordinate capacity. Business ability is usually strong, with the necessary qualities for public office or posts of responsibility under superiors.

IN the Eleventh House : The literary and scientific worlds tend to assume great importance in the development of personality and friends drawn from these circles usually help considerably in the attainment of success. Intellectual keenness and oratorical fervour tend to enhance the reputation in connexion with societies and associations, but there is a liability to drift into a hypercritical attitude and to indulge too freely in cynicism. Some danger may arise from slander or treacherous friends.

In the Twelfth House : Literary work or scientific research are likely to constitute the major interests. Worry and over-attention to trifles are the gravest menace to peace of mind and latent mental ability may fail to be developed owing to lack of suitable practical opportunities. Travel may be productive of difficulties or slander and loss may arise from the family or acquaintances.

VENUS

In the First House : Amiability and a cheerful temperament help popularity and there is usually great love of companionship and social life. There may be a craving for pleasure and with this is likely to be lined much devotion to the arts, especially music and drama. The power of attracting others may be an important factor in achieving success.

In the Second House : To natural ability in handling finance is usually added the necessary magnetism of personality which ensures the good-will and assistance of others. Friends and associates tend to offer lavish attention and may render possible the attainment of lucrative positions. There may be some tendency towards extravagance, probably arising from the inordinate interest in clothes, jewellery and amusements. Excessive generosity may result in the squandering of money on the objects of the affections, but fortunately in most instances inherent prudence curbs this tendency.

In the Third House : Interest in literature, music and painting is likely to be marked and gain may arise from these sources. Travel is another potential source of profit and pleasure. A sunny disposition attracts the interest and affection of others and most contacts will tend to be characterised by harmonious relationships. This is likely to be particularly marked in the case of brothers and sisters.

In the Fourth House : Domestic environment tends to play a large part in enriching the personality and there will be intense love of beautiful furniture and home surroundings. Home life usually creates much happiness, especially in later years. Gain is possible through the parents.

In the Fifth House : Social intercourse, pleasure and amusements tend to be the chief centre of interest. Contact with others on terms affection will contribute much to happiness and popularity is likely to be an extremely important feature. Interest in the arts and practical ability in those branches which encourage social intercourse is likely and much gain will probably result. Another source of benefit would be teaching or publishing. Some ability for the successful manipulation of stocks and shares is also possible. Happiness in married life and deep attachment to children are likely to be other important features.

In the Sixth House : Harmony tends to prevail in occupational matters and smooth co-operation with others is likely to facilitate the achievement of success. The good-will of both servants and superiors and popularity with fellow workers are highly significant and most relationships will consequently tend to be beneficial. Health is likely to be good but abuse of the physical resources would be likely to result in chronic invalidism.

In the Seventh House : Marriage tends to play an important part, being productive of both personal happiness and material benefit, and may take place at an early age. Popularity helps in the achievement of success in public life, but successful partnership is likely to be an important element. Artistic ability is likely to be above the average and there is the necessary charm of personality to gain the good-will of the public.

In the Eighth House : Marriage, partnership and inheritance are likely to be the vital issues, being productive either of great benefits or of heavy losses. Personal happiness is probable in marriage in spite of the possibility of some disappointment in love. Estrangement is likely to be the greatest obstacle.

In the Ninth House : Idealism and sensitiveness to the poetry of life help to enhance the charm of personality. Good taste in artistic matters and an intense love of beauty tend to have as their complements sympathetic understanding for others and great generosity. Religion, particularly the devotional aspect, is likely to exercise a strong appeal but it is probable that the practical angle along the lines of charitable work will also receive attention. There will probably be a love of travel and foreign countries, resulting in both pleasure and pecuniary gain. There is a possibility of marriage to a foreigner or in a strange land.

In the Tenth House : Popularity, especially with the opposite sex, and a wide circle of acquaintances are usually indicative of harmonious contacts in both public and private life. Success is likely to be accelerated as a result of the benevolent interest of superiors. Marriage tends to improve the social status, but gain may also come through the parents. Comfortable financial circumstances permit the cultivation of a cheerful and optimistic outlook and the extraction of the maximum enjoyment from the pleasure of life. In unfavourable conditions there is likely to be frustration in the social life arising from the contempt of superiors, possibly enhanced by the consequence of a hasty marriage. The absence of favourable opportunities for the full development of natural talent is likely to be the gravest obstacles to advancement.

In the Eleventh House : Friends tend to assume great importance and interest centres round social contacts. The interest and assistance of others is usually present in the endeavours and there is little likelihood of efforts being made in isolation. The danger lies in the treachery or insufficient ability of associates and the possibility of being used for other ends.

In the twelfth House : Some secluded occupation is likely to suffer the maximum possibilities of gain, or work of a rather commonplace nature. There is a tendency to indulge in clandestine love affairs, with the consequent dangers of scandal and estrangement. Social ostracism may be the outcome of malicious slander on the part of secret enemies. Love affairs tend to reach an unhappy climax and there is a tendency to marry someone of inferior social standing.

MARS

In the first house – courage, confidence, enterprise and industriousness are usually the salient attributes. Marked administrative ability and speedy execution of projects tend to ensure early success. In favourable circumstances strong passions are kept in hand by a firm will. Natural energy and physical endurance may have to be brought into play to counteract the effects of an inherent tendency to rashness and foolhardy recklessness. Trouble may arise from careless neglect of ordinary health precautions or abuse of physical resources. There is a proneness to feverish disorders and accidents are likely to be precipitated by impulsive actions.

In the Second House : Individual effort is likely to be the greatest factor in the acquisition of wealth and money tends to be a big incentive to endeavour. Occupations connected with the use of fire or machinery are likely to be productive of the maximum pecuniary benefit. Generosity may be carried to the point of extravagance and there will be a strong liability to squander the earnings. Money may also come through inheritance, but expenditure will always tend to be heavy and although much money may pass through the hands little of it will remain. Frequent financial disaster is possible, but recovery will tend to be swift and losses rarely depress.

In the Third House : Mental alertness and executive ability, backed by initiative and resourcefulness, facilitate early success. A critical, even carping, disposition, however, may alienate the sympathies of others and create a state of isolated endeavour. An argumentative disposition and violent dogmatism tend to be productive of frequent quarrels, especially with relatives or neighbours. Correspondence is often the medium for disputes. There may be a possibility of accidents during short journeys.

In the Fourth House : Aggressive acquisitiveness is likely to stimulate efforts to accumulate wealth and possessions, but personal endeavour may be supplemented by inheritance or gain by marriage. Domestic disturbances are highly probable and home life may be marred by frequent quarrels. There is some danger of accidents or fire in the home. Possibly, theft. Land or property may tend to be a constant source of annoyance and worry. An unruly disposition tends to create nervous disorders, especially in the shape of digestive trouble.

In the Fifth House : Love of sport is likely to be well developed and there will be much attention to pleasure. Interest in the opposite sex will tend to be strong, but is balanced by a capacity for loyal companionship. Leadership is likely to be the dominant principle, well supported by excellent disciplarian capabilities. Gain may come through speculation, amusements, sport, or by the exercise of the power of leadership, especially in connexion with teaching. Inconstancy tends to be the most blatant fault. Children would probably be unruly, causing disappointment and anxiety.

In the Sixth House : Energy and industriousness facilitate promotion to responsible positions, but efforts should be in connexion with some large concern where they are under the control of a superior. Individual effort tends to have less chance of success. There is a liability to trouble and quarrels with the employer or with fellow workers. The major successes tend to be in occupations of a mechanical nature, dealing with metals, or connected with medicine. Exceptional vitality tends to strengthen the powers of recuperation, but there is a liability to feverish disorders, inflammation and accidents sustained in the course of the occupation.

In the Seventh House : An impetuous temperament tends to precipitate an early marriage but benefit usually results. The marriage partner often is a person of strong and forceful character, with great energy and a love of domination. Unless mutual tolerance is exercised there may be consequent friction and considerable incompatibility of temperament. There is frequently a liability to arouse the opposition and criticism of others, thus creating unnecessary friction which may mar social relationships.

In Eighth House : Pecuniary gain by marriage, legacy, or partnership is highly probable. Litigation would tend to result in benefit. In unfavourable conditions, however, these things are equally liable to be productive of loss. There may also be unusual susceptibility to accidents and health may be endangered by feverish troubles.

In the Ninth House : Religion is likely to be a focusing point of attention either in the shape of zealous support or philosophical antagonism. Mental alertness is stimulated by a love of change and there is likely to be considerable fondness for a roving existence. Excellent capacity for propaganda work tends to ensure success in political life, in legal work, or in missionary activities. A somewhat contentious nature may degenerate into fanaticism. Religious apostasy and general inconstancy of purpose may result from indifference and scepticism. Disagreements with relatives are possible. Travel may be marred by frequent mishaps or a hostile reception may be encountered when in strange surroundings.

In the Tenth House : Driving ambition is fortunately usually backed by inexhaustible energy and vitality. A masterful temperament in alliance with exceptional executive ability permits the surmounting of obstacles in the way of success. Courage and independence may result in social prominence or activity in the political sphere. All occupations using sharp tools (and this includes such things as surgery and dentistry), engineering and work in connexion with fire and the metals are conducive to success. There is a possibility of inheritance from the father, but there is some danger of friction due to a domineering attitude which resents authority or restraint. Undue assertiveness and an autocratic manner may rouse the enmity of others and introduce an element of strife into social contacts.

In the Eleventh House : Capacity for social leadership and enthusiastic pursuit of pleasure usually help to attract a wide circle of friends, particularly among people interested in sports and energetic activities. There may be some tendency to undue sensitiveness or touchiness likely to produce frequent disputes or over-ambitiousness may lead to disagreements and frustration.

In the Twelfth House : Considerable administrative ability usually produces success in institutional employment or in estate management. There is some possibility of persecution or slander at the instigation of secret enemies, with consequent loss of reputation. Disagreements with subordinates may be another unwelcome feature and there is a liability to suffer imprisonment or restraint.

JUPITER

There is likely to be considerable love of pleasure, especially travel and outdoor pursuits. Executive ability normally bestows the power to hold positions of responsibility and administrative importance. Occupations connected with banking, the law, shipping, medicine and the civil service are likely to bring success. Self-indulgence, especially in the shape of gluttony, may lead to blood disorders.

In the Second House : Financial talent and the ability to accumulate wealth are frequent marked characteristics and there is a possibility of amassing great wealth. Considerable power may be exercised through financial influence.

In the Third House : An optimistic temperament and philosophical turn of mind often enable the maximum benefit to be derived from educational facilities. Popularity, especially with members of the family and neighbours, may also result. Travel and correspondence may be important factors in the development of personality and publications are likely to enhance the reputation.

In the Fourth House : Domestic environment is frequently of great importance and home conditions will play an important part in shaping the character. Parents often contribute much to success and there is a possibility of inheritance through them. Business affairs will tend to evolve on a sound basis with the prospect of material prosperity as life advances. Gain through land or property is highly probable. Extravagance or ostentation may be the greatest factors in sapping the resources. Where home conditions are adverse, success may only be possible in a flesh environment.

In the Fifth House : Social success is highly probable and friends may bring not only pleasure, but material benefits. Gain by speculation is possible and there will probably be keen interest in horse-racing and betting. Success in teaching or by publishing activities frequently occurs. Children tend to confer much happiness and there is a strong possibility of a large family. Dangers are likeliest to arise from excessive gambling, over-attention to pleasure at the expense of occupation, and friction with children.

In the Sixth House : The ability to inspire respect and the willing co-operation of subordinates and fellow workers is an important factor in ensuring success. A capacity for loyal service is another invaluable attribute. Health is normally good. Success may come through work in connexion with medicine or dietetics.

In the Seventh House : Marriage and partnership are likely to confer great benefits and result in material gain. The assistance of friends and acquaintances is usually of great importance and co-operation is frequently rendered easy by unique ability in conciliating opponents. Success in the: Natural benevolence and a philosophical outlook professions, especially law and the church, is probable. There may be some delay in marriage, or friction resulting from it, or difficulties may be created by misplaced confidence in an associate.

In the Eighth House : Gains are most probable through marriage, legacy, or partnerships although the occupations will also produce material benefits. Litigation is often unsuccessful and tends to result in losses.

In the Ninth House strengthen the tendency towards religious interests. Mysticism is often a characteristic, but the general inclination is towards orthodoxy and established principles. Tolerance and broadmindedness, however, in doctrinal issues tend to inspire general respect. Travel is conducive to gain. There is usually the ability to hold high office in church or state. Arrogance and extremism are the faults most likely to be indulged.

In the Tenth House : Public office, possibly a sinecure, is likely and the occupation will tend to bring material prosperity and social prestige. Gain is also probable through inheritance. Great nobility of character tends to inspire universal esteem. Certainly, the ability to hold a position of considerable responsibility tends to be a normal feature. Unreliability, however, may produce reversals of fortune and the diminution of prestige.

In the Eleventh House : Wealth and influential friends tend to facilitate the realisation of the ambitions. There is likely to be much love of social life and consequent popularity. Successful children may be a gratifying feature. The chief danger, however, lies in the attraction of undesirable parasites as friends.

In the Twelfth House : A philanthropic disposition and kindly interest in schemes for the amelioration of others often result in success in institutional work. Lavish donations to relieve indigence may be a feature. Willingness to help others is often reciprocated by willingness on the part of others to offer assistance if required. Indolence or poor health may result in improvidence necessitating the acceptance of shelter in some charitable institution.

SATURN

In the First House : Industriousness allied with patient persistence and self-control is usually sufficiently marked to ensure success. Self-confidence is normally justified by sound, practical ability. A penetrating mind makes for shrewdness, while moral stability guarantees steadfast loyalty to a cause. There may be some aversion for responsibility, possibly due to timidity generated by self repression.

A tendency to secretiveness and suspicion may result in unpopularity. Gloominess and frustration are often the outcome of a perpetual struggle against adverse circumstances. The early loss of one of the parents may react badly on childhood.

In the Second House : Business acumen, thrift and prudence contribute largely to the accumulation of wealth, but the process of acquisition may be slow. There is a possibility also of gain by inheritance. Parsimony may result from what is often a bitter struggle to gain money and there may be inability to take full advantage of the material benefits presented. Losses by bad investment, speculation, or business failure are by no means unlikely.

In the Third House : A serious and penetrating mind, well capable of concentration usually induces the qualities of tact, justice and honesty. These attributes may, however, be vitiated by thwarted education in youth, resulting in indifference and indolence. Misunderstandings with members of the family and neighbours are likely to be common. There may also be trouble or loss through travel or correspondence. Frequent disappointments may inculcate a habit of gloomy foreboding and despondency.

In the Fourth House : There may be some gain through land or houses, but in the main home life tends produce cares, deprivations, and a need for the imposition of strict discipline. Domestic trouble is likely to be a marked feature. Parents may occasion sorrow or there may be difficulties attendant upon inheritance. A craving for seclusion is likely to characterise the later years.

IN the Fifth House : Speculation, especially in houses, lands and mines, tends to be favoured and there is a possibility of holding public office, preferably in the educational sphere. Trouble in connexion with a love affair, or an attachment to an older person, is possible. Children may occasion sorrow.

In the Sixth House : Success is likely to come in a managerial capacity for there is usually considerable ability for the tactful handling of people. Quiet discipline is normally marked characteristic. There may, however, be some friction at times with subordinates and trouble arising from them. There may even be difficulty in obtaining employment. The powers of recuperation tend to be slight and ill-health may degenerate into chronic invalidism, there being a liability in particular to rheumatism and colds.

In the Seventh House : Marriage is likely to be delayed and will probably be to someone of more advanced years, possibly a widow or widower. Loyal co-operation is likely to characterise the union and material benefit may ensue. There is a possibility of surviving the marriage partner. Trouble and loss may arise through litigation or treachery on the part of associates.

In the Eighth House : Marriage plays an important part in improving or reducing the chances of prosperity. The major gains, however, are likely to come from hard work and sustained effort. Some danger to reputation and the disfavour of superiors may be threatened. Where health is good, long life is usually likely.

In the Ninth House : Strong orthodox opinions on religious and philosophic questions usually make for the right temperament to hold an official position at the head of a college or institution. There is also likely to be strong ability in a judicial capacity. Narrow-minded bigotry and self-deception tend to be the commonest faults. Trouble is likely to arise from travel, foreign countries, or litigation.

In the Tenth House : Self-reliance and ambition, backed by determination and perseverance tend to characterise the self-made man. Strong moral qualities and sound business capacity encourage the holding of prominent posts with great responsibility. Organising ability is likely to be strong and is often spurred on by a desire for social prestige. The grave danger is likely to come from the use of social prestige. The grave danger likely to come from the use of questionable methods, overstepping the ambitions, and dishonourable conduct, resulting in exposure and ignominious downfall.

In the Eleventh House : A few and faithful friends are likely to give valuable assistance in the shape of sound advice based on experience. Aries

The first sign of the Zodiac

The Sign of the Pioneer , the Warrior

Symbol: The Ram

♈ Glyph/ picture - represents the horns and long nose of the ram.

It also pictures the eyebrows and nose of man two half moons joined by a straight line indicates idealism tied to authority and leadership

Classification: Cardinal, Fire, Positive, Masculine, Of Short Ascension, Equinoctial, Rising by the head.

Principal: Self Assertiveness - “I AM”

Aries is a “me first” sign. They strongly project their own personalities and can be quite selfish.

Opposite Sign: Libra -Sign of partnership. They feel incomplete without a partner or lover and strive for happiness as a pair.

Lord/ Ruler: Mars
Exhalation: of Sun
Detrimental: of Venus
Fall: of Saturn

Transit of Sun: 21st. March – 20th. April

General Notes on the Group:

Posses strong convictions coupled with great physical courage. Audacity is the keynote of their whole personality and they are supremely ambitious and keenly enterprising.

The inevitable complements of their qualities are a tendency to reckless and extravagances of ideas and actions. They tend to give too free expression to their impatience of those slower than themselves and to become irritable on slight provocation. Obvious egotists, they are inclined to boast of their own capabilities at times.

They have sufficient confidence and aggressiveness to make them exceptionally successful in executive positions where their independence of outlook is a strong asset. Speaking generally, they do best when in competition with others.

Physical dangers center round the head and there is some liability for them to suffer from such complaints as neuralgia, insomnia, and eye troubles.

As a general rule, their occupation should be connected in some way with the use of fire or metals. Engineering or mechanical work involving the use of tools (and this may include even such things as surgery) are eminently suitable. But they also do well as pioneers in such activities as retail business organization.

Represented Mars - the ancient god of war & aggression. An afflicted Mars influence / fosters tension and accidents. It rules over fire and danger.

THE DECANATES OF ARIES

Decanate 1: (0⁰ – 10⁰)

These are people with strong characters and very clear ideas of what they want in life, backed up by excellent administrative ability and considerable fertility of ideas. Highly competent people, they find their ideal occupation in the public service and often shine in such professions as teaching, the law, medicine, and literature. Friends usually contribute much to the development of their personality and they gain a great deal from the free exchange of ideas.

Decanate 2: (11⁰ - 20⁰)

Highly ambitious people with excellent organizing ability, these are nevertheless the type of individual who tends to be carried away by impulse. Although generous to a fault they love to domineer over those in contact with them and their masterful personality may at times limit their sympathy for others. In their case the choice of an occupation should make allowance for the development of the wide range of their interests and their marked creative ability. Certainly, they are conspicuous by virtue of their vitality and remarkable powers of recuperation, but they need to be on their guard against the force of their emotions that may exert too much sway at times.

Decanate 3 : (21⁰ - 30⁰)

Success is easy for this group of people if only they make full use of their outstanding intellectual capacity. Danger for them lies in the fact that emotional issues tend to clog their mental processes and consequently they definitely need to concentrate on rational and logical thought. Great successes could be theirs in the service of some worthy ideal and it is essential for them to get their efforts rightly directed. Once mental discipline has been attained they make rapid strides.

Principal: Dependability & Determination - “I have”

Taurus is the sign of property and money. It's natives put a high regard on collecting possessions and are known to cling to what is theirs.

Opposite Sign: Scorpio - the sign of legacies and shared wealth. The wealth of Scorpion people tends to be spiritual rather than material that they give to other in the form of teaching writing and healing.

Lord/ Ruler: Venus

Exhaltation: of Moon

Detrimental: of Mars

Fall: of Hershel / Uranus

Transit of Sun: 21th. April – 20th. May

General Notes on the Group:

Represented by Venus-Roman goddess of Beauty and art, pleasure, emotions.

Stability and constructiveness are the dominant features of the personality. Highly methodical and persevering, great reliance can be placed upon members of this group and they are usually characterized by honorable dealings, especially in all money matters.

The danger is that stability may drift into stagnation and strength of character become mere obstinacy. Love of conservative ideas tends to mar their vision and to discourage initiative.

Thoroughness is a marked characteristic of all their work but there may be some deficiency of discrimination and an undeveloped critical faculty. There is great danger of estimating solely on a materialistic basis, but where sheer doggedness and solidity are desirable these folks are supreme.

Physically there is a tendency to put on too much weight and there may also be some trouble connected with the throat.

In occupational matters their constructive ability should be given free play. They do well in all types of building and also in such things as business connected with clothing, confectionery, or jewellery. As might be expected, agriculture also often offers them excellent prospects of success.

THE DECANATES OF TAURUS

Decanate 1 : (0° – 10°)

Highly practical, these are the people who can always be relied upon. In fact, they are if anything too conscientious and steady. They do possess, however, the ability to get on with others easily and when it comes to a question of tackling a problem on sound lines and planning the details of a scheme they come into their own. It takes a great deal to distract their attention from their goal and they achieve results by sheer dogged persistence.

Decanate 2 : (11° – 20°)

Complexity of personality is very marked in these folks but usually their ideas manifest themselves in a logical sequence and in spite of the many elements in their make-up they manage to achieve a scientific outlook. Highly sensitive intellectually, they have little difficulty in evolving a practical philosophy of life and are particularly good at handling the large issues involved in dealing with the public as a whole. Advertising, business, and the general satisfaction of public needs give them the best scope of the development of their special talents.

Decanate 3 : (21° - 30°)

This group possesses both creative and administrative ability of a high order and is capable of development on many sides. The best results are obtained by keeping the personality on the broadest possible basis and avoiding specialization in any particular groove. In spite of conspicuous clarity of vision in external questions, they tend to under-estimate their own ability and there is consequent need to guard against a tendency towards an Inferiority Complex. Coupled with this is a liability to take the line of least resistance and, speaking generally, will-power needs strengthening.

Parts of the Body: Neck, Throat, Tonsils, Vocal Chords, Ears, Thyroid glands.

Maladies: Sore throat, Apoplexy, Tonsils, Colds.

Key Concept: Strong, Stubborn, Plodding, Holding Power, They can be fierce and gentle.

Qualities: Partake much of the animal stubbornness and obstinacy, strong desire for pleasure, gluttony and excesses. Cold, Dry, Bestial, Brutish, Commanding, Crooked, Hoarse, Luxurious. It is fruitful belonging to Venus, the giver of children. They have artistic and musical talents too. Many Taurus people have beautiful speaking and singing voices. but they are vulnerable to colds, laryngitis, sore throats & thyroid problems.

Keynote: He is not the pioneer who strikes out for new territory, but the determined settler who plows to build houses and towns and cultivate the soil. He preserves when less determined spirits fall by the wayside. equable and patient, as patient as time itself. Loses his temper when only opposed. Do not challenge him for anyone who challenges makes a fatal mistake. He is dogmatic, stingy, secretive, opinionated & suspicious.

Occupations: Singers, Peace makers, Bankers

Physical Features: Middle Stature, Plump body, Thick and short neck. Dark Hair.

Greatest strength: Trustworthy, Tenacity and Steadiness, Relentless drive, Composed & Conservative, Immoveable object and Irresistible force.

A planet in this sign will be colored by the qualities of possessiveness, retentiveness and steadiness.

GEMINI

It is the Third Sign of the Zodiac

The Sign of the Storyteller.

Symbol: The twins

II Gyph / Picture :Represents the human arms and lungs (which are fueled by Gemini). In symbolic terms the two upright lines bounded by top and bottom lines represent wisdom, learning and the power of the mind to synthesize information.

Classification: Common / Fixed / Masculine / Of Short Ascension / Airy / Mutable/ Positive / Odd / Double Bodied / Rising by the Head / Barren /

Principal: Responsiveness - “I think”

Gemini is a sign of Reason , Knowledge and Intellect. It also is a sign of thought and communication on a personal level. Natives of Gemini strive for self-expression and try to impose their point of view on others.

Opposite Sign: Sagittarius-the sign governing the wider provenance of philosophy and mental exploration. Sagittarius tend to shrink from close personal involvement and unlike Gemini are shaped by what others think of them.

Lord /Ruler :Mercury. - ancient messenger of the gods.
&rules communication and travel.
It influences a nervous temperament.

Exaltation : Rahu

Detriment : Jupiter & Ketu

Transit of Sun: 21st.May to 20th. June

General Notes on the Group:-

Versatility and quickness of perception are the outstanding characteristics of these markedly ingenious and resourceful people. They possess a highly developed critical faculty well grounded on a sense of proportion. Both mentally and physically they are remarkable for their sensitiveness to external phenomena and their ready understanding of people ideas engenders in them a charm of manner which endears them to all with whom they have contact.

Their very versatility and brilliance, however, tend to make them somewhat inconsistent and unstable and they are lacking in the more solid virtues of concentration and determination. The multiplicity of their interests may lay them open to the charge of disloyalty and certainly they are rarely constant to an single deal.

Their adaptability holds promise of success in a variety of interests and provided they seek to avoid the fatal tendency to superficiality which besets them they are capable of developing a highly selective and analytical intellect.

Lung troubles and afflictions connected with the muscles and bones appear to be their chief physical dangers.

In occupational matters they are obviously happiest in careers which give scope for the display of their versatility. Literature may bring them success. Linguistically they are highly gifted . teaching , travel, and the less pedestrian form of salesmanship offer imagination and give opportunity for the exercising of mental dexterity.

THE DECANATES OF GEMINI

Decante I (0-10)

The critical faculty which characterizes Gemini folks as a whole is particularly marked in the case of these people and they tend to develop a rather legal cast of mind. Keen appreciation of the needs of their fellows helps them to cope with almost any kind of situation and the few failures they meet with are more likely to be due to laziness than to any lack of ability. Independence is the keynote of their character and their efforts should be as free as possible from external supervision. Thoughtless extravagance is somewhat counteracted by real genius in making money, but fluctuation tends to be the predominant feature of their financial arrangements.

Decanate 2 (11^o-20^o)

A certain instability of temperament marks these people who are far too easily swayed by the impulse of the moment. Much depends upon environment and wise choice of friends in the development of the personality as their peculiar sensitiveness makes them highly susceptible to outside influences and control. When not under the domination of their feelings or prejudices they have a keen appreciation of the importance of facts and a rather scientific cast of mind. By temperament they are particularly fitted to cater for the needs of the public and their power to estimate the qualities of others brings them success by the right choice of associates.

Decanate 3: (21⁰ – 30⁰)

Friends and associates play an important part in the lives of these people for they are essentially intensely sociable and hospitable souls. Contacts should, however, be on a basis of equality for they tend to resent supervision and do far better when directing their own efforts without control. Both mentally and mechanically highly gifted, they are capable of tackling most kinds of work with success but their real field lies in creative effort. For instance, scientific invention and the Arts owe much to members of this group. Travel satisfies a fundamental need of their nature but they need to curb the feeling of restlessness of which they are often the victims. Success will depend upon their ability to concentrate on their principal objectives.

Parts of the Body: Nervous System , Lungs , Bronchial Tube , Shoulders , Respiratory System , Hands , Arms

Maladies: Susceptible to strains and accidents, involving the arms and hands, also prone to bronchitis and respiratory ailments.

Key concept: Immediate perception and verbalization of all connections.

a planet in this sign will be coloured by the qualities of changeable curiosity.

Qualities: Lively, Energetic, Versatile , Intellectual yet lives only in the mind & emotions, extremely adaptable to situations. associated with duality, humanism, communication.

Nature : It is hot, moist in nature; Airy, Barren, Bicorporal, Changeable, Commanding, Double-bodies, Dual, Human, at times violent but fortunate yet given to negativeness and passivity as a common sign. This sign corresponds to the atmospheric vibrations and has affinity to the sense of hearing.

Keywords : brothers, learning, letters and all other means of communication, magazine work, reporting, school work and education, story telling, teaching, travel agencies, translating, travel between who places, twins and everything else always in pairs, commercial traveler, journalist, lecturer, linguist, messenger, pupil, secretary, teacher, writer.

Danger: Prone towards accidents while traveling , especially by air. Their fickle nature also tends to arouse unexpected anger in others, the depth of which Geminians are misjudged. A Gemini weakness is superficiality; too quick to grasp an idea or size up a situation – tendency to skin its surface, not bothering to explore it in any depth., but can make marvellous initial impression with little preparation.

Physical features: Tall and well formed . Long slender hands , Lovely expression , Quick sight , Clear speech , Nimble , Weak but active temperament

A planet in this sign will be coloured by the qualities of changeable curiosity.

Cancer

The fourth sign of the zodiac, the only sign of the moon and is affiliated with the fourth house.

The Sign of the Protector

Symbol: The Crab – The picture represents the claws of the crab possessing an impenetrable exterior that covers the soft flesh underneath and at first sign of danger, it withdraws into its shell and scuttles back to the sea where it feels safe.

☉: Glyph It also a picture of the human breast. Symbolically it also signifies two circles of the sun connected to two crescent moons. The moons represent cancer's desire to store memories and possessions. The circles tied to the moon represent force and energy expressed through emotions and imagination.

Classification: Cardinal, Movable, Water, Negative, Of long Ascension, Rising by the hind part , Even , Feminine , Fruitful .

Principal: Domesticity , Careful – “I feel”

Opposite Sign: Capricorn

Capricorn – opposite of cancer is the sign of reputation and public standing. they are connected with the image they project and they have power and fulfillment in the outside world.

Cancer is the sign of home and family life. Cancerians seek close personal whom they love.

Exaltation : Jupiter

Fall : Mars

Detriment : Saturn

Transit of the Sun : The Sun enters this sign at the summer solstice 21st June – 20th. July

The moons govern emotions and intuitive behavior. Ruled by Moon and Water as its elements - like the shifting of the tides of the ocean,- the sign of powerful forces moving under the surface which is quite difficult to penetrate - the array of defenses that hide their true and deep feelings. Like the hard outer shell that protects the soft, vulnerable flesh underneath, Cancerians are crusty, gruff and grumpy, but possess a proverbial heart of gold – a sentimental softie that makes sacrifice for someone in need.

General Note on the Group:

Imaginativeness and sensitive understanding lead to wide sympathies in the lives of these people who often become social reformers in the van of humanitarian progress. Generous and patient in contact with others, they are noted for their devotion to their ideals.

The danger is that idealism may remain only a fair dream unsupported by active effort in the realism of practical affairs. Over sensitiveness may produce morbidity in them leading to procrastination and timidity in the face of realities.

In spite of sympathy and a willingness for self-sacrifice for the common good, their attitude may be marred by rather negative outlook based upon dislike of radical change. Although persistent in pursuit of their ideals they tend to prefer a rather conservative line of action and innovations often fail to appeal to them.

Of rather delicate constitution, they tend to suffer form nervous exhaustion, but specific troubles are usually localized in the stomach or kidneys.

The sea has a great attraction for them and any profession connected with it will naturally have a deep appeal for them. Many find success in those professions which are based upon the handling of liquids in some form or another. Their chief sphere, however, is probably social activity either in the form of entertainment or in institutional work, for contact with others in a vital necessity in all their undertakings.

THE DECANATES OF CANCER

Decante 1: (0° – 10°)

Love of organization dominates these people and political activity often attracts them with excellent results. They are capable of great personal devotion to a cause and their intellectual ability makes them invaluable in the guidance of great movements. Discouragement born of lack of appreciation of their efforts is their great drawback and they are liable to indulge too much in unjustified self-pity. Co-operation with other active personalities in the service of - an ideal is the best road to personal satisfaction. When efforts are not harnessed to some specific cause, the people display considerable talent for living by their wits and invariably they are outstanding by their strong and clearly-defined individuality.

Decanate 2: (11° – 20°)

The dramatic instinct is strong in these people and they have remarkably good power of self-expression, both in speech and writing. Highly inventive, their deals are usually on a sound and constructive basis and once they have accepted the necessity for a line of action achievement is easy for them. Attention should be given to the development of latent talents and the creative urge needs to be indulged wherever possible. Music, drama, literature, or the many branches of invention, have a strong appeal for them and in these things they have the power to excel.

Decanate 3: (21⁰-30⁰)

Wide comprehension and keen analytical ability are the treat assets of these people how need a variety of interest to engage the attention of their highly active minds. To counteract the voracity of their intellect and prevent dissipation of their energies over too wide a field it is essential for them to cultivate the habit of concentration on one thing at a time. attention to trivial ideas and activities may produce superficiality and cynicism and it is of supreme important that their effort should be direct to worth-while ends.

Lord/ Ruler: The Sun

Exhalation:

Detrimental: Saturn and Uranus

Fall:

Transit of Sun: 21st. July – 20th. August

General Notes on the Group:

Leo is under the ruler ship of the Sun. the ambitiousness of this type is well justified by their natural abilities. Sound and practical in their ideas, they have supreme administrative ability. The optimism of their general outlook and the magnanimity of their whole personality lead them to a tolerant and humanitarian view of things.

Their own innate ability may produce in them a desire to dominate over others and despotism becomes fatally easy for them. With love of position comes love of the trappings of position, and ostentation is often one of their weaknesses. Rather pompous at times, they cling to established ideas and tend to revere the past at the expense of the present.

Bold and magnanimous, however, they are characterized in the main by a generous outlook and tolerance of the ideas of others. Frankness is the breath of their being and they abhor intrigue, always performing to fight in the open. The strength of their personality invariably commands the respect of those about them.

The heart is usually the center of any physical disability they may have and they tend to suffer when in ill health from such things as palpitation or feverishness.

Obviously cut out for leadership, they do best in executive position, particularly in the civil service. The financial world attracts many of them and here; also, they have the ability to achieve success. The law is another valuable field for their endeavors.

THE DECANATES OF LEO

Decanate 1 : (0⁰-10⁰)

A strong sense of responsibility in conjunction with real organizing ability makes these people invaluable in all fields of practical activity. They have sound creative capacity coupled with a good intellectual sense of values which spurs them on to improvements on the existing state of affairs. Advertising, publishing, travel, buying and selling, control of business , come well within their capacity and if scope is given for their sense of the dramatic they make rapid progress.

Decanate 2 : (11-20)

Personal effort counts for much in the success of these people who are usually prepared to throw their whole personality into the realization of their ambitions. Actuated by high ideals, they have a strong sense of public service and excel at handling people in the mass especially when their creative ability can be brought into action. Of a rather philosophical cast of mind, they have a strong realization - of the links which bind them to other and their efforts are best directed over a wide range of people.

Decanate 3 : (21-30)

Natural force of character in these people is heightened by a strong sense of the dramatic coupled with real practical ability. They also do best in public service especially in the spheres of entertainment, showmanship, or publicity. Their own high standard constantly drives them on to further effort and desire for perfection is always a powerful motive with them. The urge of personal ambition, however , is usually the predominant force and they are always fully conscious of their own superiority and capabilities.

Pisces- sign of illusion and self-deception; prone to dreaminess, vaguness, self-delusion and escapism.

General notes on the group:

Virgo is under the ruler ship of the planet Mercury.

These are the critics who shine by their powers of acute discrimination and insight. Their intellectual dexterity and the versatility of their whole personality, in which intuitive faculties play no small part, bestow upon them the ability to do well in most fields of activity. The speed of their reactions both mentally and physically gives them an advantage and in their case quickness of brain is allied with cleverness of hand. Their intense love of activity makes for industriousness in practical effort while the alertness of their interests leads to charm and understanding in their contacts with others.

Egotism is their chief danger and selfishness may cut them off from sympathy with others and cool their affections, if not controlled by high principles their critical faculty may degenerate into mere hypercritical officiousness and there is always the danger that the richness of their mind may be productive of a rather tortuous subtlety.

Intense love of detail and a healthy skepticism are the distinguishing features of this type of mind which prefers to concentrate on the world of ideas rather than of action. To some extent this preoccupation is necessitated by the physical fragility which characterizes them and there is constant need for the analysis of which it is so eminently fitted.

Digestive and nerve troubles are likely to demand attention and are closely linked up with the general characteristics of the whole personality.

Science, literature, psychology, and all activities dependent upon the power of discrimination – from craftsmanship to statistical analysis – are suitable for these people but, generally speaking, in spite of their remarkable mechanical skills they do best in intellectual pursuits.

THE DECANATES OF VIRGO

Decanate 1: (0⁰ – 10⁰)

Their sound sense of values is happily allied in these people with the necessary skill to achieve them and there are few ambitious that fall outside the range of their capacity. Intellectual discrimination renders them particularly fitted for such professions as literature, science, or high finance but the tendency is for them to succumb to a rather materialistic form of appeal. Right direction of the abilities is for them of supreme importance for they have immense potentialities.

Decanate 2 : (11⁰-20⁰)

Highly creative pursuits with an intellectual basis appeal to these people but the emotions play a large part in colouring their ideas. There may be some tendency for feelings to warp the naturally excellent judgment and there is consequent need for them to aim constantly at a strictly objective viewpoint. Movement and variety is an essential need of their nature and this is a desire which should be gratified.

Decanate 3 : (21⁰-30⁰)

Again the intellectual angle is strongly marked, but in this case the stress lies on executive ability rather than creative effort. The sound critical faculty makes for success in such things as study, teaching, banking, or statistical work. There is some need, however, for the general quickness of reaction to be tempered by mature judgment and these people need to be on their guard against acting on the impulse of the moment.

Key Concept: Spontaneous , Helpful , Humility and need to serve.

Key Concept: spontaneous helpfulness, humility, and need to serve.

Parts of the body: the nervous system and the intestine. Virgoans are prone to illness caused by stress nervous tension; particularly susceptible to ulcers.

Maladies: Colic obstruction, Coldness, Worms, Cholera, Constipation, Malnutrition, Slender in youth but there is a tendency towards corpulence of body, particularly that part ruled by Virgo- abdomen.

Qualities: This sign is classed as cold, dry, barren, earthy, feminine, common, mutable, mental, human, critical melancholic, changeable, nervous, unsympathetic, vituperative and a sign of long ascension.

Keynote: Reserve, Modest, Practical, Discriminating and Industrious. Analytical and painstaking, seeking to know and understand. representing purity, modesty, service to fellow workers. quick and active in youth and do work hard for knowledge. They acquire linguistic and elocutionary powers most readily; are fluent writers, but are often cynical, cold and unforgiving if injured.

Keyword : actual working of an industry rather than writing and talking about it, charitable societies, cornfields, diet, fault finding, harvesting, industry, literary criticism rather than light story telling, sanitation, small animals,. the services, accountant, agent, craftsman, critic, dietician doctor, grower of crops, health officer, inspector, teacher, masseur, naturopath, secretary.

Occupations: Craftsmen , Businessmen, Nurses

Physical Features: Slender Body , Dark Hair, Quick & Active in walk , Shrill voice , Youthful looking

Danger: Virgo is said to be most critical of all signs and people born under third sign either rising or the sun, moon or mercury in this sign are much given to criticism, faultfinding and intolerance of the views and opinions of others. Arouse anger and violence in others because of their tendency to interfere, their critical tongues and emotional attitudes.

A planet in this sign is coloured by perfectionism, analysis, fine discrimination

LIBRA

Libra is the seventh sign of the zodiac, and is affiliated to the 7th house.

The Sign of the Diplomat

Symbol: The Scales the pictograph represents the scales which is in perfect equilibrium. this was the ancient Egyptian symbol of the setting sun, which was regarded as the doorway between the 2 worlds.

♎ :Glyph- In symbolic terms, the glyph is a Crescent moon connected to two straight lines resting above a third line. this represents emotions bounded on either side by reason, the line below symbolizes partnership.

Classification: Cardinal / Air / Movable / Odd / Positive / Masculine / Cruel / Of long Ascension / Rising by the Head.

Principal: Loving , Unifying “ I BALANCE”

Opposite Sign: Aries

Libra is the sign of marriage and partnership. its natives are happiest functioning within a union and often lose their equilibrium and positive outlook when forced to be alone

Aries - Libra's opposite sign is the sign of ego, personality and self. they tend to put themselves first and selfishness in one of their negative traits.

Like its opposite sign; it is a Cardinal and Positive Sign so it has the outgoing activity and self-expressiveness which would be expected of this Quadruplicity. It is also the Second of the Air signs, so this combines with the moving communicativeness (Gemini) and the intelligence (Aquarius) connected with that Triplicity . Air is the medium of connection between all people, and on it are carried the words of speech.

Lord/ Ruler: Venus - Goddess of love & beauty, when rising in libra gives artistic ability. Venus rules pleasure, social pursuits, art & adornment. influences and inclines forward to self-indulgence and love of luxury.

Exhalation: Saturn - turns the mind in scientific direction.

Detrimental: Mars

Fall: The Sun

Transit of Sun: 21st. Sept – 20th. Oct

General Notes on the Group:

Libra is under the ruler ship of the planet Venus.

A judicial mind backed up by a keen and inquiring intellect is the primary characteristic of these people who are remarkable for their impartiality and love of justice. Essentially seekers after Truth they strive constantly to bring order out of chaos. In spite of a firm loyalty to their ideals there is nothing rigid about their views although they do insist upon methodical treatment of facts.

Impartiality and suspended judgment may procure occasional hesitation bordering on actual cowardice and this is their chief disadvantage. Faced with an important issue they tend to prevaricate and inaction often becomes their greatest vice. To this is allied a measure of sensuality which manifests itself either in love of ostentation or in excessive sentimentality.

Tact is essentially strongly marked in these people and they are highly persuasive, having the ability to present the many sides of a problem in all their complexity. Obsession with the material factors of a situation may tend, however, to blind them at times to the wider issues and they suffer from the limitations commonly associated with the judicial type of mind.

Physically, their weak point is likely to be some form of kidney trouble or diabetic trouble, but they very quickly respond to correct treatment.

In occupational matters, the Law obviously offers them excellent prospects of success. Their sense of form and design, however, gives them power to excel in the arts, especially wherever these qualities are predominant. Diplomacy, government activities, and the financial world are other suitable spheres.

THE DECANATES OF LIBRA

Decanate 1 : (0^0 - 1^0)

Immense adaptability and the ability to get on easily with other people is a great asset to these folks who can often attain their ends by tract and persuasion when other methods fail. They have the power to think in terms of large groupings of people so that if not actually engaged in the Law as a profession they should certainly enter public service in some capacity or another. The creative instincts should not be neglected, however, and if actively developed, these people have the ability to do well in artistic work such as decoration or catering for the needs of the public at large.

Decanate 2 : (11^0 - 20^0)

The soundness of their judgment makes these people invaluable when in control affairs. A good many of their talents may, however, still be latent and it is important that dormant abilities should be cultivated. Financial ability and staying power make for success, particularly when their natural quickness of perception and apprehension is rightly directed. The emotions tend to suffer by the excessive development of the intellect and there is a consequent liability to inhibitions which needs to be counteracted.

Decanate 3 : (21⁰-30⁰)

Shrewdness in their dealings characterizes these folks who possess sufficient depth of judgment to embrace detail without losing sight of the wider issues. Intellectual stability is combined with correct perspective to produce singularly complete personalities. They have a keen appreciation of beauty and a desire to serve the common good which usually brings success in pursuits such as teaching, publishing, advertising and entertainment. Their wide outlook creates a desire to live a particularly full life and their efforts are usually stimulated by healthy ambition.

Parts of the Body: It rules the kidneys, Lower back and the Buttocks.

Maladies: Affection of Kidneys, Appendix, Lumbago, Diabetes, Suppression of Urine

Key Concept: harmonization of all polarities for self-completion.

Qualities: Mirthful people - they admire modesty but are ambitious. good tastes, artistic touch and fine finish. Youthful appearance, good complexion but plump in middle-age. Keen perception with foresight, Hopeful, Cheerful, humane, loving but changeable. like to 'go place and do things' be in style or upto date. fond of clothes and Jewellery. conjugal affection overshadows all other considerations. in love they sacrifice for others and sacrifice others for their own comfort. change to extreme -hence adapt to changing circumstances and do not fret over reverses but set about with vim and vigour to restore fortunes. soft tone due to Venus and Exaltation of Saturn. opposite to Aries which is harsh.

Nature : Airy, Artistic, Autumnal, beauty, cardinal, changeable, equinotical, fruitful, graceful, hot, humane, masculine, moist, moveable, musical, positive, sweet, warm, western.

Keynote: Elegance-strong conjugal affection, loves justice, neatness and order, peace and harmony, courteous, pleasant and agreeable. They are fond of beauty in all forms in nature, art, music and literature, can enter into refine and cultural pleasures and amusements and enjoy the company and society of the brave, happy, sunny

Just as love of beauty and charm to the Taurean, so to the Libran. but in this sign it brings personal beauty and a love of harmony which means good taste, and a desire for happy conditions and relationships.

They have natural charm, grace and poise-social minded fantasizing happy tomorrow with optimistic and blithe spirit.

Occupations:

Physical Features: Tall , Slender , Graceful , Fair Skin , Physical Beauty , Well Prop. Body , Baldness (in late life)

Key Words: affection, beauty in form or shape, art or literature, marriage, partnerships, artistes, beauty specialist, diplomat, general, juggler (balance), staff officer, valuer.

Danger: Zodiacal sign of partnership, hence outer directed. though best in persona. Their main interest is on self in the relationship. Judges others from outward appearance-hence a Libran becomes as easy prey for a sophisticated schemer with affable manners.

Venus - The lord of Libra bestows

The good

Beauty
Charm
social grace
romantic nature
appreciation for art,
music and decoration.

The bad

Encourages superficiality
Jealousy
Laziness
Dependence on others

SCORPIO

IT IS THE EIGHT SIGN OF THE ZODIAC

The Sign of the Investigator

Symbol : Scorpio is symbolized by the scorpion and the eagle. The scorpion – secretive, deadly creature that can poison its enemies and its sting is often fatal. Scorpio gives the death sting and then the soul soars away like an eagle to its airy home. The scorpion is the symbol of the lower mind and the eagle of the higher mind. hence it is the house of transformation.

♏ glyph : The pictograph is the stinger of the scorpion connection to a representation of the human reproductive organ. In ancient time it was the symbol of the phoenix, a bird of immortality and regeneration. the curved lines and the arrow represent strong emotions tied to practicality and aiming towards higher consciousness.

Classification: Fixed / Water / Even / Feminine / Of Long Ascension / Rising by the Head

Principal: Transformation , Sex Force , “ I DESIRE “

Opposite Sign: Taurus - is a sign of possession and owning and the native wants of possess, collect and do not let go what belongs to them.

Scorpio sign of Inheritance & legacies has a sense of purpose and destiny. finds truest happiness in dispensing their life-force to others.

Like its opposite sign, this is a fixed and negative sign, so in it seem to have the same desire to remain firm in conviction and set ways ; but this is second of water signs, so the combination of such fixity is with the emotionality of this triplicity. Water has been described as unstable. Hence a Scorpio person is often at war with himself in this utterly contrary mixing of two trends in his very deep nature. His negativity appears as depth of character and reserve of force.

Lord/ Ruler: Pluto – ancient god of the nether world and of the dead. Mars : same energy and initiatory force of Aries and emphasizes the “war within himself” which is the most unavoidable matter in life. Pluto rules regenerative forces and the beginnings and ends of the phases of life.

Exaltation : Uranus
Fall : The moon
Detriment : Venus

Transit of Sun: 21st. October – 20th.November

General Notes on the Group:

Scorpio is under the ruler ship of the planet Mars.

Fixity of purpose allied with thoroughness of execution makes of these people highly efficient individuals capable of tackling even the most formidable problems. The intensity of their courage is fortunately tempered by a wise measure of caution which saves them from the extremes to which their rigid determination might otherwise bring them. Great responsibility can safely be laid upon them for they are thoroughly liable in all their undertakings.

The very strength of their character makes for certain weakness chief among them being a certain degree of callousness towards the feelings of others. There may be a corresponding tendency towards suspiciousness in most relationships and they tend to be rather indifferent too the normal human feelings and reactions.

Their thoroughness bestows upon them a rather scientific turn of mind which is, however, capable of being led thoroughly astray by faulty judgment. Rather reserved, they easily fall into the danger of secrecy while their native caution tends to cramp their initiative considerably.

In connection with health they need to guard against ulcers and nasal catarrh.

By temperament they are primarily fitted for work of an investigational nature, from research work to police detection. Surgery, chemistry, statistical work, and even a military career are all suitable.

THE DECANATES OF SCORPIO

Decanates 1 : (0⁰-10⁰)

Strong will-power in their case is at once an asset and a liability for there is a strong tendency to fly to extremes and determination degenerates into sheer obstinacy. They have considerable powers of leadership, although not of a spectacular nature, and complete confidence can safely be placed in them. Their logical mind approximates to infallibility when dealing with concrete values and they have marked administrative capacity on rather conventional lines.

Decanate 2 : (11⁰-20⁰)

Service is the ideal of this folk who have remarkably keen perception of the needs of their fellows. They succeed best in the professions, such as medicine, law, teaching, where they often display a very appealing originality in their method of approach. Highly observant, they are keenly assimilative of experience and travel and study are vitally important in the development of their personality. Certainly, their efforts should never be isolated and they succeed best when working with others for a common end.

Decanate 3 : (21⁰-30⁰)

These are rather restless people who tend to be dominated by their emotions. When not swayed by feeling they have considerable intellectual force and clarity of vision which coupled with creative ability and some mechanical skill make for success in a wide range for activities. Their chief danger is intolerance and a refusal to recognize the claims of others.

Parts of the body: Bladder, Genitals, Red colour to blood , Prostate gland.

Maladies: Affection to bladder and Ovaries, Affects excretory system, Generative Organs, Piles, Fistula, Retention of Urine, Inflammatory diseases,

Classification: Mutable, Fire, Common, Odd, Masculine, Fiery, of long Ascension, Rising by the hind part

Ruling planet: Jupiter, the most important roman god, ruler of the heavens. Jupiter is the planet of good fortune, optimism, expansion and abundance, Jupiter is the up lifter.

Exaltation :
Fall :
Detriment : Mercury

Transit of the Sun 21st. November – 20th.December

General Notes on the Group :

Sagittarius is under the ruler ship of the planet Jupiter. Vitality is the dominant characteristic of these people who figure largely in the ranks of sportsmen. Their independence of outlook based on unshakeable honesty endears them to others, while their own mental vigour and frank enthusiasms inculcate in them unquenchable optimism.

Over-confidence is their principal danger and they tend to be led astray far too easily by intemperate enthusiasms. Volatility of spirit makes them somewhat undependable and they tend to be in constant revolt against accepted ideas and practices. Over-indulgence in sporting interests is possible and there is a danger of engendering a rather quarrelsome spirit, constantly on the offensive.

To counterbalance these faults, they can plead their imperturbable good-nature and the general kindness of their intentions. Highly colourful, the flamboyant note in their personality is well sustained by a keen intelligence, often spurred on by ambition.

All outdoor occupations are eminently suitable for them, but their rather philosophical cast of mind also promises success in the teaching profession, the Law, the ministry, and all professions connected with oratory. Banking is another suitable occupation for, strangely enough, they have marked financial ability.

THE DECANATES OF SAGGITARIUS

Decanate 1 : (0⁰-10⁰)

Few things escape the attention of these people whose curiosity is constantly on the alert. Diversity of interests is, in fact, perhaps their most striking feature. Fortunately, they have real intellectual strength and extraordinarily acute powers of perception which enable them to escape the superficiality which usually results from diffusion of interests. Once their somewhat intemperate exuberance is curbed they make good leaders and certainly they do well in professional work on markedly intellectual lines.

Decanate 2 : (11⁰-20⁰)

Hatred of restraint and routine is the animating force in these people. Perpetually in search of the new, they tend to be rather too easily satisfied with the external diversity of things and to become dangerously dilettante in their efforts. Their vital curiosity is often nullified by lack of sufficient concentration to pursue an interest to a conclusion. To offset this, they have considerable artistic sensibility allied with manual dexterity which permits them to produce results with a minimum of effort. They have a real sense of service in many cases and their greatest asset is their ability to understand others and get the best out of them.

Decanate 3 : (21⁰-30⁰)

Emotion plays a large part in the lives of these people and sensationalism has a very strong appeal for them. There may be a tendency to nurture inhibitions. This emotional sensitiveness is balanced by really sound intellectual keenness and these people usually do well in such things as advertising, literature, selling and creative work. The best results in every case come from stressing the highly individualistic angle. Like others of this group, they have much skill in handling people and usually gain much from their contacts with others. In fact, the stimulation of others. In fact, the stimulation of other personalities is vitally essential for the full development of their character and potentialities.

Transit of the Sun: 21st.December – 20th.January

General Notes on the Group:

Capricorn is under the ruler ship of the planet Saturn. Ambition is often the driving force in the personality of these folks whose lives are usually directed on well-disciplined lines. They possess the power of concentration to a marked degree and usually attain their ends by virtue of sheer persistence and dogged industriousness. Thrifty, tactful, loyal, they possess essentially stable personalities.

Introspection, with its attendant gloom and probable bigotry, is their gravest danger. Strong in their own convictions, they tend to be intolerant of opposition and utterly ruthless when human claims conflict with the attainment of a specific end. They are likely to be somewhat narrow-minded in outlook and to be singularly lacking in sympathy for all outside the limited range of their interests.

The power of concentration bestows upon them terrific driving force along set lines and they are capable of meticulous attention to detail. They make excellent organisers although their cautiousness tends to limit the range of their enterprises. Violently egotistical, they tend to build their lives on a fatalistic conception of the order of things.

Cramp, particular rheumatism, toothache, and skin or hair diseases are the usual forms in which physical troubles beset them.

All types of routine work and organisation give them scope for the exercise of their talents. They do well in any kind of work demanding discipline and also in such things as agriculture, mining and state management.

THE DECANATES OF CAPRICON

Decante I : (0⁰-1⁰)

Strength of character is rendered more noticeable on account of considerable power of self-expression. Outstanding talent permit them to rise above the level of their original environment and eminence in some direction or another is almost inevitable. They tend to have rather too much veneration for the established hierarchy and to accept material value as the self criterion in estimating worth. Public work on strictly practical lines is their best fields and they have considerable administrative ability which is invaluable in the furtherance of constructive proposals.

Decanate 2 : (11⁰-20⁰)

These people fortunately have the complexity of their personality balanced by a good sense of proportion which serves to keep their activities on fairly steady lines. They do best when in co-operation with others, and partnership in some form is desirable for them so as to establish some form of control over the vagaries of their impulse. Personal feeling predominates far too much with them as a motive for action and there is need for an intellectual check. They have considerable ability in handling others with efficiency and they do best when their efforts are directed towards the common good.

Decanate 3 : (21⁰-30⁰)

Absolute devotion to the work on hand makes these people singularly forceful in action. Their career usually means a great deal to them and they are always anxious to figure in the public eye. Fortunately, their ambition is usually based on service to the public well-being and they make excellent public servants. Public welfare, health, and community development have a special appeal for them and good citizenship ideal behind their activities.

Aquarius is the sign of hopes and dreams, friends and wishes. they tend to be idealistic, humanitarians who are friends with the larger issues of the world. but remain personally detached in their own relationships. It is the sign of the future, of the visionary, some say of astrology itself.

The planet Uranus is strong in this sign and Aquarius is considered the most spiritual sign - the sign of "the son of man" symbolized by the water pouring - pouring out blessings and alleviation upon humanity."

Combination of fixed element (persistence) and air element (intellect and communication) under the influence of the planet of change.. Hence Aquarians are liberal and progressive. yet fixed in opinion.

Transit of the Sun: 21st. January – 20th.February

General Notes on the Group :

Aquarius is under the rulership of the planet Uranus.

Humanitarianism in the fullest sense actuates these people and their stability of character is well founded on scientific and tolerant view of people and things. Complete sincerity, patient understanding, and easy friendliness ensure harmonious contacts for them and help them to maintain their tranquility in the face of even the most adverse circumstances.

Their calmness occasionally sinks into mere dreaminess, however, and spirituality may rob them of decisiveness and the ability to cope practically with a concert situation. Over-conscientiousness may result in worry over trifles and also in too heavy taxing of the energy in an attempt to cope with widely diffused interest. Emotionally, they tend to alternate between skepticism and sentimentality and thus to destroy the stability which should be the foundation of their personality.

They are highly inventive with excellent reasoning faculties, and in fact, typify the scientific mind at its best. Their tolerance and generous outlook allow them to adopt a supremely optimistic view point and harmonious relationship are invariably their goal. Speed of decision and rushed activities are totally antagonistic to their temperament so that they do best when functioning in a tranquil atmosphere.

Over-sensitiveness generally is their chief physical drawback and they tend to suffer from nervous trouble or blood disorders arising from faulty circulation.

Intricate scientific work or humanitarian enterprises have an overwhelming appeal for them, but all activities based on the use of electricity and such things as aviation and radio come well within their range and they often find their maximum satisfaction in one or other of these branches.

THE DECANATES OF AQUARIUS

Decanate 1 : (0⁰-10⁰)

The power of leadership together with creative talent in a high degree characterizes these people whose enthusiasm for constructive ends carries them far. The only major obstacle to their success would appear to be their tendency to self-indulgence but once this is curbed they have terrific driving-force, based largely on a sense of superb showmanship. Literary and scientific pursuits constitute their major interests.

Decanates 2 : (11⁰-20⁰)

Exceptional intellectual talents mark these people off from the crowd for they are specially gifted in the understanding of history, politics and the handling of human affairs generally. They have a high standard of personal rectitude and sufficient magnetism of personality to elevate them into natural leaders. They love to engage in a variety of interests but are always prepared to devote time and energy to the thorough comprehension of any subject which appeals to them. They have a remarkable gift of teaching others easily which makes of them active disseminators of ideas well to the fore in intellectual circles.

Decanate 3 : (21⁰-30⁰)

Love of learning coupled with sensitive reactions to environment makes these people remarkably rich in personality. They would benefit by cultivating concentration as a means to soundness of judgment as they tend to suffer somewhat from diffusion of their interests which distracts attention from essentials. They are particularly skillful in conveying ideas and sensations to others and usually contribute largely to the widening of common human experience. Their marked artistic sensitiveness to which is allied considerable administrative ability enables them to exert much influence on the development of affairs.

Parts of the body : Lower limbs , shins, ankles,

Maladies : Affliction / prone towards ankle sprains and breaks, varicose veins and hardening of arteries and nervous disorders , irregularity of heart , dropsy , bad circulation .

Opposite Sign: Virgo – sign of Work and Service, deals in facts and realities ; are practical and have a drive for material success.

Pisces – sign of dreams and mysticism . The natives tends to trust in intuitions and feelings and tend to seek more spiritual values in life.

Mutable indicates an ability to make changes without feeling annoyed and to adapt to circumstances. the mixture is with water, with its instability, makes this most fluid of all signs.

The negative ness gives an inwardness, which is more marked than in the others. It has a hidden ness and a depth, which are hard to fathom. This water is the water of the sea, boundless, infinitely deep, clam at times on the surface, yet capable of sudden changes to the wildest of storms. It is inoffensive at the first sight, but with undercurrents which are subversive and dangerous.

It is sign of drinks, dissipation, debauchery and self-undoing.

Ruler / Lordship : is jointly rules by Jupiter and Neptune. Neptune is strong in this sign, as Pisces and Neptune rule the sea .Neptune is the ancient god of the sea, discovered in 1846. it is a planet of illusion, glamour, mystery, deception, etc.

Jupiter brings expansion and joviality. Neptune, the dreamer and researcher for intangible brings an emotional and idealistic side of nature. the expansion is noticeable as an extremism, a bountifulness, a lack of putting limits to anything. the clouds of mists of Neptune are as a veil. hence the joviality of Jupiter is often a veiled to hide the ready tears of Pisces.

Exaltation : Venus
Detriment : Mercury
Fall : Mercury

Transit of Sun: 21st,Feb to 20th,March

General Notes on the Group :

Pisces is under the ruler ship of the planet Neptune.

These are the idealists who are fired by the power of imagination. Their warmth of heart and supreme magnanimity widen their sympathies and noble principles have a special appeal for them. They love to live on a romantic scale and are particularly susceptible to colour and movement. Inspiration and intuition play a great part in directing their actions with the result that they tend to live on a slightly more exalted plane than the rest of humanity.

The price they pay for their idealism is a certain imperviousness to ordinary standards of value which tends to render them hopelessly impractical in the conduct of normal affairs. Their ideas often lack coherence and they have a violent antipathy to concrete action which may in practice have all the appearance of sheer laziness.

Their hypersensitiveness tends to cause them an unnecessary amount of worry with resultant timidity and diffidence in contacts.

Their imagination and sensibility, however, make of them an essentially artistic type and they have not only great creative gifts but the ability to fire others.

They are the romantics constantly striving to escape from sordid reality into the blessed land of their of their dreams.

They are particularly addicted to heart or liver trouble and may be worried by cold and influenza more than is usual.

They inevitably do their best work in occupations giving scope for imagination such as literature, philosophy and religion. Maritime pursuits also appeal to them and many find expression for their romanticism in the entertainment world.

THE DECANATES OF PISCES

Decanate I : (0⁰-1⁰)

Self-consciousness may be a great stumbling-block for these folks. They tend to be over-awed by reverence for tradition and this may limit the expression of their own original ideas. The full use of their very keen intellectual faculties and vital emotional reactions tends to be inhibited by an inferiority complex, but if they can escape this they have the power to produce more than normally good results, particularly in artistic matters.

Decanate 2 : (11-20⁰)

These people tend to be animated by a vital desire for expansion and they usually explore many avenues before settling on the goal towards which all their energies are to be directed. The search for perfection may produce considerable restlessness and instability of ideas, but fortunately they possess the power to devote their attention to routine activities on grounds of expediency while still searching for the elusive ideal. Once their goal is clearly defined, they have the necessary ability for rapid success.

Decanate 3 : (21⁰-30⁰)

Complexity of personality is the most vital characteristic in these people and they indulge in much emotional activity below the surface of their normal activities. Any career for them must satisfy both the spiritual and the material needs of their nature and they usually discover the best outlet for their talents in such pursuits as philosophy, psychology, travel, publishing, or the arts.

They are intensely interested in human nature and in the social and economic developments of the past. There is a need for impulse to be tempered by logic but when they have gained mastery of their emotions, they usually have terrific driving power.
