

MUH FASHY BOOKSHELF interviews Loiki Hulgaard

All right, welcome to another episode, another guest appearance on Mafasci Bookshelf. We have Loki, oh fuck, I forgot the last name, but he's he's face in person over there or I should say up there in America's attic for, I'm not really familiar with the case in all actuality, so we're gonna have Loki elaborate. Nice to be on your show.

Should I just refer to you as Mafasci or is there? No, Fasci is fine. Okay, sounds fair. Yep.

All right then. Yeah, so what exactly happened? How did you, what's going on? Please educate my viewers because most of them are probably going to be unfamiliar with what happened. Yeah, I'll just give the website address first so people can look it up there.

There's all the archive of information, all the propaganda material that I allegedly distributed. It's free-speech.is-great.net and that's the legal case website. I've got a website of my writings and cartoons and various videos and audiobooks which is the-struggle.net and that's hyphen sign.

Yeah, we'll make sure to link those in the description. Okay, yeah. So that goes over the legal case.

Basically what it was, what it consisted of for the most part is I relocated to a smaller city to get away from the murder capital of Canada which was Winnipeg, Manitoba, the totally Jewish-run prison basically. I wanted to get away from that place, get to a more secure location where I am right now. So I was saying to myself, well, I think given the way this world's going, you know, I want to make some type of contribution to white people in terms of waking them up to what's going on around them.

And I listened to your video, the In Real Life Activism video that you just did recently and, you know, I agree to some extent with what you're saying, but at the same time I still look upon it as a value to do in real life activism. And so that's basically what motivated me was a desire to, you know, wake people up obviously. So I distributed a bunch of leaflets and stickers and flyers around here, stamped huge amounts of money bills, a few thousand dollars worth of money bills with the caption Jewish white genocide and the Christian identity phrase Jews equal Esau so that it associates them in the public mind with Esau and the Edomites.

And that's a Christian identity concept that they're basically derived from, you know, that they're the synagogue of Satan and so forth. There's a lot of Christians around in this town. So, you know, I wanted them to sort of shift their thinking towards more healthy thinking away from Jew worship towards a more pro-white consciousness.

And so some of the stickers I distributed was putting a yellow star with 99% of the 1% is Jewish with the yellow star Jude, that National Socialist star that they made the Jews wear to demarcate them as Jews, putting that around on public infrastructure and signs, distributing leaflets that had said Jewish immigration equals white genocide, Jewish supremacism, you know, things of that sort, putting stickers up on churches and immigration centers that stated immigration equals white genocide. And from there distributing imprudently in distributing money bills. When I was purchasing goods, I would just like hand the bills to the clerk face down so they couldn't see them.

And then sometimes a couple of times they would just flip them over and they saw the caption. But I didn't really think that it was that serious in this country where that would be considered illegal, just putting Jewish white genocide on a money bill, stamping it on there. So apparently that's illegal.

So I was charged with public incitement of hatred for one of the locations where I purchased something there. The Jewish clerk flips the money bill over, tries to hold it up to the camera to get me on camera, and then submits it to the police. They've got other informants around here.

So I'm arrested outside of a public building. And from there, I'm basically put into a holding cell for about, I think it was 45 hours or something like that while they're getting a bail package together for me. The police simultaneously go into my place, they're rooting through all my stuff, throwing it all around and took about eight and a half thousand dollars worth of my stuff, a couple thousand dollars of money bills that had those stamps on it.

Took a bunch of firearms of mine that I had not properly stored according to the laws of this country. And so they're trying to blow it up in the newspapers and the media here as a terroristic event where I'm some potential terrorist who's going to go and gun people down or whatever the case. So that's damaging my reputation in the town.

All the Jews, the Jewish community is snapping my photos. They're distributing my photo around amongst the entire town. It's about 70,000 people here.

But everywhere I go, I get all these Zionist Christians giving me this sort of bug-eye look, you know, this fanatical stare of hatred toward me and so forth, because I dared to criticize their chosen master race, you know, which is, of course, obviously ludicrous, a double standard where they are suddenly looking upon themselves as the chosen master race, racial supremacy. But if you seek to defend yourself as a white person, then that's, you know, somehow evil and hatred and hateful because the Jews told them that it was hate, which is, of course, absurd and stupid because a message is not a human emotion. Words are not human emotions.

They're just words. So, obviously, communicating certain messages that other people call human emotions are not that. So it's just an absurd and stupid situation.

But from there, I was put into the holding cell for quite an extended period of time. They're giving me bail conditions where I have to pay $4,000 if I violate their bail conditions. I'm not allowed outside after 10 o'clock at night or before 6 o'clock in the morning.

If I do so, then I'll be subject to jail and the loss of $4,000. So I'm basically, I've been under house arrest since August of last year, can't go outside at night, can't really do anything. Basically, effectively neutralized me in terms of my ability to propagandize people and so forth.

What's beyond that occurred, basically, they're trying to railroad me through the system from the very beginning, trying to really force it through, not, you know, how they keep people in the dark when these sorts of cases occur. If you're not a recidivist criminal who knows the intricacies of the law, all the minutiae of procedural law, then they'll just take every advantage of you that they possibly can to railroad you through the system. So I was doing what I could throughout that time from this past year, trying to get my message out on the net, trying to write, trying to make videos and propagandize people about things, have a couple interviews here and there.

And then basically from that point, having to rely on legal aid, no lawyer would take the case. Most lawyers wouldn't take the case for a legal aid certificate, which is a reduced fee that they receive for their services. So most of them were just a bunch of greedy money grubs, you know, they wouldn't deal with the case.

They kept delegating me to whomever else. And none of them had a willingness to deal with the case either. They were trying to fob off on me right away, a Jewish lawyer here, a Jewish lawyer there.

And obviously I can't extend trust to those types. From that point, basically during the time of the Bowers shooting, that false flag that happened last year, Robert Bowers with the Pittsburgh synagogue. Yeah, he lived right there.

He lived, you know, over a couple of zip codes from me. Okay. Yeah.

Yeah. So far as I've researched on the net, that's basically a false flag that they pulled there. So yeah.

Yeah. If you so did you read the same article I did that where the FBI was doing like a practice practice thing, like nine months beforehand over there at Squirrel Hill at that synagogue? It's like, it's amazing that that's published out there that they were practicing for a shooting. And then all of a sudden, yeah, it's basically a revelation of the method, the Jewish little game, their sort of psychological game where they think they can discharge their karma for harming other people by letting them know what they're going to do before they do it to them.

So according to their twisted logic, that enables them to, you know, exculpate their sins, I guess you could say, but not really. I don't think that that works that way in real life. So in any case, yeah, that during that case, the police detectives were coming around me trying to interrogate me about the shooting and try to draw an association between me and the shooting.

And so I'm being bothered by them. What else transpired in that event? Basically, the only lawyer that I could get, actually, no, right around after that time, there was some bunch of Antifa freaks, some red skin, female disabled cripple, and a couple of these other degenerate intervention. They're basically stalking me, making death threats on the internet.

And around that time, too, since this is near a NATO base, CFB Suffield it is, which is about 30 minutes outside of the city here, which is like where they train British military troops and British artillery. I was seeing helicopters right above my house. I hear the rotors, you know, rotating and so forth.

And I look, I press up my face to the glass on a very acute angle so I can see above. I see a military helicopter flying right over my house, hovering over it. I see a military jet with a, you know, transparent radar nose cone coming down right over my house on a very low altitude.

And, you know, I'm getting crackling sounds on the phone and so forth. So I'm basically being like a targeted individual, I guess, especially by this, this, whatever you wish to call it, a cabal of Jews who run the town for the most part, it seems they, they're very prominent in all positions of government here and all the, they run all the franchises, the box stores like usual. They run all the security companies, the cab companies.

So I walk around the streets and I'm seeing, you know, cabs driving around this sort of surveillance techniques. One goes this way, I walk forward, another one comes this way, you know, comes behind you or whatever the case that I'm seeing a private security company vehicles, which is also run. It's basically a monopoly that they have here on the private security, the private security vehicles coming around me, you know, spying on me and so forth.

And then a couple of these other shootings that occurred, I think it was the Tehran shooting. That's another false flag, of course, that happened in New Zealand. And I'm walking out of the gym, I've got police coming after me, like there's three police vehicles chasing after me and so forth.

And, you know, let me see your notice of recognizance, blah, blah, blah, and so forth. So it's basically just been a sort of ongoing, not really overly intense, but during the course of the time of these false flag shootings, and especially right after the case, when this occurred, it was very, you know, more intense focus, I guess you could say, on me. The lawyer that I managed to get initially was a sort of younger, younger than me and you, liberal type lawyer, he had defended a pedophile teacher in a nearby province.

He had overturned the gay marriage, this sort of like a procedure for converting bags into straights in a nearby city here. He had to have that decision overturned so that they couldn't do that. So he's a total degenerate liberal.

And basically, he was the only lawyer that I could get. So I just did whatever, you know, extending some degree of trust to the person, even though, you know, he seemed like he cared somewhat about freedom of speech. But at the same time, obviously, given his credentials, his background, he was pretty much rotten to the core liberal.

So he was basically trying to railroad me through the system, I guess, get me to have some sort of like, I don't know what it was called exactly, to sign a statement of facts document, which is basically like a confession, a plea bargain with these people. He wasn't even really giving me access to the police report, letting me know what the police had on me. I should mention too, that in the fall of last year, because the police report had been put on the internet, on a website, the police and Crown, which is in Canada, the judicial system called the Crown, because it's the Crown of England.

Basically, we're a dominion of of England, basically, at least not formally, but they still call it the Crown here. So they told me to take down the post of the disclosure on the internet. This was taken down, then they wouldn't release the disclosure to me for probably until like a month ago or so, when I got another lawyer.

But initially, the first lawyer, he would only let me see like little bits of it. He says, Well, do you want to see the disclosure? I could, I could let you see it, turns his computer to me, that's it. So I don't even know what's really going on, what they have on me.

And yet they're trying to force me to sign a plea bargain or something for two years in jail for this stuff, for these firearms offences and for the so called public incitement of hatred against the Jewish community, and against fags and so forth, because I was distributing literature that was critical of the fags as well, which I did not really know about, but it was part of some other pamphlets that I had thrown around. And so he wanted me to sign a statement of effects. And I say, Well, I'll look over it.

And so they're thinking, I'm going to sign this. No. Then the lawyer said, Well, I can't represent you because you told me stuff that wouldn't be in your interest.

So I'm going to have to sever ties with you. And so mainly probably because he was, you know, a little bit sketchy about damaging his reputation. He didn't want, you know, to be associated with somebody who is vilified as a anti-Semite or whatever the case, a neo-Nazi, blah, blah, blah.

So he basically dumped the case like a hot potato. And from there, I was seeking other lawyers, not having much luck. They're going to try to force me to have some sort of like pretrial agreement or statement or pretrial hearing it was.

Basically, just trying to railroad me through the system at every turn they possibly could when I didn't even know what's held against me, what information the police had. And then from there, I finally get another lawyer who is apparently more on the side of actual doing his job properly, according to his job description, and is not biased by, you know, any of the SJW leftist type of value system. He seems to be somewhat around our age, somebody who is within the range of maybe we could say normal, rational, not irrational, leftist, whatever.

So that's going somewhat well now, it appears. What else can I tell you about it? Basically, that's pretty much what they're wanting to get, so far as I know at this time. It's two years in jail for it.

Well, what's the max that you could get? There was somebody recently, and this case is also going in process right now, somebody named Dr. James Sears, who is a National Socialist who has the, I think it's called the New Constitution Party of Canada. Outside of Toronto, he published a satirical newspaper called Your Ward News, which is basically where he satirizes using a lot of collage illustrations, gimp type illustrations, graphics. Is that that long hair guy? Yeah.

Okay. Yeah, so you know who he is, but maybe somebody in your audience wouldn't know. He's basically, so far as I know, I don't know the man personally, but a National Socialist, and he's being subjected to the same sort of charges, public incitement of hatred against women and against the Jewish community.

Well, I mean, the whole thing with National Socialists, if you're like a National Socialist, in my opinion, it just means that you have a healthy mindset, and you want your people to, you know, you want to conserve your people. I mean, that's pretty much what National Socialism is to me, is you want a healthy society with your people to live on, so I mean. Excellent.

Blood and soil, basically. I just wrote a little article for another Buddhist free speech activist in Canada, outside of Vancouver. He's got a website called Thula Society.ca, I think it is.

It's basically a Thula Contemplative Society of Adolf Hitler. His name is Brian Roux, outside of Vancouver. Yeah, I know him.

I watched a couple of his videos. He, you know, he had Mike King. No, is that his name? Mike King, right? MS King.

He had MS King on his show, man. I'm kind of like, I'm kind of irritated about that. I would have loved to talk to MS King.

He was like my ultimate red pill. He did this book entitled The Bad War, which really set the record straight on World War II, and just the Adolf Hitler question in general, man. That book changed my fucking life.

Yeah, tomatobubble.com is his website, so far as I can recall. Yeah, I had written an article just, I don't know when it was, maybe last year, but just like two days ago, it was put up on Brian Roux's Thula Society.ca website, called National Socialism, Politicization of Nature. And that's basically an encapsulation of my view of National Socialism, which is basically blood and soil, the laws of nature.

Yeah, yeah, exactly. It makes fucking sense, and it's like vilified. Right, and it's vilified because it's a threat to the Jewish occupation government, tyranny over the world.

Obviously, what they want is basically United Nations, slavery, race-mixed, colority kids, Goyim, who have no identity, know nothing, are just dumbed down, chipped slaves. Low wages. Yeah.

Low standard of living. Pretty much. And everybody could be living like in China, in a sort of one room, just like this room here, you know, I could reach out and almost touch the walls here.

This is not an apartment, but I've lived in conditions that are somewhat similar to extreme poverty. So that's what they want from people. They want a 5G smart meter blasting you with whatever frequencies they can, you know, bombard you with to mind control you, alter your brainwave activity.

I've had some comments on some of these interviews that I did with Brian Roux by some stalkers. One of them is a professor, I think, at U of Colorado or something like that. And she was making reference to, you know, who Alfred Schaeffer is, right? Yes.

Yeah. She was making reference to him being subjected to microwave mind, you know, microwave weapon radiation. You know what that is? I think it's Jeff Renz's show, you know, who Jeff Renz is, I guess, right? Yeah, I, you know, years ago before I, you know, really took the, you know, the red pill, like most of us, you know, we started the Alex Jones and the conspiracy theories and all that shit.

So, I mean, I'm acquainted with all this shit from years back. Yeah. So basically, the person is making comments about how Alfred Schaeffer is being used as an experimental guinea pig in Germany for the usage of these microwave mind control weapons or what mind destroying weapons, particle beam weapons.

And so how that relates to me too is that they're saying that I was going to commit suicide in jail if I ever was put in there. And this red skin stalker who is stalking me, one of them, is affiliated with a Jewish organization here. She's basically their puppet.

And there's another one making all sorts of death threats, saying they're going to, you know, they're good with a knife and so forth, and all this sort of juvenile garbage. But when I first, when I came out of the cell last year, I was in the state of sort of, I don't know what it would be called, apathy, maybe just a desire not to live any longer because I got tired of this horrible world of all the abuse. And, you know, it seems so hopeless that there is no means to really do anything.

So I'd actually attempted suicide, as you can see here, maybe, where those tattoos are. If you can see that. Oh, you went up the tracks like a man.

Yeah. Yeah, yeah, yeah, you went up the tracks, man. Yeah, that's not a cry for help.

That's a I don't give a fuck move right there. Yeah. Basically, my intention was to sort of go out in a stoical manner like Seneca or one of the Roman patricians, just lying in the bathtub and bleeding out because I got sick of this world.

But then I said, Oh, no, I can't do this. I tried it once, ripped it open, blood was congealing. Then I try it again.

And then still congealing. So I say, Well, this has got to be a sign, you know, that I should probably live, whether it's a sign from God or whatever it may be. I'm thinking that this is obviously a bad decision.

So I call the ambulance, Filipino cop and some more decent white cop show up here. The Filipino cop says, Well, if you want to cut yourself, if you want to kill yourself, you have to do it a different way. And he shows me how to do it.

Like he's, you know, trying to convince me to kill myself. So it's pretty unprofessional. Obviously, he's a racial enemy.

So he hates white people. So that's that. And then I'm taken to the emergency room.

First, psychiatric nurse, I speak to the Jew. She's like, Oh, well, you never know what's on the other side, you know, and so forth, trying to sort of make it look like something appealing, like I should repeat the attempt. Then what was your what was your diagnosis? What they diagnosed you with? Nothing.

I speak to her. Then she shifts me over to a psychiatrist, a psychiatrist, and the psychiatrist, the Jew. So I say right away, I don't hate Jews.

And I'm trying to explain to her, you know, in a friendly way. And then what happens in the police report later that I just recently discovered, like a month and a half ago or so. It says a quote from her, Loki discussed his hatred of Jews.

But I just specifically stated that I didn't hate Jews. So she basically just lied on paper. I'm going to try to, you know, go over her head and make a formal complaint about her.

I also made another formal complaint about the same Jewish psychiatrist last year, because she released me without putting me on suicide watch, sort of suspecting that I might repeat and wanting me to obviously, because, you know, I told her, well, if I have to go to jail for five years or something like that, I'm just going to starve myself to death. I don't want to have to endure that sort of thing. And, you know, she just let me go.

They were actually going to force me to walk over to the hospital, too. After this, wouldn't even give me a voucher for a cab or something like that. This other Jewish nurse like, fine, I'll give you a voucher for a cab.

Here you go. And then I just, but I spoke to a cab driver, a blue collar white guy who had been in jail. When I left there, I was thinking about killing myself at that point.

But then I spoke to him, he said, no, you can't do that. You know, and he convinced me not to do that. So that was basically a godsend there, a boon that I had that opportunity to speak to him because that persuaded me not to do that.

And so from there managed to get out of that sort of situation. So that was good. Basically, everywhere I go in this town, I've got Jews always trying to throw, you know, stumbling blocks in my path.

They always sort of hover around and, you know, in that sort of passive aggressive way, they'll like, brag about themselves. They'll, you know, try to attack you in sort of insidious ways. Like they usually have that tendency of doing so.

Basically, I'm sort of targeted here. Nothing really that I can do, so far as I know. And I'm basically just sort of in limbo, you know, trying to reach out to people, try to spread the message to whatever extent I can, trying to do my writings and things, maybe people will pick up some ideas and so forth and utilize those, learn from the mistakes.

Well, how do you, that's another thing. Let's go over some questions real quick. So you answered the whole prison thing, how many years you could do with that.

What caused you to, what enlightened you to the, you know, to the existential threat we're facing and through your propaganda and whatnot that you're, you know, being persecuted for? Do you feel like it was actually beneficial? Do you feel as though you convinced a couple people that there's a problem with our society or do you feel as though it was fruitless? Please elaborate. Yeah, that sort of addresses the in real life activism video you made a couple of days ago that I watched. I still think it was valuable.

I never have any regrets because it's all a learning lesson in life. Basically what is, is, and there's nothing you can really do about that. You can just learn, you know, maybe I should have approached this differently.

Maybe I shouldn't have been so imprudent, just handing money bills out. And so from there I developed another protocol for propaganda, which I call Bank Heist Propaganda Protocol. Take a bunch of bills out of the bank, out of bank A, stamp them like this with the permanent marker ink stamps, deposit them in another bank.

And, you know, keep doing that on a cycle, especially in America, because you have one dollar bills. So every paycheck you get, you just take the bills out, stamp it, dump it in the other bank. You know, every one of those bills is going to be seen probably 10,000 times minimum.

So if that's a thousand one dollar bills per month, then that's 10,000 times 1,000, which is like a hundred thousand. And that's going to keep on circulating those simple messages, Jewish white genocide, citing a website with statistics. I cited the Zog.info. People can cite JewWatch.com. So I think it's valuable.

I think it's actually pretty essential to do that, even though it entails risk. Obviously you want to be as prudent and cautious as possible. So I would still do that.

And I don't have any regrets about it, because it enabled me to get my message out to others, even and especially after the case too. But during the course of that time, though that specific propaganda had a little bit of reach outside of this town, you know, they recorded the so-called anti-Semitic incidents and so forth. But there are obviously better ways of going about it than I would not distribute propaganda in the town that I live in, unless it's a very large town.

And I would not do it in such a way that's traceable to me, the same type of thing, in the same way, the same method. So I still would continue to do that. And I would recommend that others do it, thinking that's valuable.

But I subscribe to your perspective also of the natalist perspective, the conception of children, which of course, as you had said, I think that video, I've watched quite a lot of your videos in the last week or so, that at this time with the cultural change, that sort of shift that occurred, I don't know when it was, maybe 2013, 14, 15, was when it began, when they really started wrapping up this immigrant invasion and started really brainwashing the younger generations to be like hardcore neoliberal Marxist nuts, turning up the anti-white agenda intensity. Yeah, it's pretty hard to find a woman under these conditions, because pretty much, especially in Canada, there really is no presence for racialism in this country. So it would seem maybe at a very subdued level at best.

What's the racial makeup or where you were living at? In this town, statistically, which is Medicine Hat, Alberta, which is basically two and a half or so hours to the south, southeast on a diagonal from Calgary. It's just above the Montana border, and just an hour to the west of the Saskatchewan border, which is the province to the east. So I would say probably about 70,000 people or more in the whole area, I think there's like 100,000 people, and probably something along the lines of like 70% white, although they'll state more.

There's a lot of Jews in this town, I'm seeing them all over the place with their serpent seed crawling around, you know, bragging about how they hash their chillens, their serpent seed. And I would say, estimating about 70% white, but this town specifically is not, so far as I can tell, really representative of the whole country, because this whole region of the country is more like Zionist Christian, you know, sort of right wing Zionist, a lot of Bible banging Christians around here. But I still think it's a redeemable place.

And they keep filling the place up with foreign invaders, of course, as, as more or less everywhere. But here, it's not so bad. There's a lot of baby boomers here.

So yeah, I remember the baby boomer video you had done, I think it was what baby boomer apathy or something like that it was called. I can't remember exactly. Yeah.

Yeah. I've written quite a lot about the baby boomers. And I can tell you, the only reason why I'm in this position right now is because my baby boomer liberal father ruining my life, not only from birth, but in recent years.

And basically, it led to disinheritance, massive traumatic abuse, homelessness on two occasions, you know, poverty, ruination of my career plans, and so forth. So when you're in a condition like that, when you have no money, you have no status, and then you're a quote, unquote, evil racist, then and you don't drink liquor, you don't hang around bars, you don't hang around in churches, worshipping Jews or non whites, it's very difficult to even find a place, let alone to deal with women. So if you can find that if you can get away with that, and manage to find a place to get into contact with women, then of course, do whatever you can do.

Here, hold on, let me let me interject for the audience. The audience knows that I am, you know, a Bukowski, I am a man of many, you know, different jobs throughout my life. And I just want to put it out there for the guys who aren't, you know, have professional careers or trades that are looking for a job or whatnot.

I advise you single guys to go find a job in the restaurant industry, go somewhere where it's corporate, maybe I'm telling you there's gonna be new waitresses, there's gonna be new waitresses and servers and in front of the house, there's gonna be all type of new women coming and going. All right, the chances of you finding a woman, a girlfriend, somebody, you know, who you might be able to settle down with, you know, if you know, via a restaurant, it's up there, it's possible, you know, in the past, I've had a couple of relations, I'm not bragging, I'm just saying that this is possible. In the past, I dated some woman, this was years ago at a restaurant.

Believe me, there's tons of women that work at restaurants as waitresses. So, I mean, think about this guys, please, I mean, don't lose all fucking hope. Yeah, I worked at security quite a long time ago and I was posted to all sorts of expensive hotels and whatever, you know, and you see all the people there.

So, it's a good way to, that's also another good way maybe to some extent to, you know, get a woman for yourself because you're posted around and you're up at night. So, you're up around the nightlife and so forth. They put you outside of bars and stuff like that where you meet all sorts of women who are drunk and partying.

So, yeah. Yeah, I mean, you never know. You just, you simply never know and as long as you're out there, like that's the thing is putting yourself on display.

Like when I was single, the last thing I was doing was this. That's the last thing I was doing. I was always out.

I was either at my job and afterwards, I was out. My main priority was finding a woman. So, I mean, if people are single, that should be your priority.

I don't understand it. I really don't, like, you know, it's like fuck. Like when I was from age like 15 on up, it's always been like, you know, woman.

I need a woman. Once I get a woman, it's like other things could follow after that but it's like that was always my main priority. It doesn't seem like it's like that's the main priority for most of these younger guys now.

It's bizarre to me. It's like I don't know if it's like dropping testosterone levels, if it's pornography abuse or lack of confidence or a multitude of things, you know, an amalgamation of things but things must change. Yeah, I agree with you entirely.

I think pornography especially is a very serious problem. It is actually like an electronic drug because it causes massive dopamine spikes and that sort of creates a feedback loops and addiction. I don't know.

I kind of fucking disagree with this whole pornography take with everybody. Everybody's always like, oh, this is like, I don't understand how pornography is going to hinder your productivity with going out there and being social. If anything, jerking off to some motherfucking woman, getting fucked by some, you know, foreign penis, if anything, that's going to entice you to go out there and want to engage in the real thing even more, or at least it did with me.

All right, I'm not too keen on porn. I never really was. But I remember I was watching porn.

I was never happy about it. I was never watching it with a smile and jerking off. I always have my angry face off on when I was jerking off and my main priority, like I said, the real thing.

So these guys settle in for this digital fucking pornography. It's like that. To me, that's loser shit.

Yeah, I'm pretty sure. I'll just reference the website yourbrainonporn.com. I investigated that before because I had a bit of a problem there too. And from personal experience, I can say that if you totally abstain from any sort of sexual relations or activity for, you know, a week or so that it'll actually build up your testosterone levels.

That's been my personal experience, especially if you eat right and you diet properly and so forth. So yeah, obviously, it's a priority to seek a woman. And that could also be for some people motivation for other people not.

But as to where I got my start in being aware or awakened to this reality of the Jewish conspiracy, basically, I'll say I think it probably started around 2004, when I stumbled upon an article of Joseph Goebbels on calvin.edu German propaganda archive, and a few speeches of Hitler. And then from there, I was like, well, I don't really, you know, what else can we get out of this? I was always oriented around philosophy and around European culture, Nietzsche, and so forth. I've been studying philosophy in school.

And before that, I was studying Nietzsche and so on. So I was always European in my mind, I always had a racial ethnic consciousness. From there, I basically gave up academic philosophy in like 2005, when I came to realize it was more like pure liberal brainwashing and brain pollution, although it wasn't as extreme then as it is now.

From there, I said, well, what can we do? I investigated the net, found Julius Ebola. I'm not too sure if you're familiar with him, but he's yeah, yeah, that's, that's definitely what I would prescribe to most people. I've also got a lot of Ebola books.

I would say that's number one on the list, right there. Yeah, yeah, I have that also. There's notes on the Third Reich and Ride the Tiger and so forth.

Revolt Against the Modern World, Metaphysics of War. It goes on and on. Yeah, Pagan Imperialists especially is a very good quality book.

Oh, really? Did that book fucking put me to sleep, man? I read it, but that was tough. Yeah, that was a tough read, man. All right.

I think I subscribe to it for the most part, though. It was more like a critique of why Christianity and Catholicism aren't good enough to carry the Aryan through into the future, basically. So it's somewhat a refutation of Catholicism.

But yeah, I got it. Yeah, I got it. I enjoyed it, but I mean, I don't know.

Yeah. So I got into racialism then, through that means David Duke, American Nazi Party, George Lincoln, Rockwell. Julius Evelum.

Didn't really have much means of contacting people in Canada where I was in Winnipeg. I think a year later, I met one guy who was a hardcore racist. Never had any consistent dealings with the guy.

Never met anyone else in this whole country who was a racist. Wanted to go into the military to try to make changes, to try to do what I could to fight against the Jewish conspiracy. When I went in there, I said, well, this isn't working.

You know, these people are just money-grubbing conservatards. They're not racials. There might have been some in there, but for the most part, it seemed like they were just careerists and, you know, the money-grubbing conservatard types.

So I came out of that. Then my intention was to set up a white nationalist community outside of Vancouver, because my dad inherited some land from his father. He was used to saying, well, let's go set up a farm on my land.

Well, that was 2010. I quit my job, gave up my career plans. Six and a half years later, living in the middle of nowhere, having to eat butcher scraps out of butchers, having to eat nothing but potatoes, having $200 a month for welfare, having my whole life totally destroyed, all because of a baby boomer alcoholic father who basically disinherited his own children and, you know, enveigled myself into a business project, alleged business project, just so he could, you know, entertain himself and play God, basically, with my life.

So that pretty much is where we are right now. From there, I was like, well, what can I do? I went to the murder capital of Canada, Winnipeg, Manitoba, in the exact center of Canada. I was going to reply to the military.

What's up? Hold on. You say the murder capital. So who's responsible for all the murders up there? Well, so far as I can recall, they've dumped a lot of Somalians.

They dumped a lot of Negroes, niggers. They dumped a lot of, there's, of course, a lot of Redskins in there. There's Indian posse, the Mad Cow gang, which is Somalian gang.

Basically, I assume it's predominantly Somalians, maybe some Nigerians. Obviously, the obligatory Redskins, most of them are a bunch of degenerate, you know, leeches on the system for the most part. So I could tell another story, when I was finally finished with this idiotic project, I left the countryside where I was staying in a little shack with my father, who harassed me endlessly.

I finally went out of there. I was saying to myself, I'm going to go join the military again. Well, I was waiting.

I finally managed to get a ghetto apartment outside of my alma mater in the downtown. I was hearing gunshots go off in the middle of the day. There was somebody hacked to death with a machete just a couple weeks before, right outside of the place.

I was in a ghetto apartment on one side of the other room. There was a Redskin drug dealer. Other side, another Redskin drug dealer.

Above me, there was a mental patient. Below me was a laundry room. In the hall behind me, separating the two buildings, there was a bunch of pigeons flying around all the time.

Across, outside of the window, there's a house next door. In the upstairs, there are some faggot Redskins with his endless lovers. And then below that, there's a race-mixing couple, some doughy, fat white dude with his ugly Filipino oriental wife.

And they're staring into my window. These fags are trying to beckon me. They're like hooting and staring at me when I'm trying to take a bath.

I have to cover the window with like curtains and towels so they won't spy into my place. Just another example of this degeneration of society. And I had been away from that city for like five years.

And I came back and I saw all that degeneracy. And I said to myself, wow, this is going crazy. I have to do what I can to try to help somebody somehow while I'm in the midst of other plans.

So basically, that takes us up to the present moment. I'm sort of in limbo. Don't really know what can be done here.

If I could relocate to the States, I would. But I don't think that that will be legally very likely because I'm probably put on a list or something like that. And financially, I don't have the means.

I think you're already on a list, man. Oh, yeah. Yeah.

In Winnipeg, I was also doing similar activities. I'd walk around outside. There's police helicopters flying around, following me around.

In the middle of the night, I'd walk around, be tailed by the police helicopter. Redskin drug dealer next door, hovering around with her chillins. I throw a cup of water outside the window because they're screaming and shouting.

I throw that out at the chillins. Then they wrap me to the cops. Police show up.

Jewish cop with his Negro slave. They're trying to pump me for information, talking about assassination of politicians and stuff like that, trying to feel me out to see if I'm going to go and target people or something like this. You know, just right there, they were sort of on me, I guess.

Also, I was run over by a Jew, a Jewish female, a rich Jewish female. It was on camera. I was on my bike with grocery bags on each handlebar.

The Jew stares at me. She runs right at me, accelerates. I fall to the ground.

There's a witness. He got it on his phone. So I say, I'm going to charge you with assault.

Call the police. Police show up. They're like, we'll handle it.

Next thing I know, I'm in my apartment. The Jew just takes off, doesn't matter, doesn't care. The sergeant on the phone is like, oh, yeah, yeah, no harm done, blah, blah, blah.

I said, I want to charge this woman with assault. I said, are you covering for your Jewish masters or something like that? And he's like, yeah, that's an epithet, blah, blah, blah. And so I said, well, you're obviously a Freemason if you're a sergeant, right? Covering for your Jewish masters? And he said, I think we're done here.

So that was the end of that. You can get no defense, basically, against the Jews in this town. They can do whatever they want, basically, in this whole country, for the most part, that they're basically more or less above the law and they'll do whatever they can to try to worm around whatever semblance of law exists.

So basically, that's where it stands here. I'm sure in the States, it's probably, in a way, worse, maybe, in some ways, anyway. Or am I wrong? I don't know.

Your situation sounds pretty bleak, man. I don't know. I mean, I've never heard of Canada sound like that, but I don't talk to many Canadians.

I mean, what do you think? Do you think Canada's a lost cause already or what? Well, like in the Turner Diaries and William L. Pierce's The Turner Diaries, he basically says that Canada solves its problems through compromise and that, I think, so far as I can remember, it was assimilated into the States, or at least part of it was, maybe the whole of it. So I'm almost certain Canada is sort of like a little sister to the United States, who's like the elder brother. And Canada's just going to be assimilated because it's just a natural resource, in a way.

Whoever wins the race war of the world will take Canada over. And I'm sure that if there's going to be any civilization at all, then it will be a white victory, or it'll be Valhalla, and there'll be no civilization on this earth whatsoever, basically. Well, I'll tell you what, with the Turner Diaries, you know, I own that.

It's right here, and I live in Pittsburgh, and Pittsburgh gets blown the fuck up in this novel. Oh, really? That might be a plan, actually. Who knows, right? I don't know, man.

I'm starting to think that there's just going to be stagnation. I'm starting to think that, you know, people, no matter how much we, you know, enlighten the masses, that they just don't care. I just, I don't know.

I'm starting to think there's just gonna be stagnation and fucking defeat at this point, man. It's like when there's a couple thousand people on the internet that are, you know, red-pilled and, you know, literally ready to go. But, I mean, it doesn't show in the general public.

When you go out there, man, it's just apathy. Yeah, I guess that's true. But at the same time, there was apathy in Germany before Hitler came to power also.

And in Germany, you can see already, they've got national socialists marching in the streets and everything else. So, I think, I believe it was Miguel Sarando. You probably heard of him, right? Yeah, he was the big esoteric Hitler guy.

Yep. Yeah, he wrote Adolf Hitler, The Ultimate Avatar and various other books. And basically, he says that, so far as I remember, Kalki Avatara, or the final avatar of Vishnu, comes back and sweeps away basically all the evil of this world.

So, and I'm also reading another book now by William White, who was the head of the national socialist movement, so far as I remember, called The Centuries of Revolution, where he says more or less the same thing, that Kalki Avatar will return and so forth, and that it will probably be in Germany that that occurs. And I'm thinking that that may very well be the case in a karmic sense, because the Jews have so much karma that they've amassed, that there's no way that they could possibly duck out of that without some type of backlash, even if only in some other dimension or something like that. Who knows? Well, that's the thing with karma.

Karma is after death. So, essentially, it would be, you know, in another dimension. Well, not necessarily.

I'm thinking in the Buddhist sense. In the Buddhist sense, when people use karma, that's what they usually mean with the whole karma thing, and that's like, that's not of this world, man. Well, it impinges on this world, so it affects it.

You know, every action has a reaction equal and opposite there, too. So, basically, what goes around comes around. You bring about your own destruction through your evil deeds.

Like I said earlier in our discussion, the Jews are always trying to, you know, let you know what they're going to do before they do it in some sort of very super secret, subtle way through their numerology and stuff. But you can't discharge your karma like that, because people can't possibly know the inner secrets of your retarded, kabbalistic religion. Well, what about, Kissinger said, you know, Henry Kissinger, that Jew, I believe he's still alive, too.

Yeah, he's like a monster, basically. Yeah, he said that Israel isn't going to exist in like 20 or 40 years. He said this years ago.

Yeah, I actually talked to somebody who is a Freemason when I was basically, given my circumstances now, I have to be on welfare, but as a condition of my continuous being on welfare, I had to go and speak to a counselor for some reason. So, this counselor, he's a Mormon and he's a Freemason. He told me he was a Freemason and he was alluding to the fact that Israel wouldn't exist and that the new Jerusalem is going to be in the United States on the border of Kansas and Missouri, near Kansas City, Missouri, and that there's an actual town that's owned by the Mormon church called the New Jerusalem.

So, that's what he's saying. So, that was like a revelation right there that the state of Israel will probably be destroyed or something like that, once they have a conflagration that they're going to build up to, probably. But then again, who knows, right? We can only just speculate or draw inferences and try to get our survivalistic prepping going on, beans, bullets, band-aids, bomb shelters, whatever you can afford, or else just prepare to go to wherever you go, basically.

Do you think that you would have attempted the whole suicide endeavor if you were married with kids at the time? No, not likely. That's obviously a very significant factor as well. As you had mentioned in one of your videos, the incel video, now that I recall, with Ted Bundy and all that stuff, you were saying that these people are just going to blow up because they've got nothing in life.

They don't have a wife and children and so they've got no real reason to be alive. They're prohibited from existing through, in your country, affirmative action. In my country, the Employment Equity Act, which is that legislation that cuts white males out of society, basically.

And then they're persecuted and harassed endlessly in the school system by all the non-white scum and the Jewish teachers and so forth, feminist liberal teachers. So basically, if you're a white male, you're targeted for destruction through psychological abuse. In this country now, they're starting to develop or to put into the public consciousness, euthanasia.

So they're wanting to create enough hardship and stress in people's lives that they'll say, oh, look, we're going to help you. We'll help you to commit suicide with euthanasia. So that's what I'm thinking.

Another one of their evil little protocols is to put forth the assisted suicide so they can get the white males to commit suicide after they harass them endlessly and persecute them, basically. Because you see that in the behavior of the non-whites and Jews, they always look at you like you're a problem. That sort of passive-aggressive attitude of theirs, you know, staring at you like you're a problem when the reality is you're just, you know, a perfectly decent person.

But that's their technique of trying to destroy you, basically, is through portraying you or constructing your identity as some sort of devil or demon, right? You're a racist devil or a slaver and a colonialist and various other bullshit that they invent, for the most part. These people are fucking retarded. If you look back in the history books, you know, my people are responsible for all the great things that's making society work.

I mean, everything almost goes back to us. We lit up the fucking world. We found a way to use electricity, for God's sakes, and light up the world.

I mean, everything goes back. It all goes back to us. And these people want to fucking see us destroyed.

What do they think? Do they think these other mediocre, you know, groups of people are actually going to be able to sustain what we built and keep it together? I mean, are they not fucking thinking the world's going to fucking go black once we go extinct? Pretty much. Even in Egypt, they had electricity and Egypt was white thousands of years ago. If people read Arthur Kemp's, what is it called? Yeah, yeah, yeah.

He's onto something there. Definitely. So basically, if you look at China and all the pollution, they can't sustain their environment.

They overpopulate our territory because they're a beast man. They can't maintain civilized relations. They're always cannibalizing each other.

They eat dead fetal tissue in China, probably even living children or something of that sort. You know, I look upon Chinese as basically psychopaths. If you look in this country, there was a case in 2007, outside of where I was living in Winnipeg, a case of Vincent Lai, L-I.

He was like a cannibal on the Greyhound bus. He cut the head off of a white male circus worker and he cut his testicles and penis off and ate it. And then he was given only a little bit of time in a mental institution and he was re-released onto the streets with a name change.

So his name is Will Baker now and he's out in Winnipeg, Manitoba. He can just get away with cutting the head off a guy and so forth. Oh, he's mentally ill.

But that to me is the nature of a Chinese. They're basically psychopathic and evil creatures. I actually did a little video, a little writing, where I compared the Oriental to a grey alien.

You know how grey aliens do cattle mutilation, allegedly, right? To me, Chinese and Orientals are basically derived from some sort of grey alien, which is mixed with the anthropoids on the earth or something like that, maybe thousands of years ago or who knows, right? You can never be sure. Speculation, but you can never be sure. I'm concerned with India, China and Africa, these people, these three nations, man, they're gonna have just a booming population.

They don't know how to stop. There's gonna be billions upon billions of Africans by the turn of the century. Look at India and China.

This is no good, man. We can't sustain all these bonus people who don't really contribute much to begin with. For the most part, especially over there in the one place, it's pretty much just a bunch of violent, useless eaters.

Nature needs to intertwine. And rectify all these coming calamities, man. Well, it's inevitable in my opinion.

I think they have about a decade left before all this ends. I'm pretty sure they're gonna start like a world war by 2025 over Iran or whatever the case, greater Israel. From there, it'll be whatever chaos the white nations undergo, there's not going to be any foreign aid given to the non-whites.

Once that happens, there'll be mass die-offs all over the world, probably 90% population decrease. They've got Islam in all their countries. So Islam will fight against whatever other rival religion, like Hinduism or Sikhism in India.

In probably Pakistan and India will usually destroy each other through nuclear war. You know, China versus North Korea versus Japan, who knows, right? So they're not going to be sustaining their population for long, that's for sure. You can pretty much guarantee that that's the case.

Of course, in Africa, you've got like a coming civil war in South Africa right now, probably. So that also will lead to whatever calamities in Africa and so forth. So I don't anticipate their population to continue to virgin or grow.

It'll just inevitably basically be mass die-offs, disease and so forth will spread around. You know, probably the people who control society at the highest levels, they'll use their weather warfare to like create seismic eruptions around volcanoes like Mexico or Hawaii. And Mexico city will be totally covered with lava and volcanic ash.

That'll be, you know, the total destruction of Mexico as well. So that's all I can foresee for the future is mass chaos basically. Far to predict the future.

Doesn't sound too fucking inviting. Yeah, well, don't have much options. If I were you, I would think about relocating maybe to the Ozarks.

But, you know, that's obviously you're in your situation. So I can't possibly know what your circumstances are. I could do that next year if I want to.

I'm staying where I'm staying because of, you know, family members. That's, you know, I can't sell out my wife's mother. For now, at least.

We can't sell her out yet. You know, grandmas are important. So what are you going to do? Yeah, that's true.

Myself, I don't really have that any real connections with my family other than just my mother who lives way away and halfway across the country and my brother who also does. So not the greatest relationships, but that's what happens when you come from a broken home and you never really had anything. So, you know, that was something missing in my life, like so many people from our generation and younger, especially probably.

Yeah, maybe the baby boomers, especially basically Homer Simpson for father and the mother was like some feminist ball cutting ice queen who wanted to, you know, play mother hen all day and night. So it's a recipe for disaster. But that's what the Jews intended with the Robert Anton Wilson's Illuminati card game, the parental abandonment card there.

You know, that's predictive programming right there. They predicted what they're going to do to us. You know, setting the baby boomers up along that road to disaster, basically.

So I'd like to know where the fuck we we lost, you know, we lost our knowledge on the on the Jewish question. You know, it's like our ancestors knew better. How the fuck do how do we evolve and become, you know, less keen on the GQ? Like it doesn't even make sense, man.

Yeah, basically, it's obviously because of the baby boomers, the 60s counter so-called counter culture and the trauma traumatization of the white population by the Holocaust propaganda of the Jews. It was it was more of the whole segregation thing. Like if you look back, like, dude, like some of the baby boomers, especially like my buddy uploaded this video on the segregation of Boston.

Those baby boomers were based. They didn't give a fuck. They did not want to deal with, you know, with their kids being, you know, intermingling with the other ones and, you know, having to go over there when the school was right here.

Like there was there was a ton of shit. But they just they kept forcing it on the boomers, forcing on everybody to the point that they normalized. But there was there was essentially some resistance over here in the States for quite some time.

I think I don't think that was the baby boomers, though. I think that was more the generation that preceded that William L. Pierce's generation, which was a silent generation because baby boomers was 46 to 65. And during that Boston thing, I think that was the 60s.

Right. So yeah, the oldest baby boomers would have only been like 22 years old at that point. So it was the generation that was just preceded that.

But yeah, that's true. What you're saying that previously there was much more racial orientation, but I'm pretty sure it's mainly a result of the cultural Marxist brain pollution during the 60s that really devastated people's minds so that they could not or they were they were prohibited by the mores of society and social pressure from recognizing biological reality with Freudianism and Boise and anthropology and all that sort of lying bullshit, basically, that led to that. So, yeah, obviously, with the Internet, there is now whatever there is, but it becomes a sort of entertainment media trolling and LARPing and all this other childish gossip and so yeah, yeah, yeah, yeah, most most of the people within this thing of ours are not serious.

They're using this as entertainment. I swear like it seems like at least at least 60 percent of them just view this as entertainment. That's why I'm thinking David Lane had the right message right around that time period.

James Mason, CH, David Lane. There are some organizations that seem legitimate to me. Maybe the NSM is legitimate in the States.

National Socialist Liberation Front's been reformed, apparently, by a guy named Steve Bowers. So there might be more legitimate hardcore National Socialist activism there. Of course, I'm in Canada, so I can only evaluate things from, you know, through the Internet because I don't have any connection to these things in real life, unfortunately.

So I can only look at it from a distance, but I'm pretty sure that just like it was before, what I've heard from various people is that the Internet actually detracted from the real life activism, like with Matt Hale and the creativity movement around the early 2000s and so forth, and the National Socialist movement and so forth. That should be the focus in one's local community, you know, associate networks or whatever it may be. The Internet is obviously preaching to the converted, preaching to the crowd, because all the social media platforms that are available is just people who already know about it all.

So in a way, it's largely useless. So I would say to people, just focus on your local community, try to recruit reachable people if you can. And if at all possible or optimal in your circumstances, relocate to where people who, you know, are aware of these things, if at all possible for you.

If I had the means, I'd probably move to the States, even if I had to live in a van down by the river or something like that. Like Saturday Night Live, you know, what's his name there? That comedian, that fat guy living in a van down by the river? Chris Foley. Yeah, that's it.

In any case, that was a sketch from Saturday Night Live, Chris Foley. So yeah, I would do that if I had the means. I'd live in a van down by the river if I could get involved in this movement in the States.

But I'm trapped here now, economically and legally. So just living in limbo. But obviously, your advice is good.

I should probably get out somewhere, somehow, find some people. Sort of hard to understand where to go and what to do, though. But we definitely need families, man.

We need families. We have activists everywhere on the internet and maybe in real life. But what we don't have is fertility.

You know, I don't really know anybody that's married anymore. Most of the white people I know are, you know, they're content with not being responsible and not having families. And this goes for a lot of our people that are in the movement.

Most of them are childless. Most of them have no ring. So I mean, we should really turn around the whole, I mean, this is supposed to be like, you know, radical traditionalism.

So there needs to be less LARPing and more, you know, real life traditionalism going on around here. I mean, the birth rate, I don't know about you, man, but like the birth rate is very concerning anymore. When I was a kid, like I said, everybody was married with two or three kids and now it's the contrary.

Very frightening. Pretty much. And of course, I can see a lot of the women, especially, you know, they're always looking for men.

You can always sort of see that look in their eyes, like somehow they're, you know, there's something missing there. They've got their career and all this stuff. But mainly because their standards are just excessively high on the one hand and on the other hand, because they don't have the men who maybe approach them or who have the fortitude to, you know, appeal to them in some way.

So I guess the advice to people out there is just, you know, throw yourself out there and be assertive in a positive and friendly manner. Basically, that's what most women are seeking as a dominant male. So far as I can understand, I'm no Mac daddy, so I can't possibly, you know, give a wealth of life experience.

But obviously, that's what they seek on the basis of their biology to gravitate towards strength and power, a protector and a defender and a provider. So you may not have a means to provide lots of money to them, which obviously is very big deterrent for a lot of them, or maybe most of them. But you can still do whatever you can do, put forth your efforts, never give up.

Basically, advice that I personally need to take with my suicide attempt, obviously, that was sort of, you know, not desirable action there. Resignation is never good. Better to die with your boots on than to just, you know, voluntarily end it in that way.

Without striking back at the enemy in a productive and meaningful way. Through trying to form a family or propaganda spread or whatever other, you know, effective means of facilitating the 14 words you can find for yourself. Mm-hmm.

Yeah, never cuck, never surrender, man. And that enabled me to understand that when I had my encounter with those Jewish psychiatrists and psychiatric nurses, I came to understand that they want you to kill yourself. They want you to be childless, and they don't want you to basically exist.

Obviously, it's white genocide. They're orchestrating the conditions to reduce the birth rate to prevent you from basically representing yourself, destroying your culture, your identity, your history, rewriting the history books. You know, portraying Shakespeare as a black man or something like that, or whatever the case, just retarded inversion of reality, like it's a joke.

You can mock, you know, the history of white people and try to portray it. We was kings in Egypt type garbage. But obviously, ultimately, it's going to have to come down to the wire.

So do what you can within the context of normal society that exists now, and prepare for whatever collapse will occur. But don't go and blow up, like, to confirm the stereotype of the false flag shooter or anything like that, because that is not going to really benefit white people at all. So far as I can tell, it's basically playing into the hands of a Jew, portraying white people as terrorists for the most part.

Yeah, yeah, yeah. I mean, like, it's just not congruent. It's not.

Yeah, I don't know the whole the whole siege mass terrorism thing. I can't condone it. I simply can't.

Not with as many people as we're losing not to, you know, I did this video on millennials being the generation of death. I know, two dozen or something, you know, coworkers, past acquaintances that are dying from needles in their arms. We have our women who are engaging in high levels of miscegenation.

Then we have a bunch of childless, perpetual adolescents going on. Like, we can't afford anybody to throw their fucking life away. We can't afford for our people to go to jail.

We seriously can't anymore, man. So people need to get that delusion out of their fucking head, and it's not going to solve anything. This fucking engaging in violence, it's not going to fucking solve anything.

It's simply not. So we need to face reality with that and be responsible. That's my take on it.

You're basically just playing into the side of the Jew, where they set you up, they create the conditions where you're going to react a certain way. They basically channel you into certain modes of behavior, where they know you're going to be full of anger and aggression, and then they give you the target. They say, go and blow this up or attack this person.

And then you're basically just weaving a rope that you're going to be hung by by them. And then they can put that in their databases and say, look at this hateful devil. He believed in white people.

He had regard for the white race. So that must mean every white person hates is a terrorist because they care about white people. So it's false association.

Anytime a white person even affirms their identity, then they become a devil or a demon. So obviously, you're just playing into their hands by doing any sort of actions of that kind. Yeah, go join a fucking boxing gym, you know, go spar there, go punch a fucking punching bag.

I understand the anger, you know, I mean, don't I understand the anger? I understand the need to fucking blow off steam or whatnot. There's just there's more productive ways of doing it. You know that there's you have to be rational, logical.

Our lives are fucking precious, man. You know, are you believe me? You're fucking your parents didn't have you so you could throw your fucking life away either. No matter what your relationship is with your parents.

You know, I'm a fucking like, yeah, I'm a father. I couldn't picture my like my fucking kids doing some shit like that. Like fucking Christ, man.

All that hard work, all that upbringing so they could throw their life away. I mean, Jesus, your your ancestors would not be proud of that. I'll tell you that much.

They wouldn't be happy with you just throwing it away. You know, nothing being achieved besides more fucking public denunciation, more vilification, more gun rights being fucking taken away and persecution. It's fucking pointless, man.

I'm sorry, but it's fucking pointless. I don't I don't just I don't know. I don't know what to do at this point.

I really don't have no fucking answers because I feel like most people feel like there's no political solution. Obviously, violence isn't a solution either. You're going to fucking lose.

It's like, what the fuck do we do? We just sit around and let fucking God handle it or let fucking nature win its course. Like, you know, people are running out of patience over here as well. Right.

I have a fucking answers, man. I would basically just advise people. If you look at my on the website, they're the hyphen struggle that I wrote a handbook on the first page of it.

I give all sorts of practical, useful advice that's productive and constructive. And for people in general, I would say, obviously, improve yourself to the greatest extent possible. Don't drink.

Don't do drugs. Work out. Be healthy.

Train your brain. Prepare for the worst. Involve yourself in prepping.

Find other people that you can form organizations with or something of that sort, even if only just a loose network of people, nothing formal or anything of that sort. And basically relocate to a predominantly white area if that's within your power to do so. Obviously, they can just stick anybody anywhere through HUD housing in America.

Yeah, but we could we could find ways to fucking disincentivize them from staying. You know, if we do the whole ethnostate thing and a couple infiltrators move in, you know, you just, you know, you ignore them or, you know, just give them, you know, contemptuous looks, whatever the fuck. I mean, I don't know.

Fuck. Yeah. Even that could be ruined, this whole ethnostate plan that we have, you know, with the Northwest and the Northeast and fucking Arkansas.

Like there's plans out here, but they could all be. That's what I mean, man. It's like, what the fuck do we do? Well, of course, if a well-established, predominantly white community, anytime they see all these non-whites coming all of a sudden, that's going to be like an existential threat in their mind subconsciously, if not consciously.

And once things really start getting chaotic in society, which you will have to, then people will just band together on the basis of their white identity. Of course, you can continue to propagandize people and try to wake people up. Obviously, there are risks involved with that, as my case obviously illustrates.

But basically, you have to be like an angel in the whirlwind, or as Julius Ebola said, ride the tiger. You know, you've got to sort of maintain your integrity, integrity of your mind, of your genetics to the extent possible, whatever circumstances that you have that you're in the midst of. So obviously, there's nothing but problems and difficulties all day and every day around you.

But over time, there's going to be a critical mass where things are just going to degrade to such an extent that there's not a possibility of there not being some type of conflagration or something, whatever the spark may be, that sets it off. And then people want to be in their area. They want to know some people and have connections.

I predict, if people read the book, Hear the Cradle Song by O.T. Gunnarsson, it was written around like early 90s. It's an Odinist book that predicts what will occur in California when the mestizos start trying to take over the whole of the state. That's sort of like, in a way, a template of what I think will happen for the most part.

Hasten the Day by Billy Roper, probably to some extent. The Turner Diaries, maybe to some extent. I'm not thinking that it's going to be gradual erosion because, basically, it's not going to be possible to sustain the infrastructure at the rate they're going.

It's just too much acceleration for it to be able to be maintained or sustained for a lengthy period of time. These people, they don't adjust to society. They're just like a Trojan horse in society.

The jihadists, the Chinese, they've got their Chinese community. They speak Chinese. They don't bother hiding it.

They don't bother trying to assimilate. Right there, that's just a recipe for bulk chaos, for a race war, hot or cold. People are not going to be assimilating.

They're just going to be continually fragmenting from one another. The point is, you want to be as tightly together with your fragment as possible so that your fragment will be the stronger force that overcomes the weaker force of others. Since you have been here where you are longest, much longer than these foreign imports to just show up, then you're the one back in the your territory is at stake.

You're the home team. They're the away team. So you're going to be battling much more hard than they because they could just have the, at least psychologically in their mind, they have the safety valve of being able to escape your territory.

They can fly back to their country when things get sufficiently bad, whatever the case. So there's always that option when things become sufficiently bad. These types will just, if they won't leave, then things will heat up more and more.

And then from there, community defense is, that nature's imperative, basically. Well, I mean, we're going to find out sooner or later. So I'm still a young man.

I have plenty of time to live. In fact, I'll be around come 2040 when we're minority status over here in the States. How long are they giving you guys till you're minority status over there in Canada? I think it's, so far as I can remember, there's a website called immigrationwatchcanada.org, I think it is, which shows the statistics.

I think it's something like 2040, 50, they're saying, probably 2040, actually. Same shit. Yeah.

In Canada, statistically, it was in 1981, there were 93% white people in this country. So I was born in 83. So that's 38 years ago, 93% white to now.

So what is it now? I don't even know what it is now. But I estimate 60% or something like that, maybe. They'll say more, but I don't really think that that's true.

Of course, how many of those white people are baby boomers as well, at least half, if not more. So right there, once they're dead, it's going to be like a plug's been pulled, right? It's just going to be opening up the doors to mass chaos, because they keep bringing non-whites, baby boomers are going to die, population is going to just tank. Once that happens, these types won't maintain the infrastructure.

It'll have to be remnants, like in David Lane's novel, KD Rebel. It'll be basically, you know, escape to the countryside, or else if you're in the city, then it's going to be massive chaos, like Rio de Janeiro type chaos, or Detroit, or whatever the case. So basically, I would advise people, when and if possible, to go to a smaller region, obviously, in the countryside.

Maybe the Ozarks would probably be the best for the states, I'm thinking. Northern Arkansas. Yeah, there's supposed to be a stronghold up there.

Yeah, it does seem like it. I've heard that the video game Resident Evil was actually modelled, the Raccoon City was actually modelled on the Ozarks on that region, on a place called Springfield, Missouri, which is where Highway 66, Route 66 goes right through there. So it's like some sort of a cult centre too.

I've heard that there are like underground, whatever, bases or caverns under there in the Ozarks. So yeah, that to me strikes me as a very safe location for people. Springfield, Missouri.

If I were to get out of here, I'd probably go somewhere around those, that region. Yeah. Yeah.

So what about, what about JF? Why haven't you been on JF's show yet? I contacted him, but he never responded. I contacted all sorts of people when this case happened. Some of them said, oh yeah, I'm interested.

Then I refer them to the website. I refer them to one of the interviews I had, for example, and then they'll just cut off contact with me altogether. Same within this movement in Canada, I've reached out to different organizations and people.

And you know, some of these people are like mocking me and slandering me, like because of the firearms, like, oh, you're imprudent, blah, blah, blah. So they just reject you and shun you and just basically mock you out of turn, which obviously doesn't show any racial loyalty. I mean, just because somebody is imprudent doesn't mean that they should be shunned and condemned.

But in a way, that's sort of the way Canada is. People are sort of petty minded in this country, sort of back biters. But yeah, there's nothing that I can see involving myself in this country that I couldn't create myself through my own efforts.

There's no, there's no organizations that I'm aware of. I've reached out to basically everybody I could find on the net in Canada. There's no nothing here.

So it's basically like a sort of a Siberian gulag or something like that. There's no real anything here at all. So basically trapped in this limbo, I guess you could say.

Oh, man. Well, what do you do? Do you have hope with the your your charges and all that? What do you think? You think you're gonna? Well, it might get thrown out the case because the search warrant, they had gone about getting the search warrant on very flimsy evidence. So that itself might toss it out.

There's also a statute of limitations. After one and a half years, it gets thrown out. If that one and a half years amounts to the entire time that the Crown has taken on their part of the case, and that is like February.

And the case has to be like, has to be like an eight day trial or something like that. So that means it'd be very difficult for judges to be to have the time for that. So it would back up even more.

So there's a probability, however slim of us being thrown out. So that's what I would hope would occur. But obviously, whatever will be will be, it'll be a learning lesson or a life experience one way or the other.

And so I can only do what I can do within this time frame, basically. So, so far as I know, right now, the nearest trial date is like next summer or something like that. So that was from August 1st.

Yeah, I'll tell you what, man, I'm no stranger to violence and, you know, reckless behavior and, you know, the law. Nothing, nothing is fucking worse than living with the trial hanging over your head, man. I'll tell you what, I watched that movie years ago when I was, you know, facing years for felonies and whatnot.

Luckily, I just got probation or whatnot. But I remember watching the movie 25th Hour, a Spike Lee movie starring Edward Norton. I remember watching that a couple times a week and really being able to relate with that movie, you know, because that was pretty much about his 25th hour as this guy was gonna go to jail for several years and shit.

And, you know, because the fucking trial hanging over your head and you don't know what the circumstances, you know, what's going to happen at the end of it. I mean, you want to talk about stress, man, and ambivalence. Yeah, fuck.

Yeah, it's like living your life in limbo. But of course, my life had been lived in limbo for a very long time. Because of my poverty throughout my life, traumatic abuse of an alcoholic father, waiting to get into the military, couldn't get in because of a little tiff with the law long ago.

They kept me out of the military for three years. My brother and I were blasting at people with little plastic BB guns. And we got, you know, charged with that long, long ago.

And then from there, I got wrapped up with my drunken father and his little business that he ended up selling his farmland to Sikhs to East Indians and screen his own children over. So I've been waiting and waiting, waiting, my whole life's been sort of on hold. But during that time, I've studied philosophy, I've done some writings, I've studied alternative health, you know, I've done what I could to try to improve my life.

Even though it's very difficult to live your whole life alone, which is what I have done, basically, as a recluse. So, you know, that's obviously a sort of unpleasant set of circumstances, because you miss out on all of life, basically. But oh well, that's the way it is.

So yeah, basically. All right, well, we're gonna wrap this up. It was a pleasure talking to you.

I hope all the best. You have my contact information. Keep in touch, man.

I hope everything works out for you. I really do, man. If there's something really significant, I'll get in touch with you.

Maybe we can do a little update at the end if something positive happens or whatever the case. Yeah, yeah. Let the viewers know.

Yeah. Right. Thanks for having me on the show.

All right. Take care and Hail Victory.
