

Future war and non-conventional weapons of mass

The international powers prohibit the investigation of the foreign debt, why? So that its illicit origin is not discovered? When a historical fact is forbidden to be investigated, it is surely because that historical fact hides a big lie, a big hoax.

Economist and public debt expert Hector Giuliano argues that debt and interest payments must be stopped as a matter of urgency, because it will reach the point where even the annual interest payments will not be paid. So it is better to suspend all payments, and the sooner the better.

Whose ideologies are the governments that agree to submit to international usury, to blindly obey and pay out whatever amounts the usurers demand? These "serial payer" governments are always either liberal or Marxist. Liberal-Marxism, or capital-Marxism: the two sides of the same coin, the two parts of the same pincer with which the enemies of humanity suck the blood out of peoples, and then devour them.

The world confusion is so great that most people believe that capitalism and Marxism are different and opposite systems. But a people who move from a capitalist regime to a Marxist one, or vice versa, will only have succeeded in jumping out of the boiling oil and into the coals.

It is easy to observe that Marx never attacked the international usurious power. Marx only took it out on small traders or owners of means of production. His purpose was clearly to leave untouched those who financed him, his brothers in the struggle for world power: the international parasitic financial usury based in England. And its immediate goal was the destruction of Germany ("the proletarian revolution will take place first in Germany"). But in the next century, its ideological spawn destroyed the other enemy of world power: Russia. And Germany followed. They were
It took two world wars to break, plunder and indebt Germany.

Inventing wars and genocides is very useful for international bankers.

international organisation based in England to seize all the gold in America that the Spaniards stole in their genocidal plunder? It is very simple: by inventing wars against Spain, in order to get it into debt afterwards and so vampire all the gold out of him.

It is also appropriate to remember that Marx did not invent Marxist communism. It was devised by Moses Hess and his Talmudic-Kabbalist team. Marx was chosen later because he was a quite capable doctor of philosophy who could do a good elaboration and presentation of that project.

Dumbed down by permanent brainwashing, humans mistakenly believe that these are two opposing ideologies and not one and the same thing. There is another position, of course, opposite to that of the capital-Marxist, the only one that would destroy the international financial mafia of parasites, but it is forbidden to talk about it.

Talking to Adrian Salbuchi about the advisability of not paying the foreign debt, Salbuchi asked us: "Not paying the debt? And with what?" We asked him: What is "with what"? Salbuchi said clearly: "I mean with what weapons!" Of course, you have to have well-equipped armed forces to oppose international vampires. And Argentina has none of that.

Venezuela is a Marxist country that religiously pays the interest on its debt, and if it wanted to, it could oppose these payments, since its armed forces are the first in South America, but it chose to continue paying. On the subject of South American armed forces, Venezuela is followed by two countries capitalists, Brazil in second place and Chile third. However, none of these three countries would dare to threaten the world usurious power, for both capitalists and Marxists are its accomplices.

If these three South American military powers allow themselves to be sucked dry by the usurers, it is simply because they are at their service, because they are either liberal-masonic or Marxist, which is the same thing. There is no other explanation.

The situation is worse for Argentina, which is on a par with Costa Rica in terms of armaments and armed forces. And to think that with an indebtedness of 30 billion dollars, as Venezuela did, we would be armed to the teeth with Russian weapons, if only to defend our sovereignty in Patagonia and Antarctica with dignity.

But would such weapons be enough? No. Weapons superior to those of world power are needed to annihilate it by reducing it to lye. It sounds crazy, an impossible pipe dream, but perhaps it can be realised if certain things are done, why not?

We are not talking about nuclear bombs, which are expensive, difficult to manufacture, easy to be uncovered and difficult to transport to targets for explosion. Look at what is happening with Iran. And in the case of Argentina, if they were not allowed to build the Condor 2 missile (they were almost bombed in Falda del Carmen), they will not be able to build a nuclear device. Besides, what good would it do?

Discarded, we are not talking about such weapons.

We are referring to other types of weapons, to non-conventional, low-cost weapons that cannot be discovered by the enemy. Undeclared weapons. And weapons of mass destruction.

Take biological weapons, for example. There are biological weapons that can be made in a garage, and with the greatest anonymity and low price. They take up no space and are easy to transport into enemy territory. Botulinum Toxin H could kill 2 billion people. This and more is in my book "The Forbidden Cosmovision", free on the Internet.

Then there are electromagnetic weapons, X-ray lasers, etc.

At this point we can cite the research and discoveries of the Argentine Luis Felipe Moyano, who died mysteriously (murdered?) in 1996. Moyano dedicated his life to the spiritual training of the warrior and to the research of unconventional and highly lethal weaponry. His results were so banned that today it is difficult to recover and order them, but it is not an impossible task.

Then there are the parapsychological weapons, to which I have devoted forty years of my life. With this type of weapon it is possible, among other things, to kill at a distance, with impunity and in a short time. Ideal for war. I talk about them in my book "The Forbidden Gnosis", which is also available for free on the Internet.

Once a man (Luis Felipe?) came to my office in Buenos Aires and left me the plans of a "telepathic transmitter". It was a complex diagram, but without the measurements. I asked him for those figures

He replied: "it will all be in a book that I am finishing and that I will bring to you here", with a strange title, "Metaphysics of the ..." (I don't remember the full title). That book, of which there was probably only one copy, he never gave it to me, today it is missing. It was his contribution to parapsychological warfare, but his speciality was unconventional weapons based on antigravity, unconventional propulsion of ships, telluric energies, and many other things.

Luis Felipe Moyano's other concern was the spiritual formation of the soldiers. To them he recommended the study of his Novela and Fundamentos (they are free on the Internet). For Moyano, every ideology, every belief system, every warrior's attitude, must be strongly grounded on firmly established theological foundations. Without them, man is naked, helpless, confused, blind and asleep. Only for a very deep, spiritual and theological motivation, men decide to go to war to kill or die. It is urgent and necessary to study the complete Knowledge that Luis Felipe Moyano brought to this world. That is the key that will open all the doors.

It is difficult to train a soldier perfectly now that, in addition to ideological confusion and the impossibility of a superior being able to punish a subordinate, and in the absence of dungeons and staking, everything in this area of training and learning seems to be lost irretrievably. Instead of warriors with Spirit, sissies with souls are being formed. But all is not totally lost. There is a great possibility of success which, though very difficult, is not impossible to achieve.

To those men-at-arms I want to remind them that we warriors have not come to this world to procure pleasure or happiness for ourselves. This world is for us the Valplads, the battlefield. And we have come to this world to destroy all the work of our Enemy from within.
