Straight-arm media, white unity for white victory. Good evening, and welcome to White Revolution News. I am your host, Kynan Dutton, and joining me in just a minute here is my co-host, Paul Brown, of the Knights Party of the Ku Klux Klan, right out of Harrison, Arkansas.

Man, I just, I couldn't say it any better. Don't come around tonight if you're anything but white. There's a race war on the rise.

Ain't that the truth? And tonight, there's a white revolution on the rise, and with us for White Revolution News this evening is not only my intrepid host, Paul Brown, but a special guest, Loki Holgaard. And if I mispronounce it, sir, I am truly apologetic. It does happen now and again, but I do so with the utmost respect, and I hope that you will correct me and that we can talk a lot about everything that you've done for our race thus far, whether we're talking about your collection of works or we're talking about your activism, the activism that, in my opinion, socialist country of Canada is now charging you for when you're simply expressing your right to be white.

But we'll get more into that as the show progresses. But with that, I'd like to first bring my co-host aboard. Good evening, Paul.

How are you? Good evening, Kynan. I'm good. How are you? I'm doing well.

I'm white. I'm proud. I couldn't be better.

That's good. Well, so I thought before we brought our guest aboard, I would like to give our audience a little bit of insight into what the Jews have put forth about him, give you a little window into the leftist agenda, into Zionism, into their anti-white narrative. So I have two selections here, and I hope that our guest will bear with me just for a minute or two here.

I can assure you that I'm certainly not going to read them in depth or discuss them, but I want to give our audience a little bit of a baseline, mainly because predominantly our audience is American-based and not everyone understands what's going on in Canada. We as Americans definitely feel the pressure of our amendment rights being repressed and taken away, but not nearly as much as our white brothers to the north, who although allegedly can speak as they wish, are punished for doing so. So I just thought I would pull an article here.

I don't know how current they are. And, of course, our guest, Loki, will fill us in because he knows the facts. Oh, it seems this one is quite old, probably the initial article regarding the case.

Now, this is the perception of white nationalism that's being presented to the Canadian public. And the first thing that I see as I look at this article is a really respectable firearms collection, to be truthful, none of which appears to be illegal, none of which seems excessive. I've got to say, I'm a little envious, Loki, and I know that you can hear us, but I'm impressed.

Nothing to be concerned about, certainly not here in America. I see some monetary notes. But let's dig in a little bit.

A southern Alberta man is facing a number of charges, including inciting hate in public after police were called to a medicine hat business. On July 31st, the Priority Street Crimes Unit of the Medicine Hat Police Service responded after a local business reported a man passed money that had what police are calling, and there's quotes here, hate markings directed towards unnamed persons of the Jewish religious faith. Oh, no, someone's being anti-Semitic.

Now, let's remember that the Jews are anti-white. Everything about their ideology, their religion, their race is anti-ours. They are geared towards our destruction.

But remember, we're the racists, we're the bigots. Anyways, so getting into it a little more. Ooh, I like it.

Loki, my hat goes off to you. Police said the bills were stamped with, in quotes, Jews equals Esau, E-S-A-U, Jewish white genocide, and a website promoting the Zionist occupied government conspiracy theory. Well, let me key you in, and I mean not you, Paul, and certainly not you, Loki, but it's not a conspiracy.

It's reality. But I think anyone that's listening this evening, at least I hope, at least knows that or at least is waking up to that idea. So they go on and they discuss various aspects.

Of course, they blur out the profane markings on the bills, although I say a little truth doesn't hurt anyone. But let's see. They do mention that they executed a search warrant and seized, of course, what they always take, computers, USB drives, white supremacy documents, four firearms.

It says over 1,200 rounds. Brother, you're slacking. You should have had three or four times that much.

I'm just kidding, of course. High-capacity magazines and stickers displaying the text immigration equals white genocide. Hey, where can I buy stickers like that? This is not outside of legality.

This is not - I mean it may be illegal in Canada. Correct me if I'm wrong. I'm sure Loki will.

But these are not things that in my mind should concern a person. These are exhibitions of someone's rights. And I mean in Canada, of all places.

So the article goes on. The only other part of it that I do want to mention, and again, Loki will have to update us as per what's currently pending. But as per this article, he's facing 14 charges, including incite hatred in public, two counts of possessed firearm with a serial number removed, and four counts of unauthorized possession of a firearm.

That sounds trumped up. That sounds like a reason to keep a good white man down. But I think that I've spoken plenty, and I'd like to get our guest aboard.

Loki, good evening from the south. You're live on white revolution news. Yes, sir.

I certainly can. Thank you for joining us. I appreciate being on your show.

So I hope I didn't offend by reading that article, but I just wanted to give our audience a little bit of insight as far as what Zog has against you, as far as the public perception that they're putting forth that demonizes you when you shouldn't be demonized. These are normal things, you know? Yeah, apparently. In the local media here too, especially, I think initially once I was in the courthouse having to attend court, the Jewish reporter snapped my photo, and they circulated the photo all around in their Jewish community.

So everywhere right after that, from that point, pretty much all the Jews in this town are, you know, perpetually harassing me in that sort of, you know, that way that they always do. They sort of hover around you and passive aggressively hit out at you and so forth. I do.

Basically they put my name in the paper, and now I'm getting massive slack, massive harassment on the part of these people. I'm getting a couple Antifa stalkers bothering me, making death threats on comments on the videos of my, one of the channels where I have some of the interviews posted, and various other of my, whatever you want to call it, philosophical discourses or presentations, which are linked through the website, the hyphen. Yeah.

Please tell us about that. Yes. Repeat it again.

About the website. Okay. Yes.

The website is the hyphen struggle.net. And that's basically just all my content, all my philosophical blurbs and stories and so forth. Since I have nothing else to do here now, I've been sort of living in limbo, living in on welfare, having my life sort of messed up by a drunken alcoholic father recently, unfortunately. So yeah, now I'm in a lot of hardship and undesirable conditions.

So basically I've just been spending my time trying to pump out as much content as possible before whatever happens with this case, given the circumstances of this case after it happened, especially I was getting very, you know, concerned about whether these people were going to try to take me out here or something because they've got a NATO base right here, right next to this town. And they've got like a class four biological laboratory for making bio weapons here. So it's sort of like, you know, they're working hand in glove.

This is like, I don't know, an experimental town maybe, I guess you could say, because it's just adjacent to this military industrial complex, Zogplex, whatever you want to call it. So I was getting very paranoid. Yeah, I was getting very paranoid.

I was just saying, well, what can I do? I've got to get as much content out as I can, because who knows how long I have left before these people try to take me down and so forth or whatever they're trying to do. If they can manage to put me in a cell, you know, who knows what they're going to do. I've had a couple of death threats on the comments about that, about using microwave weapons on me or something from some random stalkers.

So let's talk a little bit about your history in the white nationalist movement. Like, where did you start? Where was your racial awakening where you broke away from the mainstream and realized something's wrong and I've got to fight for my race? At what point in your life did that occur? Well, basically, I've always been racially conscious because my mother was born in Denmark, and I always associated myself more with Europe, you know, on a racial basis. And I grew up in a sort of small pioneering town in the woods in Ontario.

And my father's parents sort of, in large part, made the town. And that one was from Iceland. The other one was of Ukrainian stock.

So I always just associated myself with, you know, a sort of biological association in the culture. I grew up in that culture. So I was always oriented around racial thinking, I guess you could say.

Then from there, I just immersed myself in the culture of, well, civilization, which is to say white culture with all the philosophy and so forth. I went and studied philosophy and I was writing and so forth. And right around that time, I discovered on calvin.edu, the German propaganda archive there.

I just naturally gravitated toward it. Some speeches by Goebbels. And from there, I just branched out more and more, got a little bit tired of academic philosophy, which, you know, sort of creating a lot of depression.

I was thinking to myself, wow, this is really, you know, depressing and post-modernism and all this Marxist garbage. I never really gravitated towards it. I was always about the classics and ancient, right? And so from there, basically, I stumbled upon David Duke, American Nazi Party, Julius Evola, various other sources on the net.

And then from there, I was trying to investigate whether there was actually any active movement in this country through Stormfront and so forth. But over the years, I could never find any people to associate with in this movement. I was living in Winnipeg for much of the time, and it was just a totally Jewified, I don't know, two-tiered society there.

Just a communist, socialist, Jewish nightmare, basically, that city. So not really too possible to find people. I think I might have only found one person other than Paul Fromm my entire life in this country, who was actually oriented around these ideas.

So it's a sad reality that basically whatever movement exists in this country, I think it's mainly just concentrated around southern Ontario and maybe to some extent Calgary, but everywhere else, it's pretty much a totally backward Soviet country for the most part. Depressing, but oh well. Well, it's interesting that you mention Paul Fromm.

He was recently on one of my programs, actually. I've had him as a guest several times and enjoy speaking to him very much. Between you two, the situation in Canada has become much more illuminated.

To me, personally, I always assumed that Canada, being more removed and more further north, would repel some of the things that we face further south and so forth and in Europe, but it seems that we face the same ills. In fact, the parasitical nature of those ills affect both of our nations concurrently. The same immigrants that come into your nation and ravage your nation then filter through the border into mine and become permanent residents here and leeches on our system and our infrastructure.

So I think Canada and the United States realistically, well, at least the white aspects of both, have it in their best interest to work together, especially in regards to nationalism and white nationalism. We are too far and few in between to work separately. As a continent, our interests are inclusive.

So I did notice, and my hat goes off to you as well, I've done some things in my life, a few, and you also attracted the attention of Binae Birth in Canada. And they also have an article about you. It's quite old.

I won't get into it. It's ironic, sir. You and I are the same age.

Yeah, something like that. I think you're a little bit younger actually by a year. I remember looking you up on the - I think it was DK or something.

Oh, sure, sure, but I'll be 35 here in just a month. But either way, we are generationally are similar. It's interesting that our generation seems to be a lot of the white nationalism that is predominant.

I mean we have people that are older as well, and certainly people that are younger. But there's a large percentage that range from our age and a few years younger to a few years older that are becoming a large percentage of the main movement as far as my nationalism goes. Yeah, it seems like it.

Basically, it's like the older Gen Xers and the younger Millennials pretty much, I guess because that was during the time when they really ramped it up, at least in Canada, right around even up until maybe 2007 or so where I was living in Winnipeg. It was still predominantly white, so people were obviously much less aware of the contrast between a predominantly white society and a non-predominantly white society. So the more chaotic it became, the more people would be forced to wake up, especially if they can't just afford like the baby boomers to just run away from their problems and hide away in suburbia or something like that and just condemn the poor to having to suffer in a multiracial hell.

I think that's really a relevant point. I think that that is one thing that plagues both of our nations is the idea that those that are above poverty or even in the middle class and above don't necessarily exist in the racial cesspool. So they then therefore don't acknowledge the racial issue until it's too late, of course.

And I think that currently we're experiencing the too late part of it, the part where the racial non-integration, because there's no such thing as racial integration. It's a Jewish concept that is irrelevant and unpalatable, is spilling over to the point where it's affecting even those that are well off or those that normally would be away from that conflict. It's not just in the ghettos that the violence and the rape and all this other stuff is occurring.

It's occurring everywhere. It's occurring in rich neighborhoods. It's occurring in poor neighborhoods.

It's non-inclusive. In America they have the HUD, right? HUD housing there? I guess they moved the non-whites into more affluent areas too. It's the give everyone else a house but white people housing we call it.

Right, exactly. If you're white and you're white, then our welfare programs aren't for you. But if you come from another country... If I could relate to a recent incident that happened to me when I was living in Winnipeg just a few years ago.

I had been forced to rely upon welfare when I was living just out of the city in the countryside. I got trapped there because of my, again, baby boomer father wrecking my life there. And I got sort of stranded.

And then when I finally managed to break free from that and come to the city, the Jewish welfare workers there, they were trying to do everything in their power to cut me off and throw me in the gutter and so forth. They were trying to claim, oh, we had sent you a letter in the mail. You had to send it back, but no such letter arrived.

So basically just lies on top of lies, just their pill-pull little games that they always play. So that was just one incident amongst countless other incidents with these Jews, and they're attempting to deliberately throw stumbling blocks in my path. Right around when this case occurred too last year, I had actually attempted suicide because I got tired of basically living in this horrible world, which of course now I condemn and look upon as basically an undesirable act and something I would never repeat, but I had at that time done that.

And then when I was taken to the hospital there to have my wrists, which I had slashed with razor blades, sewn up, the Jewish psychiatrist there, one of them, she's a psychiatric nurse. She was trying to convince me, oh, well, you never know what's going to be on the other side. Maybe you should just sort of try to influence me to repeat.

And then when I spoke to the Jewish psychiatrist there, that Jewish psychiatrist stated, I told her explicitly, I do not hate Jews. And so what happened in the disclosure, the police report later, he spoke to me about his hatred of Jews, and then she didn't put me on suicide watch. She just let me go, you know, when you're supposed to put people on suicide watch.

So basically they do whatever they can whenever they get a chance to just, you know, screw you over in every possible way, of course. Well, I hate Jews. Let's just make that absolutely abundantly clear.

I kind of doesn't hate Jews. Well, to know them is to hate them basically. Completely, without any exception.

Yeah, they're all the same. They all behave the same. It's actually my belief that Jews are probably some kind of alien entity.

There's no way they could be a human being or anything. Whatever they are, they're a separate species. Well, certainly they're not akin to any whites.

But let's talk a little bit about your work as far as not only your site and your particular writings and work, but let's also talk about, is that not only your work but a collection of other works? No, it's all my work that I did over the last couple of years. So I had nothing else to do, right? So I do what I can to try to whip myself to at least produce something as a contribution to this movement, even though it's almost impossible to reach people because the social media is more or less shut down in so many ways that you get minimal feedback. But even then I just do it as a sort of matter of habit, out of a sense of duty.

Since I don't have any money, I can't really propagandize people too much. I can't send letters around. I obviously can't leave this house now.

I have bail conditions which prevent me from leaving the house after 10 o'clock at night and before 6 o'clock in the morning. So I'm not allowed to leave the house. And that's been ever since August of last year.

I have to check in with the police once every Friday. I have no money to be able to travel anywhere, to go anywhere else. I'm pretty much stuck here.

So that's really all that I can do in terms of propaganda. Well, certainly we all have to do what we can. But let's talk about what got you into this whole predicament.

What did you do to piss these filthy Jews off so bad that they are levying these obviously ridiculous charges at you? Well, basically, I'm alleged to have done basically printing out custom-made stickers, and these are all available on that website, the-struggle.net. I've got a big meme archive, about 8,000 memes probably. By the end of this week, it should be uploaded. I've gathered over several years.

I was putting stickers up stating 99% of the 1% is Jewish with the yellow star of, you know, one of the yellow stars that says Udonit. Yes. I was putting up other references to Metzger's site, resist.com. I was putting up, what else did I do? Basically, King Identity Ministries literature.

I scattered some of that around, and that's one of the things that got me in trouble with one of these conservatard-type baby boomer females who ratted me to the police. From there, I was also, perhaps many would say stupidly and imprudently, scattering or paying for purchases that I had made with money bills that I had stamped, as per that article you referenced. But I was handing them to the people face-down so they couldn't see them.

But even then, it was sort of stupid and naive of me. Since I didn't have any run-ins with the law previously, I had no real idea about the severity of this offense. According to the government of this country, I never really thought it was that big a deal.

But obviously, apparently, according to them it is because they don't want the cats to come out of the bag and claw them when people find out what they're doing. So they want to suppress the message. I guess right around that time, there was some legislation pushed through called Motion 103 by some Iraqi Muslim puppet of theirs in Toronto, which is basically hate speech, quote-unquote hate speech legislation, a public incitement of hatred stuff.

And I think that that was sort of sidelined up until that time. So it just came back under the guise of protecting the Muslim victim, and they used that as a cover. But of course, it's only white males who are persecuted for these offenses, and it's only the Jews and whatever minority puppet or something they hide behind who are the persecutors, ostensibly the victims of this propaganda.

So basically, I was distributing some of the money bills, and one of the Jewish Safeway workers was grabbing it from me and holding it up to the cameras and stuff like this without my knowing what they were doing. They were trying to engage me in conversation, and I gullibly fell for that. And then apparently it was captured on video or something, maybe not really very well.

In the disclosure that I had recently seen, apparently this video footage is either degraded, corrupted, or unplayable. So I'm not even too sure. And then from there, that apparently, according to the laws of this country, was a justification they had for getting a search warrant to raid my place on the basis of my allegedly distributing this money bill.

So even though that was very flimsy evidence and not really very easily proven because they never kept the physical bills, they just took a photocopy of the bill. And then so the only evidence that existed was the alleged CCTV cameras in Safeway and the photocopy of a money bill, and then the sort of hearsay of the Jewish Safeway managers and so forth. So that justified according to - STEPHAN KINSELLA We see that here in America all the time.

I mean people stamp and write and do all kinds of things to money, to monetary notes regularly, and I don't ever hear anyone being persecuted for a crime, no matter how obscene those notes might be. Now granted I haven't seen anything anti-Semitic, but it seems to me that this is the nature of people and certainly not anything that should be punishable by law. And certainly not anything that could be proven in a court of law in my mind.

No, because even if the bills had my fingerprints all over them, they also have the fingerprints of whomever else. Almost certainly most money bills, unless you get them fresh out of a package, are going to have fingerprints of somebody. So it's a very tenuous link to justify breaking into somebody's house and stealing $8,500 of their property, which is what they stole, about $2,200 of those money bills, huge amounts of my printed material that I had, computers and USB, a whole library of information that I had spent years gathering, and then of course the firearms and crossbows that I had and various other survival implements and things of that sort.

And then they left the whole place in shambles. Will these items be returned to you as per Canadian law? Allegedly. They say after it's all over.

And of course I had asked repeatedly of the judge if I could have the value of the money returned to me in some other form of negotiable instrument because that physical money bill isn't, the value isn't inherent in that bill. The physical bill is a physical bill, but money is an abstraction. So I could just as easily be compensated with any other form of money.

So I was basically, but they refused to do so. So I was basically left more or less destitute here. I even had to borrow some money from my mother for food.

And so basically I had no means of even existing. Now where is your socialist government? Shouldn't they jump right up to help you? Shouldn't they be right at your doorstep catering to your every need because socialism is so beneficial to the people? Oh wait, oh wait. I should mention too.

It doesn't benefit people. No, because I'll tell you another thing with respect to that.

When I went to the emergency having an ambulance ride when I slashed my wrist, I was forced to pay $350 for that ambulance ride.

And because I could not pay it, then they submitted it to a collections agency. So that assisted in getting me even more bad credit than I already have. And yeah, also the welfare worker that I had, she cut my welfare off by $100 after this case happened because she was a Jew and wanted to stick a knife in me.

So they claimed that, oh, you were with your father. In America, depending on where you're from, if you attempt suicide and you fail, you actually could be charged with a crime. Oh really? It's only - well, I mean it's illegal to commit suicide.

But if you're dead, you can't be charged. So it's only if you live that you receive any charges. Of course, depending on the - it is, in fact, a legal real charge.

It just depends on the particular area that you're in and how willing they are to enforce that charge. I'm sure there's all kinds of mitigating factors, age, circumstance, mental stability, et cetera. But yes, from what I've always been told here in America, if you are - you attempt suicide and fail, they can charge you.

I would imagine it would be on the grounds of taking away from emergency personnel and so on and so forth. But that's communist America. So a place that doesn't exist for the people, that exists for the state, a place where we elect our officials, but really they are put in place, and in fact a place where Israel is more important than our own nation and our own people.

Welcome to America. It's basically the United States of America Corporation I think it was what it's called actually. Something to do with how they represent it as if it's America, but it's actually the United States of America Incorporated or something.

So every person in the country is basically considered property, something along those lines. I wouldn't go so far as that, but I certainly think that the powers that be, and by the powers that be I'm referring of course to the Zionist occupied government that rules this nation currently, certainly view us as such. But America was not founded on this ideology.

The America that we love, the America that many of us fought for, I'm a veteran, the America that many of us as white nationalists still fight for is that original inception. The idea of freedom, the idea of a nation for whites, by whites, not inclusive of mongoloids, degenerates, Jews, or others, but exclusively for white people with all the freedoms that are entitled to our people, whether they be political, religious or otherwise. And that, of course, is somewhat of the theme of white nationalism, at least here in America, as far as reestablishing that, whether it is reestablishing America, so to speak, or whether it is smashing the current permutation and building something new under a racial pretext.

Yeah, well I like Billy Roper's book, Hasten the Day. I have yet to actually read the whole thing. I read some of it online when I could find it, but I'll probably buy that book actually.

You certainly should. Yeah, his conclusions seem to be more appropriate maybe, or more probable than the Turner Diaries to some extent, maybe. But again, we can only predict what will occur.

Yes, but no. I mean, I don't know. I personally see it somewhere in between.

I happen to be good friends with Billy and I have a signed copy of that very book. He signed it personally for me. And I'm very proud of that, needless to say.

But I think that the part that he's right on about is the balkanization that will eventually occur with this disintegration of what we call the United States. I think that it's in our racial nature, and it's just in our nature in general to segregate ourselves according to our inclination. And I think that it may or may not be a very violent separation, but there's a separation that will occur beyond a doubt.

It seems to me though that the Jews are trying to push for that. Well, and they might be, but I don't think that they understand what it is that they're pushing for. They feel like if there's a separation, they'll be able to take control over the majority of the whole.

What they don't realize is that if there's a separation, they'll lose control over the whole entirely. They might get the Mongols. They might get the Zionists.

They might get the Kuks and those loyal to Zod, but they won't get the real whites. They won't get the racial loyalists, the white racial loyalists. And we collectively, regardless of our ideology, regardless of the patch we wear or the banner that we fly, have the potential to conquer.

We've proved it time and time again. I mean look at Rome. Look at the Vikings.

Look at Greece. The examples go on and on. Provide for me one other culture that can give you that many examples, and I would be shocked.

And I know you agree with me, and don't get me wrong. I'm not trying to be argumentative. But the potential is in the white race, and the Balkanization is occurring.

Absolutely. Without us, we won't live, but without them, we will thrive. So that's basically the relationship right there is relationship of a parasite and a host.

So all the host has to do is excrete the parasites and then just leave them to flounder in a toilet bowl, and then they can just be flushed down. Well, and that is a key point. We can obtain racial hegemony and racial peace and white solidarity in one foul swoop, and that is by simply expelling those that are unwelcome and unwanted.

If we remove the generosity, if we remove the undesirable, all of a sudden our natural ability to thrive will come to fruition. I mean one can't imagine - well, we can certainly imagine, but we can't necessarily be exact on how things are going to play out. But I like to believe - well, I don't believe.

I know that as racial patriots, we aren't going anywhere. And even if I die, my son will fight. My brother will fight.

His brother will fight. And the only course, the only result is white victory, whether it's affirmed by some religious entity or it's affirmed by genetic destiny. The result is the same.

Well, basically it's either going to be civilization or savagery in this world in the future, and civilization equals white. There is no such thing as non-white civilization. Even through ancient times, China and Japan and India and so forth were all originally white, and they just degraded through the white women being raped by foreign invaders, mongoloids and negroids, or voluntary intermixture.

And then that led to the collapse of their society. And then basically until whites returned there or gave them foreign aid in the last hundred years or so, they were just in a state of feudalism for the most part at best. Well, it's interesting you bring up Japan regardless of their origins.

Up until World War II, they were exclusively Japanese. They didn't allow tourists. They did, but minimally.

They certainly didn't encourage immigration. They had absolutely closed borders and continually reinforced their own culture. Post-World War II, there was a massive influx of Western culture, of course, pushed by Zog.

And literally their potential was decreased. Their ability to function as an independent nation was destroyed. And we're not just talking about post-war fallout.

We're talking about when you take two groups that should not be integrated, and you integrate them. The only thing that you can get is two inferior groups. You can't take the master race, the white Aryan race, and breed it with any other race and expect the product to be anything but inferior.

Every time, without question. There are no genetic things that you can breed in to improve upon Aryan greatness. When something that is good is bred with something that is bad, all that you can get is something that is mediocre.

And this is a travesty. It's not just a travesty for the whites that were mongrelized. It's a travesty for the Japanese that were trying to hold on to the last vestiges of their somewhat savage Asiatic culture.

Even then, though, they derived from the Ainu people apparently before that, as Billy Roper said in the Paleo-American Ethnic Diversity, I think it was he referred to them. The Ainu, A-I-N-U? Yes. Yes, so basically all these cultures just emanated from probably Hyperborea or Atlantis thousands of years ago probably.

So pretty much everything on the earth is just a result of mixture, miscegenation with white people and whatever sort of anthropoid entities existed whenever, prior to the Ice Age maybe, who knows. But they're not a pure race. They're all pretty much mongrelized creatures.

And I think that's a Christian Identist view as well. All the more reason to cherish your purity. Your ancestors bled and died to be pure.

Their ancestors did and theirs before them. We have a unique opportunity to preserve our race. Anything that isn't white isn't right.

Our ancestors gave us a gift, a gift of pure blood. And it's up to us at all costs to preserve that purity. I mean correct me if I'm wrong, but in this world that's defined by nature's laws, racial purity is the crux.

I don't go when I want to adopt a new dog and look for a mongrel. I look for a purebred. The people who are of a sick mind usually gravitate toward the mongrel.

Especially liberals and people like that who like to baby the victim all the time and play master over victims and weaklings and so forth. People of that sort, like the Christian Zionists and so on. Anything that's weak and wimpy and cowardly and crippled, they just love it.

Because to them that's morality, that's virtue, is sickness and weakness instead of strength. Ah, but even that is an extension of our Aryan nature in a perverted form. I've mentioned it time and time again.

Ancestrally we whites are from the north and so therefore we had to exist as a tribe. We had to help one another in order to survive, in order to procure the things that we needed to continue life. Unfortunately, as we survived and then thrived, that nature became extended to others.

And that is one of our greatest failings. I would disagree with you there. I think that the main reason why altruism has become pathological, as Kevin MacDonald claims, although I differ, is because of Christianity and its influence on people's minds that became liberalism afterwards.

It basically created that pathology in people's minds of giving to the weak and meek and the useless and defective. But isn't that just an extension of that nature? That was our tribal nature in the first place, to help those that were less fortunate or to give our skills.

But at the same time though, throughout history white people never really looked upon any of these others as anything but savages.

As is even recorded in Egypt, they were looked upon as beasts. When the white Egyptians were dealing with the Kushite Negroes, they looked upon them as beasts to be basically used as property. But they still miscommunicated with the Nubians, which became basically the destruction of the Egyptian empire.

I think it was actually a result of a slave rebellion or revolt maybe incited by Jews. Well, many of the pharaohs and many of the historical accounts discuss them traveling down the Nile and trading with the Nubians. And we know for a fact that when you trade or you interact with a group in a prolonged period, miscegenation is the result.

So with that in mind, had they not involved themselves directly with these subhumans, the Egyptians could have remained racially pure. Yeah, I guess you can see that over in the hieroglyphics as time goes by. They become darker and darker and have more and more negroidal features, and their culture just degrades as time goes forward.

Well, I mean regardless of where we point the blame, the idea is that when one strays from racial purity, that the only thing that follows is racial ruin. And that's literally where we're sitting today. We see a proliferation of racial destruction, whether we're talking about media and television and radio, etc., or we're talking about the news, or we're talking about politics or law as we've discussed somewhat.

These things are all on the agenda. Certainly it's not the preservation of the white race. There is no nation on the face of this earth that views whites, Aryans, as an endangered species worth being preserved.

And with that in mind, that means that their only other agenda can be to our extinction. Basically. Most of them overvalue their sense of worth.

They think that somehow they could make it without the white race, but the reality is without us they won't even be able to exist beyond maybe five years or so because they'll be at each other's throats with nuclear war or over-polluting their environment like the Chinese or Indians and so forth. So they could never sustain civilization. They would just overcrowd their territory and so forth.

I would give you two prime examples, Rhodesia and South Africa. Right, exactly, yeah. So, I mean, both of those nations were white, were established by whites, were run by whites, and the minute the Negroids inserted themselves and inserted whatever power they thought that they had, those nations both went to ruin.

And we're right there in the United States and in Canada, I would say. Right, exactly. It's basically right around the time that it was maybe, I don't know, not overly familiar with the South African reality, the history, but probably in the 60s in South Africa or maybe the 70s or something like that at this point when they're starting to turn against the white man more explicitly and overtly.

And I'm sure here that they're going to start doing farm attacks with all the redskins here just like they do in South Africa with the Negroes, that they're basically going to use them. Because you can see that they're really being riled up at this point where I was previous to this place here too. Possibly so.

I think the only thing that we have going for us in that direction is that these savage Indians are drunk. They're fat. They're useless.

They're dependent on the government. They don't know any of their tribal history, even if it is Asiatically slinking like slugs over from Asia. And they essentially have lost all touch with any kind of historical reference.

But there are a lot of them that are violent. There are a lot of them that are militant, and they are something worth considering. I would say, at least in the case of the United States, we don't have to worry so much about the fat wagon burners as much as we do the MS-13 gang members that are coming up from South America, the various fractions of Islam that are coming from black nations in Africa and nations in the Middle East.

These are the people that are murdering our citizens daily, men, women, and children, and basically are just allowed to do whatever the hell they want without any kind of repercussions. They're the pets of the system. They can do whatever they want, get a slap on the wrist, go out through the revolving door of the criminal injustice system, and they'll just re-offend over and over and over.

That's their only purpose of being brought in here is to buy a weapon. Well, they'll continue to offend as long as they're not put in check. I think it's interesting that you mentioned that they're a bioweapon.

I think that's a really good point. But it is the top of the hour. I would like to take a short break if that's quite all right with you, sir, and then we'll bring everyone back.

Paul, are you still with us? Yes, I am, Connie. Excellent. I would really like to spend a little time maybe as we get to the top of the hour and cover that fantastic story that you had for us with your Klansmen segment.

But we are going to go to break, and we will be back after these messages. You are listening to, of course, White Revolution News brought to you by Straight Arm Media with our guest Loki, a Canadian white nationalist that is facing some anti-white charges in Canada for simply expressing his right to speak as well. We're here, of course, with my co-host Paul Brown of the Knights Party of the Ku Klux Klan.

The guest call-in number for the evening is 319-527-6032, and that is the call-in number for all Straight Arm Media programs. And we will be right back after these messages. Straight Arm Media is a venture for whites, by whites, not only to preserve our history, but to fight for our vote.

Inspired by the concept of unity among the various fractions of the pro-white spectrum. We, the proud whites of this nation, which is ours by right, by conquest, and by efforts of both blood and soil, do from here forward say no more to anti-white tyranny, to the genocide of our people, to the degradation of traditional values, the nuclear family, and the perversion of the natural order. No more to the flawed system of democracy and its Zionist masters.

No more to paying our hard-earned wages that subhumans can fester like an open wound, and invaders can rape and pillage our inheritance. We are Aryan by superior genes and actions. Our creative, philosophical, and spiritual history is only a small testament.

Empires large and small have been won by white Aryans. Racial patriots have sacrificed, been imprisoned, and have even been murdered for our truth. Yet we carry on.

It is for the love of race Straight Arm Media was created, to offer a platform where all can be heard. As well as remind all that we fight for the same thing, the future of our children, the freedom of our race. Straight Arm Media is committed to white unity, pale victory, and white power.

Straight Arm Media, the voice of white power. Bringing you pro-white programming from all sides of the white nationalist movement. Different ideologies, but same goal.

White victory. Bringing you pro-white programming all week long. Sometimes it takes a push to start a revolution.

Seek violence! Seek violence! Seek violence! And welcome back to White Revolution News. I am your host, Kynan Dutton. Of course, here with my co-host, Paul Brown of the Knights Party of the Ku Klux Klan, and our special guest, Loki Holgard.

Right out of Canada, a white nationalist and a kindred spirit. We were just discussing a variety of topics. I'm going, of course, to bring back first my co-host, Paul.

Paul, are you back with us? Yes, I'm here, Kynan. Yes, I'm here, Kynan. And our guest as well, Loki.

Loki, are you with us? So far as I know, I can hear you. All right. That's what I like to hear.

So at the top of the hour here, I just want to give Paul a minute or two. Go ahead, Paul, with your segment for the evening. Okay.

I just had a thing for the Knights Party. I wanted to remind everybody about the American Heritage Store. We have our pro-white goods, hats, T-shirts, belt buckles.

People can reach that through our website at www.kkk.bz, and you can tap on the American Heritage Store there for all your pro-white needs, books, something for everybody. Okay. Did you also have a story for the evening? Yes.

I'll go through it quick so you can do your interview with Loki. Last Monday, we're always talking about the downsides of things, and I found another inspirational story from American military news again. And this was a paralyzed Arizona cop stands for the national anthem for the first time in 14 years.

And I picked this one because it's football season, and we all know how the overpaid Negroids, when they play our national anthem, they decide to take a knee in disrespect for the pigs that they are. And here's a cop. The headline is Paralyzed Arizona Cop Stands for National Anthem for the First Time in 14 Years.

And naturally, this is a white officer. And the story, during the opening ceremony for the Arizona Special Olympics on Friday, investigator William Phil White, who is paralyzed and has been confined to a wheelchair for 14 years, took the field with three other police officers. What White shared with the crowd of thousands was captured on video, has gone viral on Facebook, according to Today.com. With the assistance of a per mobile F5 power wheelchair, White was able to stand for the national anthem, something he said he has wanted to do for 14 years.

In his words, he said, I've been wanting to stand for the national anthem for 14 years. I was a little overwhelmed at first, but it was so exciting, White said. When everything hushed and the drums started, I'm telling you, everything just went right into place, he added.

White is an investigator at Arizona's Peora Police Department. He was shot in the line of duty and left paralyzed two weeks before Christmas of 2005. He says it was a drug deal gone bad.

Suspect just got out of the vehicle and started shooting. A bullet hit White in the shoulder and then made its way to his spine, leaving him paralyzed from the waist down. White said he broke down in his car after the games, becoming very emotional.

He was surrounded by many, including his nephew, Andrew, for support and photos. White, who is also a former United States infantry soldier, said that he is reading all of the comments that are being sent to the Peora Police Department's Facebook page, showing support. One person said, not enough heart emojis in the world for this one.

God bless. Another said, your determination and will to overcome your tragedy is more than any words I can write. White said that his new state-of-the-art wheelchair allows him much more mobility, and for that he is grateful.

He is now able to go from sit to stand or lay to stand. He said, I had a lot of spasms and pain. Being able to change positions helps with that.

I feel good. He calls it a blessing that he was able to offer hope to others who have disabilities. Despite his injuries, White said his life is good.

He feels good on the inside, too. Of course, I would like to get my body back, but I can't. So I make the best of what I've got, and I have a really great life, he said.

And I just found that story really inspirational. You have these Negroes that kneel and spit on America when our national anthem is played, and here you have a White cop and an ex-military, which I don't like to call them ex-infantrymen, that from a wheelchair and the help of other people will stand for our anthem. And that just gives me hope, and I hope it gives other people hope, to see that people are willing to do these kinds of things for our country.

And it's things like this when people read these things, when our enemy reads this, and the Jews see the heart that a White man has, I just hope it scares the hell out of them. Even our crippled people are willing to stand for our country. And that's about all I had, Kynan.

Thanks for giving me time, and thank you, Loki, for giving time up of your interview for me to read that story. That was a great story. It really was.

There are far, far too many people in this nation that take for granted the sacrifices that a few make for their freedom, for their safety. I hope that we can all just take a little bit of the love of nation from this story. Ironically, the gentleman's name was White.

Absolutely. But remember, this nation wasn't built out of hate. This nation was built out of love for our race, out of dedication for our way of life, for our people, exclusive to our people.

And there's nothing shameful about being proud. There's nothing shameful about being honored to be White. And there certainly is nothing shameful about standing up for your people, regardless of what the consequences might be.

Whether we're talking about officers of the law, our military, or racial patriots like Loki, our guest. It's out of love of race that we do what we do. Go ahead, sir.

Not to cut you off, Kynan. Loki was saying about knowing Paul Fromm from Canada. And I have a friend on my Facebook page, and I didn't know if Loki knew anything about him or not.

And I may mispronounce his last name, but Kevin Grudeau, Canadian Nationalist Front. Yeah, I've heard of him. I've actually reached out to him to try to get more involved in the movement physically in Canada.

And he said that he knew some people and would put me into contact with them. But that's the end of that. I've never heard from the guy ever since.

So I have no idea. I also have heard of him and spoken to him on and off. And likewise have inquired about some further contact and didn't hear too much.

I can only assume that he's just very busy in his political activism and that he may or may not get back with us at some point. But certainly we can't wait around for any one person or any one organization. We'll have to do it ourselves.

That's all we can do. I do know that there was - wasn't it recently, Loki, that there was a nationalist party in Canada that took a significant portion of a recent vote? If you want to call it 1.6% significant. That's better than zero.

Well, yeah, I guess so. But it wasn't even really a legitimate nationalist party. It's just another one of those faux populist parties.

He's basically just a globalist shill, probably a Freemason, who is Maxine Bernier, who is basically just working the Steinleit plan of the Jews to sort of slow things down and pacify the population a little bit so that they'll go along with the program and just not get too antsy-pantsy and just continue on with their TV and their nigger ball games and so on. Well, I took - I just looked at it as a nationalist party that seems somewhat pro-at least pro-European to an extent, at least having a presence, that being positive. I mean I definitely can agree with you.

I would say it's more just smoke and mirrors sort of simulation more than anything, just for the purpose of pacifying people like Donald Trump was in the States during 2016. And obviously you know what came from that, just more red flag laws and all sorts of other massive aid to Israel and various other non-white, anti-white policies. Well, certainly Donald Trump is not the white man's savior by any means.

His policies definitely lean in the way of Israel. Well, I don't know what else we wanted to discuss this evening. Is there some other content that you'd like to share with us, sir? Content? There's on the website for the case, there's a website specifically for that.

I think I might have given it to you. I'm not too sure, but I'll just say it here. That is free-speech.is-great.net, free-speech.is-great.net. And that has the previous year, or the entire year since the case began, a journal of events that I had written, which is about 12 pages of just journal entries of various strange events that have happened here during the course of that time.

Such as, for example, during all these false flag shootings, I was interrogated by the police more when Bowers occurred and then when Tarant occurred and various of these other false flag shootings that they had staged. They were basically spying on me all the time. Every time I left my place, if the police ever saw me on the street, they would be pulling me over and so forth and trying to pop me for information.

I was having, even during the course of the time when I was distributing the materials, police helicopters flying around the town here spying on me and things of that sort. I'd go from one end of the town to the other end of the town, and I would see a police helicopter the entire time flying over my head. So they were monitoring me that night as well.

He would think the police would have something better to do like bust criminals or drug dealers or someone that was a detriment to society. I mean I don't know you personally, sir, but you certainly don't strike me as a menace to society or someone that is full of rage and anger that might commit some atrocity. You sound like a rational, clear thinking, white individual.

So all of this persecution seems somewhat unnecessary in my opinion. Right. Well, it's basically they're trying to create an issue out of nothing so that they can portray things as they have portrayed them in that initial article you were popping up with the evil bad guns and so forth.

Some of those guns, the SKS, were what Trudeau, the prime minister, was taking out as an example of the so-called assault weapons or whatever the case, and trying to ban those recently. Of course, the gun laws in this country are very, very strict so that I've heard that you can't even have more than five rounds of ammunition in your firearm. Of course, you can't store firearms with magazines in them or loaded magazines.

You have to have them totally separate, locked in lock cases with trigger locks on them and so forth. So essentially they're useless for protection. Basically.

Basically are. That's the whole point, of course, is just to render the population more or less disarmed so that they can then bring in the invading army of non-whites and arm them because they know they're all criminals and they'll just have their guns one way or the other. And, of course, the stupid population in this country, most of them, they are such a conformistic bunch.

Whatever the government tells them, they basically just go along with it. Don't really protest too much or too hard. So they're not even really pushing back against any of these currently existing gun laws.

They're not trying to have them repealed. They're just saying, oh, yeah, let's not, you know, let's take the conservative route and just try to put the brake on the left wing progress. But, of course, conservatism still is moving it forward anyway.

Even if you put the brake on it, it's still going in a, you know, off a cliff direction. So that's not going to do very much. So I tried to reach out to a couple of firearms organizations that exist in this country, hoping that they would actually care about people's ability to possess firearms and have the right to do so.

But they never really did anything. They were just trying to sell me insurance, basically. So that's not exactly very useful or productive in enabling citizens to actually possess firearms for self-defense.

So nobody came to my defense at all in that regard. And I would think that that would be a fairly significant issue that could be exploited to, you know, convince - to try to create some sort of changes about firearms rights instead of just - One would think so, certainly. - upholding the laws as they currently exist.

Because there's really not much in the way of pushback in a sort of radical sense where people are actually trying to go back to what it was when there were no registry of guns. And there was no - any of these crazy laws that they just arbitrarily imposed upon the population based upon the fiat or dictates of legislatures who are all, of course, Jewish for the most part. Well, it's amazing how gun rights were never an issue but only in the last so long have become an issue.

When they were not regulated, there was not nearly the level of violence that there is when they are regulated. And let's be realistic. A criminal will get a firearm if that's what they're looking for.

They will commit that violent act, and no law is going to stop them because they're criminals. They don't follow the laws to start with. So disarming society is essentially making them unable to protect themselves from these criminals who are not going to follow laws.

Yeah, it's just such common sense logic, obviously. The people who control society from behind the scenes, the Jews, the Freemasons, and so forth, they rely upon the emotional - whatever you want to call it - the emotional pseudo-arguments to convince the average fool in society that big bad guns are horrible, bad, bad, bad. Guns kill people.

Not people kill people. Therefore, we need to take the guns away. And then, of course, you're just disarming your own people.

And then you're basically setting yourself up for the slaughter for the most part. It's just ludicrous, basically, how cowardly and wimpy some people can be. Especially, even though I don't like to slander people in this country, most people are very conformistic.

And whatever the government dictates, they'll basically just largely go along with without much, in a way, of pushback. So it would seem, anyway. I would certainly agree in this country as well.

But we are drawing close to a close. Paul, did you have any closing thoughts for the evening? Speaking of guns, I just posted a news article on Corner News today that I found. The way they're talking about the AR-15 and wanting to take them from citizens here.

There was a story that I found of a woman, a pregnant woman, saved herself, her unborn baby, and her family. It was two or three people broke into her home. And she had an AR-15 and protected herself, her unborn baby, and family with that AR-15.

Excellent. When you have two or three people coming through your door, I'm sorry, but a .22 ain't going to help you. When in doubt, shoot them with an AR-15.

When really in doubt, shoot them twice. If you run out of bullets, you hit them with it. It's a win three times over.

As someone who was personally trained with an M-16, the AR-15 being the civilian equivalent, I can definitely attest to its versatility, to its ease of learning how to shoot, and to its reliability as far as accuracy, wounding damage, distance as far as being effective on a target. They're taking away a viable weapon, and they're doing it for a reason. Because these types of weapons are weapons of revolution.

And they want us to be disarmed. They want us to be weak. They want us to be complacent.

But we white Aryans are far from any of those things. We are warriors. We are not complacent by any means.

And we will not tolerate the oppression of Zog on our people here in America, on our people in Canada, in South Africa, Australia, Europe, or any other white nation that we have earned by blood and by conquest. It's our right. And no one on the face of this earth can take it away from us.

Loki, did you have any closing thoughts for this evening? The book More Guns, Less Crime by John Lott I think is the author. It basically proves that the more guns people have in society, the less crime there is because it serves as a deterrent to common sense logic. Absolutely.

England, prime example. They took away all the guns from the cops, and they have a serious law and order problem. An armed society is a safe society.

Adolf Hitler did not, regardless of what the Jews might have you believe, take away the rights of the people to bear arms. In fact, he encouraged it. And because of that, there was less murder.

There was less rape. There was less crime. Because, as you said, common sense says if you're going to commit a crime and you know that nine chances out of ten the victim-to-be is going to have a gun that they're going to point at you, you probably are less likely to commit that crime because you don't want to die.

This just makes sense. It's so obvious. Stay armed.

Stay safe. Don't let them take them, even if it's out of your cold, dead hands. Yeah, they've already taken them from me, so I don't have the option there.

Indeed. But you know what, brother? We had things prior to guns. We trained with picks and shovels when the time was needed.

We fought our enemies with swords and axes even when they had muskets. And we still triumphed. Our racial superiority, our racial drive is far beyond any kind of repression that Zog can sic upon us.

But with that, I would very much like to thank our guest, Loki Hulgaard. That's the correct pronunciation, right? That's correct. It's an obscure name of Danish descent.

I, of course, have no offense. No offense and no disrespect. Please, I'm so glad that you did.

I think it's funny. When you corrected me, I couldn't help but reflect. Some years ago, I was doing an interview, actually, and Paula can appreciate this, with Pastor Tom Robb.

And for whatever reason, I continued to reverse his name right up until our interview. And he actually corrected me. And I've never felt so bad.

I mean, this is a man who is so established in the white nationalist movement here in America. And he was so kind and so just humble about it. But certainly, we as Aryans take a lot of pride in our names and where they come from.

And there is nothing wrong with having your name said correctly. Take it from somebody who's had his name mispronounced quite often. So I apologize wholeheartedly, sir.

Oh, not at all. No offense taken. But it was my honor to have you.

And it was straight-arm media's honor to have you. I hope that everybody out there listening enjoyed the program. Of course, if you were not able to catch this program live, you can listen to the archive by going to Blog Talk Radio and searching straight-arm media, keyword white revolution news.

This archive will be available just a few short hours after this program airs. The guest call-in number for all straight-arm media programs is 319-527-6032. And, of course, you can press 1 at any time to join the discussion.

This week, upcoming Tuesday, we're off. Wednesday, we will be back with Heron Vogue. And we have a guest that evening as well.

Steve Bowers, the founder and leader of the National Socialist Liberation Front, right here out of the United States of America. And then, of course, you can join us on Thursday for the original Boys in the Hood, sponsored and brought to you by the American Christian Dixie Knights, right here on straight-arm media. Friday, we come back again with the Friendly Neighborhood Skinheads, sponsored by Combat 18 USA.

And then we start all over again. Be listening in. In the next few weeks, we'll be adding several more broadcasts and also some prerecorded podcasts.

And with that, gentlemen, if there's nothing else, I would like to wish everyone a very hearty white evening and 88. White power. Don't come around tonight.
