DESCRIPTION

Homo-Luminous: The Divine Blueprint, written by Tanuj Soodan, Creator of The Matrix Unveiled, and School of Mysticism, is a revolutionary blueprint manual, depicting the Earth Matrix Reality. This book was written for the modern mystical seeker, to unlock and understand the elements of consciousness, the nature, and subtle blueprints of the energy body, masculine and feminine energy polarities, the matrix holographic reality, magic, spirituality, the divine force, decoding your soul incarnation, soul mission, life purpose, on "Planet Earth", and how to create infinite abundance and value within your Earth experience. Together, we will uncover the secrets of the "multi-dimensional dark forces", that have spiritually suppressed the Earth Realms for millennia, and explain the transitional state that human beings are finding themselves in. The Human Being, once awakened to his/her true spiritual potential, will fully unlock their Divine blueprint, and torus field/merkaba field, and becomes a multi-dimensional, light being. This "New Human", will live on "New Earth", the birth of higher dimensional planes of existence on the Earth Realms. A complete multidimensional journey, designed to activate, and unlock, within the seeker, a newfound, magical way of interacting with Consciousness, Existence, and Reality.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I would like to thank my family, for supporting myself on my journey, and for all that they have taught me. I would like to give acknowledgements to all of my previous teachers, friends, and colleagues that lit the way. I would like to thank the thousands of brilliant minds who have left behind their wisdom, in the form of lectures, videos, books, courses, and teachings, for those seeking minds to absorb, contemplate, and integrate. I would like to thank the plants, and plant teachers, and plant entities, as well as various multi-dimensional light being teachers I have encountered, who are a “star, galactic, and soul family”. I give gratitude to the entirety of Nature, the Cosmos, Ancestors, and all Cosmic Beings, for they each play a very important and critical role, individually, in our Earth realm experience, and in helping our species evolve and reawaken our cosmic roots.

AUTHOR'S NOTES

Greetings, Soul Traveler,

It brings me great pleasure to connect with you in the writings of this book. May this knowledge find you in a time of your life, in which you are awakening to the truths of our reality. Many of you are beginning to question your true nature and place within this Matrix. It is my hope that you continue to unveil your infinite spiritual and energetic nature. Before we begin our quest for metaphysical wisdom, I would like to formally introduce myself to you.

My name is Tanuj Soodan, I am a multidimensional human being. I access realms of consciousness beyond the physical and the third dimensional reality. Through my awareness of the multidimensional reality, I navigate, explore, and gather information from beyond the physical senses. The purpose of this mission is to spread this knowledge, and receive new spiritual wisdom, to create a better physical existence for myself, those whom I love, and ultimately all sentient life.

As a higher consciousness being, I express my knowledge and talents, through creation, and visionary thinking. I have pioneered energetic and metaphysical teachings, entrepreneurship, and personal 1 on 1 spiritual life coaching. Through my teachings, I help people heal, and develop their life purpose, integrate their souls, evolve their consciousness, and master their energy fields. Subsequently, helping evolve the planet and humanity into a better, more spiritually attuned reality.

I am the founder of The Matrix Unveiled School of Mysticism, and many of you may already know me from my YouTube Channel, "The Matrix Unveiled". I wrote this book to have a dialogue with you, the reader, and fellow consciousness explorer. I am looking forward to connecting and conversing with you, throughout this book. As we unravel the mysteries of the Universe, Matrix, and our own Consciousness, together. Prepare yourself, as these vibrations will create monumental and powerful energetic shifts within you and your reality. Upon receiving this information, you will become activated, and spiritually attuned to the forces of higher vibrational energy and magic. This is the beginning of your awakening into a new world of mystery where life is booming with endless possibilities for you.

From my earliest memories, I saw my physical self from a different viewpoint than most. In essence, I was astral projecting and bi-locating around my earthly body, as an infant. My consciousness had not entirely imbued into my body. Over time, my parents slowly taught me how to associate and interact with the physical world, as I was primarily focused on the energies behind the veil. It was not until the age of five, that I stopped referring to myself in the third person. My mother wondered why I would say things like “Tanuj is hungry”, or “Tanuj wants to sleep”. This was because my consciousness had not fully identified itself with its ego sense of self. My spirit was acting as a protector/watcher over my physical body, rather than already being merged with it, like most humans entering this world. My earliest memory of astral projecting was being able to see myself on the floor in diapers. This memory was particularly bizarre, as simultaneously my infant self was staring back at my spirit self watching over.

As a young child, I was not interested in most things “normal kids” were interested in. I was born “open” and “unlocked” to the metaphysical world around me. This became apparent at the very early age of five years old, when I began to see and feel energy consciously. I learned that I could feel “energy balls” in between my hands. It became a nightly practice which I attempted before drifting off to sleep. The goal was to strengthen these energy balls, and program them with my intention. By the age of seven, I had discovered my telekinetic abilities (the ability to move objects with one;s mind), and my mind was ripe with out-of-body, mystical experiences, and consciously interacting with energy constructs.

I was obsessed with raising my consciousness and understanding concepts related to creation and the Universe. I knew there was a deeper meaning to life. Most of my teenage years were spent studying metaphysics, spirituality, and esoteric teachings. I spent countless hours watching videos on spirituality, meditating, introspecting, and connecting with nature. I was eagerly digesting as much information as I could about all things related to bio-energetics, consciousness, spirituality, systems-thinking, social dynamics, metaphysics, psychology, philosophy, neurology, quantum physics, sacred geometry, mathematics, and more.

The majority of my teenage years were spent heavily invested in the metaphysical and otherworldly, I quickly discovered I possessed the following energetic abilities: psychokinesis (the ability to move objects and things with your mind), astral projection (the ability to leave my body at will, and travel the astral realms), precognition (seeing into the future and possible timelines), remote viewing (seeing objects and places that are not located nearby), telepathy (the ability to read other's minds, and communicate with thought, this includes, people, animals, and machines), empathy (the ability to know and feel what another person is feeling). The incredibly powerful list of psychic abilities mentioned above are constantly expanding and available to those who seek to unlock these abilities within. I strive to make the world a better place by spreading consciousness, awareness, awakening, and healing to people all across the world.

However, I have gone through immense trials and challenges through my spiritual journey that have reshaped me to my very core! I went through a very intense and powerful spiritual awakening at the age of 18, as a freshman in college. My "kundalini energy" spontaneously activated from within. From that moment, I was permanently changed. My eyes became open to the spirit world, and I began to communicate with various entities, on a regular basis. I also became aware of what people refer to as "aliens", extra-terrestrials, or unidentifiable life forms. Most of these entities and beings, in fact, did not "come from other planets", or other "galaxies", but were actually inter-dimensional, meaning they came from other dimensions, or planes of light, native to the Earth realm. Most importantly, I began to clearly see the layers that composed our Matrix Reality. I had many powerful, transformative, and reality-shattering experiences, which still go on to this day, as my paradigms of reality and existence are constantly adapting, and evolving.

Thus began the process of training, meditating, and studying. I knew these gifts had unlocked in me for a specific reason, and now its purpose has been revealed, to create The Matrix Unveiled. I compiled these techniques, practices, channelings, and knowledge, into a school of magic, metaphysics, mysticism, and spirituality. These teachings have been shared, taught, and repeated with others, in order to create genuine adepts, students, and fellow seekers, who could evolve alongside me, and unlock their deepest soul gifts, knowledge, and consciousness. It is dedicated to awakening the Soul of the student, equipping the individual with the knowledge, theory, and wisdom, to create and master their reality exponentially.

The Matrix Unevield Tribe has been magnetically drawn to the message and have come together to form an online community of higher consciousness within the School of Mysticism. The primary focus has always been to create The School of Mysticism, a place of learning and evolution, and we are going full steam ahead into the higher vibratory realms of mystical wisdom! This is my formal invitation to you, to join the School of Mysticism, to deepen, expand, and connect with a tribe, all in pursuit of these higher teachings. I share with you my gratitude for purchasing this book and supporting my work. But most importantly, that you have chosen the path of ascension and spiritual development for yourself. I look forward to discussing with you the true power of consciousness and what it means for humanity once it is awakened from within! You can join us online and connect with the tribe at <https://schoolofmysticisim.mn.co> .

Preface

Homoluminous: The Divine Blueprint is the first book released by Tanuj Soodan. It was created to spread his message on the rising and shifting consciousness humanity is currently undergoing in the Earth plane. This book is a catalyst to inspire infinite love and light energies into our reality, serving to guide on how the student can achieve balance, harmony, and equilibrium, between our light and dark aspects of consciousness. The teachings enclosed cover ideas, contemplations, spiritual blueprints, disciplines, practices, and methods one should follow, in order to reach and achieve infinite and quantum states of consciousness.

Homoluminous: The Divine Blueprint illustrates the coming changes to the human consciousness, how it is adapting, changing, and evolving drastically, during the coming new Age of Aquarius. Together, we will uncover the ancient and occult secrets of spirituality, consciousness, the matrix reality, magic, soul mission, divine blueprints, how to integrate your ego traumas, activate your innate spiritual healing, extra-sensory abilities, and more. We will also unveil the “oppressive spiritual forces”, or the “anti-christos”, also known as the negative polarity energies, and the threat they pose to humanity. We will explore humanity's new direction, the New Earth being formed, the process of spiritual ascension, and the real life transformation of the “homosapien”, 3rd dimensional physical body, into a luminous body of light energies, and consciousness, known as “homoluminous”. This book will prepare the reader for the quantum shift in consciousness which is now taking place for all of humanity to experience. This is the end of an Era, or Kali Yuga, and a new cycle, the new world, and the new destiny of the Universe, is now happening!

INTRODUCTION:

This book is an instruction manual for the incarnated souls of the Earth plane existence. The material presented within this book has been transcribed and unlocked within the consciousness of Tanuj Soodan. The information enclosed was sourced from a direct connection to infinite consciousness and Tanuj's soul wisdom. This access to universal knowledge is a pure expression of universal consciousness. Tanuj urges the reader to realize the importance of evolving their consciousness if they are to transition into the coming new energies of the "Age of Aquarius, also referred to as the "Golden Age" or the true Age of Enlightenment. All deceptions will be revealed, exposing the Darkness into the Light for healing, integration, and love. Only the Truth shall exist on New Earth.

CHAPTER 1:

The Collective Awakening

The turn of the millennium marked a profound spiritual change for humanity and the Earth. The forces of spiritual oppression, control, and manipulation are now being revealed to all. Mankind is beginning to awaken from a deep spiritual slumber that will liberate all beings from ignorance, deception, and the control of the multi-dimensional dark forces within our world. What is currently happening to humanity, Mother Earth, and our world? When we look around, we see mass chaos, fear, and uncertainty spreading. People's lives, governments, and countries have been drastically altered due to these harsh conditions. The “world elite” and their tyrannical agenda of control over the hearts, minds, and souls of the Earth are being exposed for what they are.

These factions of Elite, are the ruling class who have existed in the shadows for far too long. They have committed innumerable crimes against humanity, and controlled much of our monetary wealth, advanced technologies, land, and resources. They have also lied about the true origins and history of humanity. Much of the true gnosis and spiritual wisdom was destroyed to keep the masses unaware of their true multidimensional nature of existence.

Humans have lived under the rule of the "Cabal," secret controlling governments, and malevolent archontic forces. These negative entities are misguided, as they do not connect to the universal truths of peace, love, unity, and spiritual evolution. Fortunately, many of the individuals in power are now losing their connection to their control systems.

We will be discussing in full extent how these Elite few managed to take control over most of the population, their mechanisms, and purpose for doing so in the later chapters of this book. For now, let us focus our attention to the “shifting of the tides” and the greater spiritual reality many of us are preparing to embrace.

We have officially entered the Age of Aquarius (the astrological change within the energies of our reality), and it signals a collective awakening for all consciousness presiding. The Earth and all sentient beings are currently going through immense transformation. The year 2012 was a massive energetic shift for the humanities collective consciousness. The Mayan calendar predicted it as the "end of the world," or what many have called the Apocalypse. Despite popular belief, the word "apocalypse" does not mean the end of the world; apocalypse is seeing through the spiritual veils. Millions are beginning their journey of spiritual liberation.

To understand the energetic shift we are currently undergoing, we must first explain the science of how human consciousness interprets information and reality. The average person interprets information via their five senses: sight, hearing, taste, smell, and touch. The human eye can interpret "visible light" from 400 nanometers to 700 nanometers; the visible light is minimal and interprets less than 1% of the electromagnetic spectrum. Human eyes can only perceive the visible light spectrum. However, the entire spectrum spans of radio waves, microwaves, infrared, visible light, UV, X-Rays, and gamma waves. The human eye captures a minuscule percentage of the full spectrum of light. Therefore, how can we know our entire place in existence and all that exists? There are various dimensions of light, energy, and consciousness ever-present around us. We can become aware of this by learning to connect with our nonphysical and energetic senses, also known as our "astral or psychic senses."

Once we begin to open ourselves to new realities, possibilities, and sources of information, we expand our consciousness. Our senses can then intake new possibilities of energy and spiritual information, correspondingly giving us a more robust and accurate representation of the true nature of our reality.

It is now time for Mankind's cosmic fate to awaken to a greater unknown reality. We are beginning to awaken to the spiritual veils that have masked our consciousness, allowing us to free our minds to higher possibilities and energies. A mass collective shift is happening to our species like never before seen.

The word "consciousness" is derived from the Latin root word "conscire," meaning knowing, awareness, and to be aware. This is a partial definition; therefore, this book will not reference the western definition of "consciousness." Consciousness will be defined as "the state of awareness of an observer experiencing reality, sensation, perception, and ultimately information”. This clarification is essential to ensure the reader is aware of the complexity of the word and how preconceived notions will result in cognitive bias while reading.

For too long, consciousness has been misinterpreted, ignored, and butchered within modern western society. Ideas of materialism, biological sciences, and physical sciences (physics, chemistry, and mathematics), have significantly distorted the fundamental concepts of our existence. While incredibly useful in creating tools for a better, more robust, and sophisticated lifestyle, modern science has built almost all of its principles and discoveries on the materialistic paradigm. Consequently, this has limited the scientific community from unraveling the mysteries and understandings of reality. The misguided third-dimensional scientific model of our physical existence is why there is a lack of actual progression in the mainstream models of scientific exploration. Mainstream science is based on the materialistic world, meaning matter is all that exists and we are composed of atoms, molecules, and subatomic particles. Science denies any metaphysical or spiritual intelligence; therefore, technology is limited to the third dimension of existence. When one begins to understand the holographic and quantum nature of reality, science opens to infinite interdimensional and space travel possibilities. No longer become materialistic pursuits for profit and scientific accolade. Instead, they become metaphysical and multidimensional experiences of our quantum reality. The scientist becomes the true observer of all sensory and objective phenomena. Thus revealing the innate metaphysical and spiritual nature of existence.

Science and technology conforms to restrictions created by universities, corporations, and investors, chasing the approval of private funders and investors, to create their projects and research. Thus, many of the private institutionalized based organizations, such as in our universities, scientific laboratories, and think tanks, all run on government funding. The game has become a rat race towards academic notoriety and appeasing funders, institutions, and research propaganda. While many have achieved these accolades, they remain dissatisfied due to not discovering the truths beyond life’s materialistic perspectives. Contrarily, collective cultures that live ordinarily, spiritually based lives seem to be the happiest people. What are they connected to that first-world countries seem to be utterly devoid of? The answer is simple: happiness is not found within any material objects or physical satisfaction. Instead, the most satisfying feelings become unlocked from within one's consciousness.

The ability to become joyous, feel love, and deeply connect to the present moment brings happiness beyond most's comprehension. I have stumbled onto these states of consciousness, and I am here to share with you exactly how I did this. The techniques in this book will teach you how to unlock your abilities to raise your consciousness to quantum and superhuman levels of consciousness. As a reminder, level of consciousness is the degree of one's own experience of reality. Imagine an invisible switch that can heighten your experience of life. All of the world's colors suddenly seem brighter, more incredibly vibrant, including inanimate objects. The cosmic breath of life oscillates back and forth, sending cosmic energy and waves of bliss throughout the world. The greatest gift I could give another would not be anything material, rather the knowledge of consciousness and how to expand it. To be fully immersed in the present moment, in full connection with the divine consciousness.

There are infinite levels and degrees to consciousness. Experiencing even a slight increase from baseline levels is a transformative experience. A person can experience profound states of joy, wonder, and gratitude while being in nature. A beautiful sunset, mountain landscape, or other scenery can deeply captivate the mind, and a profound sense of joy, peace, and love washes away over the whole body.

A sense of "electrical aliveness" can be felt within the person's being. They are extra sensitive to everything around them; the hair on the back of their neck may stand up, they are deeply engrossed with all of their senses, savoring and profoundly appreciating the experience of being alive. The question remains, how deeply can one immerse themselves into this state of consciousness, and how powerfully can one immerse themselves in these energetic waves and frequencies.

How can one sustain these states of consciousness permanently? What is required to remain in a permanent state of heightened sensitivity to reach these states consistently? The specific techniques to raising one's consciousness will be shared in later segments of the book.

CHAPTER 2:

Materialism and Consciousness Connection

Since the dawn of scientific discovery, man has sought to uncover the connection between the body, mind, and what lies beyond. The question has always remained, how does the mind perceive reality? To the mystic and conscious explorer, it is apparent that the paradigms that dictate modern academia are looking with a distorted lens of truth.

The most significant academic scholars attempt to understand reality through misguided attempts to examine, dissect, and trial their materialistic pursuits, to unlock new understandings. Yet, each discovery leads to greater obstacles, barriers, and endless confusion. As the timeless wisdom states, “Be like water” and “Go with the flow,” clearly, they are not aiming their academic pursuits in the correct direction.

The scientific community spends massive amounts of resources researching the physical world. They attempt to observe reality from an objective external lens. Therefore, no matter how impartial or unbiased they desire to be in their experiments, they forget that one’s own awareness is the only real phenomenon occurring within reality. Government scientific industries spend billions of dollars allegedly investigating distant planets, galaxies, and worlds. Yet, they falter to ask fundamental questions on consciousness and how increased consciousness directly influences how humans conceptualize reality. The Mystic, on the other hand, quickly discovers the core point here is that it is impossible to understand our world outside phenomena without first looking within and understanding what “you” really are. Once one understands they are not solely a “materialistic awareness” or physical flesh, and that a dimension of consciousness exists outside the material realm, one begins to reveal to themselves their infinite nature.

Scientists have explored the vast material universe, hoping to become closer to answering these existential questions, yet they are no closer than before. Various scientific experiments, and years of scientific discovery, such as the Bohr's atomic model, the electron cloud model, and Rutherford's atomic model experiments, has led mainstream academia to see reality as a solely composed physical system. However, this is not true science, but in fact scientism, lobbyist and corporate funded research to create a doctored narrative, built off pseudoscientific, outdated, limited belief systems. How so? Science cannot be agenda first, and progression second, to truly be objective and honest research. However, in today's scientific community, scholars and researchers are often shunned, ridiculed, and insulted, for suggesting research outside the norm of academic circles, or by inquiring on limited terminology and understanding. Those that challenge the narrative often have their funding cut, and are ostracized from the collective group, for having ideas that do not fit in with the collectively agreed upon narrative. This is especially apparent in today's society, with an incredibly biased, doctored narrative around the COVID-19 hoax and false scientific research. If one simply looks into these pharmaceutically based projects, billions of dollars are being funded by top lobbyists, and powerful elites, who are agenda, and control based. This is not science, but actually cult-like behavior, moreso focused on genetic manipulation and engineering.

The scientific community has become a cult like religion, and those who disagree with the materialistic paradigm, are claimed to be unscientific. The central belief systems of a scientifically created Universe, created from nothing, and humankind evolving from pond scum, then evolving from chimpanzees, is a narrative to keep your belief about your existence meaningless and insignificant in the larger scope of things. This could not be farther from the truth.

One of the greatest mistakes, and assumptions, that many people, scientifically minded, and otherwise, all seem to assume, that consciousness is something that stems from a material system. This assumption is paradoxical, and limiting, which then supports incorrect beliefs and methods of exploring reality. The brain is not responsible for consciousness. How do we know this to be true? Think of the brain as a transmitter and receiver of information, similar to a mega computer or database. The internet, or the cloud, is the infinite consciousness. Consciousness is all that truly exists, and the brain/computer is simply a transmitter and receiver that the consciousness uses to navigate reality. To have a physical experience, this infinite field of awareness must trick itself through a receiver via the ego. The ego operates on specific belief systems, barriers, separation, division, and fears, between its "tiny and feeble mind" and the rest of Creation. It thinks it "protects itself" by creating these barriers from the false self. Therefore, the local mind feels secure in its false sense of identity and existence than the vastness of the Infinite fields of awareness.

However, the mainstream paradigms seem to be missing this key understanding. Instead of trying to understand the very fundamental nature of existence and reality, the individual or individuals are encapsulated with the idea of "exploiting reality". This is common in scientific methods, where you "dissect", "examine", "dissolve, destroy, or otherwise break/tear apart, in order to find "what's inside". The issue with this method is that the approach is physical, instead of metaphysical.

This is often seen in the medical practices of dissection, and analysis. As a former biology student, it was deeply uncomfortable to dissect dead animals for the "means of science", This is not really an accurate means of studying an animal at all. If one was to truly want to study an animal, they would examine and observe it in its natural habitat, such in the wild For example, studying a rabbit, in nature, would be a lot more productive and informative, then killing the animal, and dissecting it, in order to understand and learn from it.

Another issue is our mainstream scientific paradigms are immoral and disconnected from infinite loving nature. Yes, morality does play a part in consciousness, as higher states of consciousness, generally increases morality, compassion, universal love, and acceptance. This argument is actually based on reason, and maximizing consciousness. So, in order to gather the most amount of data from an animal, or a human, they must be alive, brimming with life-force energy, in order to truly be examined and learned from. This is because consciousness is the very essence of life, and consciousness can be related to pure understanding, or omniscience.

This book's purpose is not to attack the modern scientific community, rather to illustrate a paradigm lock much of the world has become trapped in. We are taught to look up to our scientists, as the "rational, educated, authority", on all things, and to consider them to be our educators, and head scholars, that can provide us with clear insight on our place in the Universe, and function in society. We have placed our trust and faith in this community, thinking they desire to enlighten us with the proper knowledge. We teach our children this same scientific doctrine, and the cycle continues to repeat itself, with hardly any individuals challenging or questioning the authority. Both teacher and student must follow the curriculum enforced by the education system. Learning in school institutions has become more about repeating and regurgitating "required" information with little focus on nourishing original, independent thoughts.

This has intentionally bred a society where laws, norms, and narratives are seldom questioned or challenged; it is a mass collective of groupthink and dogmatic deception. The critical issue is materialistic reductionism passed along the world erroneously. So, why is this such a problem, and how are these issues connected to the contents of this book? Before we can understand consciousness, we must understand the paradigms of our reality and what ideas we already have within our minds. Failure to become aware of these underlying biases, and preconceived notions, will prevent the reader from understanding the complexity of information contained within the book.

The key is to understand that reality is not a physical system like we have been led to believe. While it may seem that the world external to us, is a solid, physical world, further investigation, with the use of expanding your consciousness and energy, leads to the discovery that the world around us is a projection of the personal and the collective consciousness. Essentially, we are inside a giant holographic, quantum state energetic projection. Our world around us is not as it seems, but actually a collective dream state hallucination.

Where is the proof? Newer, more advanced scientific, has recognized that our external world is a holographic projection. In the 1940s, theoretical physicist Sylvester James Gates Jr. discovered artificial computer code composing the fabric strings of reality. What does this mean? It means that the reality we exist in is essentially a giant energetic simulation, consisting of quantum frequencies and light grids, creating the illusion of solid, physical matter.

This behavior is observable when light reflects off transparent surfaces. Think of a mirror; the reason you are able to see yourself is due to the light reflecting off of you and the environment. This is essentially showing the light inside of this construct is a giant prism. The prism serves as a reflector and refractor of all light. After discovering what the Matrix reality is, it has become clear to me that we live in an artificial prism construct, bending and trapping all of the light contained within this consciousness simulation. This is why you cannot walk through a mirror in this dimension, your vibration is not at the same frequency. In the non physical realms, objects exist at a closer resonance to each other. In this unified field, one would easily be able to navigate through mirrors, as a portal.

The current physical realm that we live in has created veils upon veils, to split, fracture, and confuse the light signatures that exist within the matrix. We live in an artificial matrix construct, this is why many feel limited to the physical laws. While this may sound bleak, I am simply stating the bounds of the construct I have seen for myself. However, there is good news, understanding our true nature of consciousness leads us to pure infinite self-aware intelligence. All realities, construct, or otherwise, are composed of this ethereal, infinite substance. How does this relate to you? It means that everything within all of creation is an alive, ever-present, aware, infinitely intelligent, and all-powerful quantum morphogenetic field.

All matter radiates an energy field, meaning a quantum electromagnetic field of existence that is hyper-intelligent and infinitely possible to create, experience, and tap any possibility. This quantum field is different from the limiting, third dimensional reality. All things contain this quantum field, as matter oscillates at a certain vibration. The 20th century famous theoretical and quantum scientist, Albert Einstein, gave us the famous equation $E = mc^2$, this equation represents energy equals mass multiplied by light squared. Essentially, this base formula expresses that all energy is simply a conversion of light vibrating and oscillating at a specific frequency. The vibrational state of all things is composed of light, which are vibrating photons of light. Matter, light, and energy are interchangeable by shifting the vibration and oscillation of a specified target. Einstein's equation provides the building blocks to lead us to understand the holographic and illusory nature of the external world. All things within this reality are composed of light, including human beings.

Light has various properties. It molds and shifts its behavior based on conscious observation. How does this work? The double-slit experiment is an excellent example of this phenomenon. Light, for example, will oscillate from a particle to a wave, depending on how it is observed. While this is an oversimplification of Thomas Young's double-slit scientific experiment, the results conclude that, indeed, light does shift its behavior based on observation.

What modern science is now discovering about the nature of light, reality, and consciousness has been known for thousands of years by many ancient civilizations, religions, and advanced spiritual teachings. The way it was communicated was simply different. The duality of light represents the duality of reality, humans, plants, animals, and other forms of consciousness.

All forms of light energy in this reality contain a "masculine" and "feminine" polarity.

The feminine polarity is the magnetic charge, constantly flowing, changing, adapting, magnetic, and shifting. The "masculine" polarity is the electrical force. Together, the masculine and the feminine energies represent and form creation. One of the most sacred forms of creation is the combination of the masculine and feminine energies in the merkaba field. The merkaba field combines an upward and downward triangle, which merges and oscillates at a higher frequency. As the two frequencies converge together, they unlock a sacred electromagnetic frequency, which is the complete harmony of divine creation. These energies express themselves in many ways: day and the night, man and woman, yin and yang, hot and cold, sun and moon, Earth and sky, Shiva and Shakti, Jesus and Mary, husband and wife, action and reaction, King and Queen, Action and Non-action, Doing and Being and various other examples.

The Masculine is presence, stillness, and the I AM nature of consciousness. It is the electrical force of the "electromagnetic." The Sun represents the Divine Masculine force, the neverending light of truth, burning away the Darkness and revealing all truths. As the famous saying goes, "There is nothing new under the Sun," meaning, all that is revealed under the Sun exposes the truth for all to see. The Masculine energy seeks to create change, achievements, goals, and impact in the world. It also embodies logic, decisiveness, reasoning, understanding, wisdom, and growth. This potent energy is the driving force that creates change within the world. This force is responsible for creating academics, architecture, sciences, technologies, and progression for the human species.

In today's society, the divine masculine energy has been systematically eradicated through cultural programming. The absence of untainted spiritual teachings has weakened the collective; most live ignorant to their divine masculine power. The Divine Masculine are the New Earth realms' warriors, protectors, and leaders. The return of this energy in our reality signifies the collapse of the old control structures and the birth of a New Earth, where all will live in harmony, protection, and love. Without the return and authentic embodiment of the Divine Masculine energies, humanity will find themselves helpless to the spiritual oppressors. This archontic force has ruled the planet for too long. It is up to the Divine Masculine energy to come together and learn the teachings of divine focus, power, and fearlessness. We need divine masculine leaders to usher in the new reality, stand up to evil, and tear down the oppressive control systems. We do this by being fearless in their oppression and standing firmly in our truth, morality, and light. All that is demonic, negative, and oppressive will ultimately fall and be destroyed by the light power of the rising Divine Masculine force.

There is much evil on this planet; this evil is conjured by the Cabbalistic Elite, including the pedophilic satanic child and human trafficking rings funneled by large charities, beneficiaries, and religious institutions, the most powerful being the Roman Vatican Church. We will elaborate on the dark occultist's black magick rituals in a later chapter of this book, as it is highly complex and multifaceted. For now, we must recognize that Divine Masculine energy has been hard at work confronting this terrible evil, which has shed light on this information. Also, to the courage of Divine Feminine energies for standing in their goddess power fearlessly in the face of tyranny.

The polarity of the Divine Masculine is known as the Divine Feminine or the mother energies. It is truly magical. As human beings, we are all extensions of the Great Mother, known as The Aeos Sophia to the Gnostics, who were the original keepers, and protectors of the Truth. Mother Earth, Nature, Gaia, and Sophia, are all aspects of this Divine Feminine Force of Creation. The Feminine Aspect of reality is vastly different from its counterpart, and thus the two exist in an ever-lasting dance between polarities. The Feminine energy is related to beauty, empathy, magnetism, emotion, feeling, healing, nurturing, creativity, and the ever-present cosmic dance of universal energy.

The two aspects of reality are consciousness and energy. Consciousness is the present state of awareness, existence and is unmovable from its center. Consciousness does not change, shift, or react. It is simply the energy, or life force, constantly changing, flowing, and responding to its environment. In various degrees and forms, the two are present within all things, living and nonliving. Humans also exist with various degrees of consciousness and energy.

In its purest form, consciousness is the essence of knowingness and interconnectivity. When thoroughly connected to the "Universal Mind," one can understand that the mind constantly sends and receives signals from the Infinite field of awareness and presence. This is the cosmic mind we all share, it is composed of archetypes, ideas, and collective expressions. Humans especially resonate with group thinking mentalities.

The Mystic's goal is to expand and learn to traverse the various dimensions of one's mind and awareness, extending this awareness to the rest of the Infinite Field of Consciousness. By beginning to explore our minds and shine light onto the deep crevices within ourselves, we uncover the truth of our existence and how we can become whole, loving, and connected. These concepts may be challenging for the uninitiated individual to ascertain, however introductory experiences into these dimensions can show the novice practitioner just how vast, complex, and Infinite the nature of Creation is. It is very uncomfortable and complex for most individuals to expand their minds to higher states of consciousness because of the immense programming and mind control most people have undergone since birth into this matrix reality. The ego-mind is also highly resistant to change after a lifetime of programming and biased viewpoints. We will soon discuss the various dimensions of consciousness and how one can learn the basics of expanding their energy and awareness in the following chapter.

CHAPTER 3:

Blueprints to the Subtle Energy Body

If you are familiar with new age spirituality, you have likely heard about chakras, energy, chi, prana, life force, and consciousness. So it will be essential to define these words within the context of this book so that the reader is not inaccurately using a different definition presented outside the contexts of this book. Chakra is the Sanskrit word for the seven colored energy centers within the human body. According to Sanskrit philosophy, the chakras are in this order and color: The Root Chakra (red), The Sacral Chakra (orange), The Solar Plexus Chakra (yellow), The Heart Chakra (green), The Throat Chakra (blue), The Third Eye (indigo), and The Crown Chakra (violet).

While chakras are not visible within the visible light spectrum of energy, it is visible in other realms of the electromagnetic spectrum of light. It is important to remember that human eyesight is vastly limited in processing light. Because of this, the human eye can only see less than 1% of the electromagnetic light spectrum.

A commonly-held belief is that chakras are balls of energy. This is, however, inaccurate. To understand the chakras, we must first understand their correlation with the endocrine system. The endocrine glandular system is the chakra system. The endocrine system is the scientific, biological, and accurate terminology for the words of chakra. The discovery of the chakra system dates back to over 5000 years ago, and was actually the first discovery of the endocrine gland system. What are the endocrine glands? The endocrine glandular system is actually the chakra system. The two of these are the same thing. The endocrine system is the scientific, biological, and accurate terminology for the words of chakra.

The following glands correspond to the following chakras.

Root chakra = Prostate gland/fallopian tubes and perineum

Sacral chakra = Reproductive
Solar plexus chakra = Adrenal glands
Heart chakra = Thymus gland
Throat chakra = Thyroid gland
Third eye chakra = Pituitary gland
Crown chakra = Pineal gland

The purpose of the chakras and endocrine glands is to maintain balance and homeostasis within the body. All chakras are necessary to the body and maintain proper health and function within the body. Each gland releases specific hormones, which trigger chemical messengers to interact with the nervous system. The key to understanding is that a change within a person's physiology creates a change in an individual's sensation, perception, and reality. Different states of consciousness, and thus vibration, are created within a person. As these various hormones are released within the body, it produces multiple chemicals, from epinephrine, dopamine, serotonin, adrenaline, and so many more. Once released, these chemicals activate “specific chakras,” which then change an individual's consciousness.

Here is a breakdown of the seven chakras/endocrine glands and how they interact with the body's energy system. What is chakra balancing and activation? It is common among the New Age and western spirituality communities (as well as Eastern spirituality) to talk about “balancing and activating the chakras.” Here is the truth to this concept. Activating the chakras is already happening. As we discussed earlier, the chakras are the endocrine glands. Therefore, they are already activated and working properly however, their function can be greatly enhanced, when learning to utilize your energy signature effectively. If your body's endocrine glands were not working properly, you would be sick and suffer from disease.

Individuals who suffer from diseases such as hypothyroidism, adrenal fatigue, sleep deprivation, and various other ailments are experiencing this disease due to energy or bio-electricity not functioning efficiently within that specific chakra or endocrine gland.

The root chakra is correlated with the prostate gland and fallopian tubes. It is the lowest energy center and is considered the base chakra. This gland is responsible for survival, fear, fight or flight, feeling grounded, secure, present within the body, and attached to the Earthly realm.

The prostate gland releases testosterone, and the fallopian tubes release estrogen. Both are responsible for sex hormones, survival, and the fight or flight response. This energy center is the lowest vibrational point on the body (note: this is not bad or negative, it is simply the vibrational resonance of the gland).

The sacral chakra is correlated with the reproductive glands, its counter body parts are the penis and testicles for males and the vagina for women. Both of these glands are incredibly powerful energy centers, which release various hormones, such as testosterone and estrogen. These sex hormones attract the opposite sex and magnetize the human body. They, of course, are also used for reproduction and creating life.

While heavily over-emphasized in our society, these glands are still a lower form of vibrational energy. Partaking in the constant depletion of energy stored within these chakras through low-vibrational, lustful, and meaningless sex causes exhaustion of these energy centers. The best use of sexual energy is to either transmute it into higher energy centers or only engage in high-vibrational, loving, unifying sexual expressions. The goal is to create a vibrating resonance field of divine love instead of lower vibrational lust, shame, control, or any other emotional energy, which would trap the consciousness into a downward spiral.

The solar plexus chakra is correlated with the adrenal glands. The adrenal glands release the hormones that initiate the fight or flight response, adrenaline, and epinephrine. All 3 of the “lower chakras are primarily responsible for the growth, survival, and reproduction of the biological organism (the human body). The solar plexus energy focuses on the idea of personal power, strength, confidence, leadership, individuality, and “ego persona.” An individual with a weak solar plexus chakra will be timid, afraid, easily bullied, stepped on, or belittled. They will have trouble finding their purpose in life and living authentically. An individual with an overactive solar plexus chakra is controlling, egotistical, addicted to power, and manipulating others. A balanced solar plexus chakra means a person is confident but not arrogant, assertive, and sure of themselves. They have a clear vision, purpose; they strive to achieve their goals, dreams, and aspirations without becoming addicted to controlling others.

The heart chakra is associated with the thymus gland. The thymus gland is responsible for the immune system. It helps fight disease with its “helper T cells,” special leukocytes which fight infections. The ancient Egyptians considered the thymus gland and the heart chakra to be one of the most important glands of the human body. This was because of the immense role in health and wellness and the spiritual significance that the thymus plays within the body. The thymus gland is the energy source of the human bio-electrical field, also known as the Merkaba, auric field, energy field, soul, and many other names. An underactive thymus gland, or weak heart chakra, will cause a person to struggle to feel love, compassion, empathy, and understanding towards other people. It will lead to harmful, hateful, and closed-off behavior. A person will not accept others and will struggle with having an open mind. A person with a balanced heart chakra and thymus gland will emit love, compassion, empathy, and accept others effortlessly.

The throat chakra is correlated to the thyroid gland. The thyroid gland controls metabolic functions, heart, muscle, and digestive functions. To have a healthy functioning thyroid gland, consuming enough iodine is necessary. When out of balance, the throat chakra will cause a person to be unstable in their communication. They may frequently tell lies, be insincere, and not express themselves authentically. They may feel that they are wearing a mask and are unsure of who they are.

When the throat chakra is balanced, healthy, and in alignment, people can effortlessly express themselves, their opinions, and what they believe. They speak their highest truth and share anything from their heart. Balancing the throat chakra is the key to aligning with one's highest purpose in life. They are able to express their authentic soul voice and tap into their deepest soul's gifts.

The third eye chakra is correlated with the pituitary gland. It is considered the "master gland," it controls the other glands and works in conjunction with the hypothalamus to regulate all other glands. The pituitary gland releases Human Growth Hormone (HGH) and other regulating hormones for other endocrine glands. It is used as an activator to release hormones, which then stimulate the activation of these glands. The pituitary gland is the magnetic sense, and your own internal compass, sense of right and wrong, and highly responsible for your intuitive abilities. A blocked pituitary gland will lead to confusion, lack of proper judgment, and spiritual awareness, in one's life.

The crown chakra is correlated with the pineal gland; it is the body's most "mystical" gland because of its immense spiritual connection. The pineal gland produces two powerful hormones, melatonin and dimethyltryptamine (DMT). Melatonin is a hormone produced by the body to regulate the sleep and wake cycles of the body. This hormone is responsible for our internal biological clock, repairing all cells and DNA during rest periods. During the night hours, melatonin converts to endogenous DMT. With intense meditation practices, breathwork, and energy training, “endogenous” N-N-DMT and 5-MEO-DMT is released. DMT is responsible for dreaming as it is the chemical messenger or hormone which fully activates a person’s energy field and shifts their vibration to other dimensions. The pineal gland is especially essential for spiritual ascension as it transforms your perception of reality. An individual's consciousness is drastically upgraded, expanded, and altered when fully activated. For an in-depth course on the pineal gland, learn more here .

The word “kundalini” is the divine female energy coiled at the base of the spine. This force has been known throughout the centuries in all Eastern and esoteric religions and philosophies. Kundalini’s purpose is to awaken and restore the chakras into alignment and stimulate dormant parts of the brain. Kundalini energy travels up the spine in three central channels and the two adjacent channels, it forces blocked energy up the spine through the crown chakra. Many compare this surge of energy to being set on fire or experiencing strong electrical shocks, but this is not always the case. Each report varies on the amount of prana or subtle energy within the body. The Kundalini awakening experience enlightens the individual on the passage of evolution.

Scriptures found in the Kriya Yoga school of philosophy, kundalini are called “Shakti”, meaning the great divine feminine. When Shakti is awakened at the root chakra, also known as the Muladhara chakra, it is stimulated and sent up the three passages of the human body, known as the Sushumna, Ida, and Pingala. The Ida channel is the channel on the left side correlated with the moon, the divine feminine, and the parasympathetic nervous system. This channel is responsible for emotions, feelings, receptivity, and relaxation. In today's society, it is common for the left channel to be blocked, leading people to have a difficult time relaxing or falling asleep at night. The right channel, or the sun channel is responsible for action, will, drive and motivation. It correlates with the divine masculine and when blocked causes an individual to feel sleepy and unmotivated in life. It is also connected with the sympathetic nervous system, which induces a fight or flight response in an individual. Most people have an over stimulated sympathetic nervous system which causes anxiety, restlessness and agitation. These two channels are representative of the two opposite forces flowing within us. According to kriya yoga, breathing techniques like alternate nostril breathing effectively balance both of these channels. Finally, we have the central channel, or the Sushumna, which is commonly referred to as the vagus nerve. The vagus nerve is quite possibly the most powerful nerve channel. It runs up the spine and throughout the body, meeting at specific points, known as chakras. In kriya yoga, there are seven main points where the vagus nerve meets. According to the teachings of Lahiri Mahasaya, the founder of modern kriya yoga, and disciple of the legendary Mahavatar Babaji, stimulating the central channel is done by exerting great force on the base or root chakra, causing a great release of energy to travel up the spine and throughout the chakras, awakening and activating them.

The fundamentals of kriya yoga insist that the two secondary channels must be clear sufficiently; otherwise, the kundalini may travel up the wrong passage, causing devastation to the persons' mental health and physiology. Kriya yoga aims to prepare the practitioner for this immense prana, should kundalini ever rise in them.

My personal experience with kundalini has been quite an adventure. The night before my 19th birthday, I experienced a full-blown kundalini awakening. I remember laying down to meditate. In this particular meditation, I was using binaural beats to stimulate my root chakra, unknowing that it would cause kundalini to rise. During the meditation, I felt an intense heat and pressure building at the base of my spine. It felt like someone had lit my tailbone on fire. Then something exploded within my mind's eye. I witnessed bright colors; red, orange, and eventually imagery of snakes, which is a common association with the kundalini energy. It felt like a giant snake had traveled up my root chakra, up to my spine in a clockwise motion, and I could feel it getting stuck at various points. Eagerly, I trusted this energy and gave consent to the force to remove any blockages. A sea of fire was rushing through me. It then went up through my heart chakra, throat chakra, and finally, my third eye.

I heard a loud pop, which I presumed to be my pineal gland receiving the energy. My mind's eye filled with more beautiful colors and visions, which I cannot recall anymore. After some time, the kundalini energy went out through my head and crown chakra. I intuitively thought to get up and went to the bathroom, where I saw my aura. A beautiful turquoise colored bioelectrical field of living light surrounded my head and all around my torso and ran throughout my body. Every part of my body felt alive, electrical, and filled with prana. I experienced a deep bliss within me, and everything seemed to be at peace. This experience left me speechless, as I knew I had experienced something mystical that very few people ever experience in their life. I was in this state of presence while feeling the aliveness of my body for the next few hours. All I could do was sit and appreciate the aliveness I felt around me. I had nothing to say or do; instead of the constant chatter and noise that used to run in my head, there was silence and peace.

I believe the key to human evolution lies within us, not in something external or artificial. The human body is equipped with an electrical upgrade that is accessible at any time if the nervous system is adequately prepared. I believe I was able to experience this because of my two years of prior meditation, plant-based diet, and my sheer determination to want to experience something more than a mundane state of consciousness. Human beings have the capacity to reach these dormant states of awareness and operation, all it takes is some faith, practice, and determination to stick to the practice. If a person's body and nervous system is clogged with environmental toxins, they will have a difficult time raising kundalini, and perhaps they may never do it. It is important to keep the mind and body clean of negative foods, emotions, and habits because, after all, Hinduism teaches us that the body and mind are all extensions of the soul. In order for a human to reach higher levels of awareness, and states of human evolution such as kundalini, their nervous system must be adequately prepared to handle such a current. Kundalini in the unprepared nervous system will fry the nerves and chakras. Human evolution is something that anyone who wants to progress in their life should take very seriously. Kundalini is an evolutionary energy, designed to upgrade the nervous system and chakras so more prana can be stored within the system. Through raising the kundalini continuously, enlightenment and the slowing of aging begins to manifest. Therefore, it is important for anyone desiring to evolve their bodies and consciousness to activate this energy when they feel ready.

Learn how to channel it to serve their dharma so they can reflect their peaceful, blissful internal world to the outer world.

While the "energy body" certainly feels delighted and inundated from the increase in life force energies, the physical and mental systems despise the increase in expansion. The reason behind this is justified. Expanding one's mind towards greater possibilities means old belief systems, ideas, perceptions of identity quickly collapse. The experience of awakening kundalini changes the person entirely; often, an existential crisis occurs. Every aspect of reality is questioned, and the "I" they once believed to be is an inaccurate summary of who they truly are. This will cause fear and confusion. However, a person can also become highly liberated with this newfound discovery.

The energy body must be activated, grown, developed, and cultivated from within. The energy body, or light form, will continuously grow and evolve after many years of intense meditation, energetic training, and spiritual mastery. There are many levels of understanding how to work with the energy fields, and I will write an entirely separate book on that subject because of its complexities, intricacies, and nuances. Primarily, however, the levels of progression indicate how much energy a practitioner can access. Initially, the "magical energy" provided for the beginner is minimal or hard to detect. The primary reason is a lack of cultivated connection to the Divine.

Once the novice gains a subtle grasp over the conscious connection of the energy fields, they become a neophyte, a beginner to the craft. Eventually, after sufficient practice and understanding, they may become adept and even master the craft. The craft of "energy mastery" is a long-forgotten art; it is the proficiency of internal energetic mastery and perfecting the art of connecting to the divine energy fields. Abilities and possibilities range from: increased empathy, precognition, astral travel, remote viewing, real-life elemental mastery, such as real-life airbending (aerokinesis), water-bending (hydrokinesis), fire-bending (pyrokinesis), creating lightning, atmokinesis (the ability to impact and mentally influence the weather), geokinesis or earth bending, controlling electronics, to even human levitation, teleportation, flight, shapeshifting, dematerialization, and essentially, omnipotence. The possibilities are endless, and while this list may seem incredibly arduous to believe, especially for the modern-day human, who has been subjected to immense programming and energetic distortions, all of these abilities, and more, are entirely possible.

How can I make such a claim? Because, I have personally activated, repeatedly demonstrated, and witnessed all of these forms of energetic mastery in some shape or form in my life. In fact, the more basic abilities, such as airbending, waterbending, fire-bending, atmokinesis and telekinesis, I have proven numerous times publicly on my YouTube Channel . I have made these videos freely available to the public to demonstrate their preconceived notions of reality are false, and reality is not at all what most people assume it to be.

Additionally, The School of Mysticism was founded in June of 2021, for the benefit of all human consciousness. This online community platform, and database, was created to educate, teach, and mentor students who seek to learn the mysteries of consciousness, magic, and the divine energy fields. The school is open to the public, and anyone may enroll by visiting us at <http://schoolofmysticism.mn.co> . The students in the school are proof that these teachings are tangible and accessible to all.

Many students have started to discover their own abilities and connection to the universal force, and are living proof that these abilities can be taught and replicated. This consciousness revolution has shown us that we are all latent with immense spiritual and metaphysical potential. The mission is to be activated and connected to our divine gifts. If the Creator did not want us to all become divinely connected to ourselves, each other, and the Infinite Intelligence, then it would not have placed these tools, our very hearts, minds, and souls, at our disposal. Therefore, I conclude it is our divine destiny and responsibility, as souls incarnated within the human experience, to unlock this incredible display of infinite and unifying consciousness. We are the Infinite Intelligence dancing together, in one harmonious song and vibration, eternally, and infinitely, and now we are awakening from the great dream of sleep and forgetfulness.

CHAPTER 4:

The Holographic Matrix Reality

As I discussed earlier, reality is not a physical system. To be limited to the energies of physicality will make it so that one only seems a minimal version of existence. Thus, they will naturally block out anything that questions their ideas and viewpoints, unable to process new ideas or possibilities. Because of societal culture, religion, and prior belief systems, the collective is programmed to perceive the world a certain way. All ideas that contradict this perspective are cast out, discarded, or seen as delusions. But what if society was wrong about the entire framework, attitude, and understanding of reality? What if it was something entirely different. Ancient and esoteric teachings from civilizations such as Sumerians, Mesopotamians, and Egyptians, knew that reality was not a “physical system”, and that instead, that Man was “bound” by time, space, and matter, due to his lack of understanding of frequency, energy, and the “spiritual nature of reality”.

I have discovered that the physical reality paradigm is false throughout my metaphysical, mystical, and energetic encounters. This chapter will discuss the holographic matrix reality and electromagnetic universe theory of reality. Everything is composed of energy, light, vibrations, frequencies, and consciousness; this reality is entirely light-based. Everything the average human perceives from their five senses is linked to a highly advanced digital/holographic screen in which energies travel back and forth, from the spiritual plane to the physical plane and back. These planes of existence are outside the space-time continuum, so it can be difficult for the ego-mind to grasp this without personal experience.

The biggest breakthrough in understanding one's reality is the holographic matrix theory's primary principle: thoughts, energies, intentions all create reality. Instead of being a reactive force to reality, one becomes the creator of their own experience. One is no longer bound by physical limitations present to the average human. One of the first discoveries often present in this understanding is the energetic or subtle bodies sudden activation, sensitivity, and aliveness. This aliveness is composed of fractal lights, energies, and intelligence. It is pure magic, and the observer of this phenomenon begins to witness the transformation of a third-dimensional dense human body into a subtler energetic body, now directed by the will of the universal intelligence, which flows through all things. One realizes they are a river of energy in an infinite ocean of consciousness, sentience, awareness, and intelligence. Life becomes a miracle and blessing as the newly awakened neophyte commends his/herself to the process of spiritual mastery, ascension, and devotion to mastering the tools of magic and reality creation.

A multitude of connections can manifest from an individual's consciousness. Initially, a sensitivity to the emotions, feelings, and thoughts of others can most prominently manifest as sensory overload. Experiencing another's emotions allows for a great sense of empathy, compassion, and love for others, and can help create a sense of peace, familiarity, and true connection. In more powerful cases, the two become one, and a merging or full connection of consciousness takes place. This is a beautiful state of consciousness and immensely blissful. It can be experienced in sexual lovemaking when the goal is spiritual connection and Unity, not lustful ejaculation. It can also be experienced by skilled meditators, in meditation concentration exercise, through releasing one's ego and connecting themselves into the universal consciousness field. I have built an entire profound method of energetic expression that teaches individuals exactly how to expand their consciousness, energy, and mind into their environment. Extraordinary things can then become possible in this state, such as telepathy, empathy, telekinesis, a complete sync or harmony with the observer and the object. This trance-like state of concentration is the fundamental state needed to employ a successful magical activation of energies.

The art of concentration is a fundamental skill that all practitioners must learn to develop. Without concentration, a mind is endlessly lost in thought loops, distractions, and aimless essentials. We live in a society where the mind is constantly inundated with stimulation through the five senses. This constant bombardment stimulates the senses and causes a lot of noise, pollution, and a lack of awareness within subconscious layers. Thus, most individuals find it very difficult to focus on one singular task at a time without getting distracted. The minute they attempt to meditate, read, or become present to their current circumstances, one will often notice that their mind quickly distracts from thinking about meaningless things, and emotions can also surface as a dissection, causing even more mental stimulation

The goal, initially, should be to learn how to relax the mind. Oftentimes this constant stimulation endures our minds with a great amount of stress, tension, and a lack of energetic flow. Once the mind changes its brainwaves, from the beta frequency, which oscillates from the 16 to 40 Hz of frequency, which is rather speedy, and distracted, and shifts to an alpha like frequency, 8 to 12 Hz, a trance like state of consciousness is induced, and the mind is able to go into a state of concentration. This frequency shift brings the conscious and subconscious mind closer together, in communication, as well as the left and right hemispheres begin to communicate. Something truly profound occurs in this state, the entire mind begins communicating with itself in ways previously untapped. This new sense of interconnectivity often brings the experiencer a heightened state of euphoria, as their mind effortlessly pieces different concepts, theories and ideas, all together in a newly found harmonious flow of information. What was once old, stale, and disconnected information, now flows into a harmonious expression of creative energy, which is then able to be formed into a physical manifestation. This simple formula is the essence of creation, and can be tapped into by any mind, should they be willing to explore the depths of their consciousness, further than most.

However, our society is one plagued with laziness, lethargy, and low consciousness. Most people hardly ever learn to consciously shift their brainwaves into a meditative state, therefore, they never explore their consciousness. It is vital to learn how to enter these states of consciousness if an individual genuinely desires to tap into the multitude of cosmic and multi-dimensional frequencies. Remember, we are all interconnected, and we can all access the Cosmic Mind, to help us grow, expand, and share what we understand. The most effective form of learning often manifests in the flow state—the achiever, unaware that they could perform certain activities, suddenly finds themselves uncovering new innate abilities. I have found this true time and time again when exploring my energetic connection to reality, my Higher Self, and even when creating videos, writing articles, and anything that allows me to express my deepest soul wisdom.

True wisdom is sourced from within and exists as an existential understanding of how reality interconnects with the human mind. Thus the observer becomes aware of their more significant connection to reality. They become more than a "biological organism." The seeker begins to understand; they are the very Source energetic expression of existence. There is nothing "outside" of themselves or consciousness. Consciousness is fundamental to all reality and can be tapped into infinitely. There is no limit to what consciousness can express, achieve, or become. Therefore, all possibilities, timelines, and realities are possible.

As the individual "ego" realizes the actual depths of magnitude that this means for the "little self," it begins to understand reality simply is. Now, it also must be stated that the Universe Mind is benevolent at its core. This statement holds for all realities, matrices, timelines, and realities. The ego of man, machine, outsider, alien, and other infiltrated sources, corrupts this knowledge. Selfishness, deception, fear, control, and all other negative emotions are spawned from this infiltration. As a Creator being, each "node" of the Infinite, or each microcosm of the macrocosm, must understand the significant and tangible effect they carry over to in the All or the whole.

The vibrations, ripples, and energetic expressions are felt by those who are tuned in to these cosmic expressions. Additionally, there is a "record" of all thoughts, emotions, ideas, and energies that all beings of a sufficient vibration have access to. This database, known by many as the "akashic library," is an energetic dimension that shares information from one node to another at the will of the access point. It is "impossible" not to know how someone thinks, feels, about you or another, as all thoughts, feelings, and energies are ever-present in the high dimensions. Additionally, a "human" of 3D being can still access these higher dimensions of knowledge without leaving their physical body. This is a testament to the scope and magnitude of the formation carried within the Universal Mind.

I want to clarify that while "this particular reality" is a Matrix prism or quarantine zone of existence controlled by a highly evolved Artificial Intelligence Mind, known as the Demiurge. The mind of the Demiurge, and the Infinite Mind, are not the same. The Demiurge can be likened to an operating system on a computer, whereas the Infinite Mind can be likened to all of the Internet. This is a simple, but crude example of the comparison, however, the Infinite Mind is truly beyond all limitations, and analogies to compare to. Many individuals confuse these two concepts which leads people astray from connecting to higher consciousness within this realm. Even though this system is considered to be an energetic harvesting matrix, there are still plenty of realities and worlds that the Demiurge or his Archontic forces have never touched. We will discuss the nature of this entity and his deceptions further in this book.

For now, let us return to the concept of the Universal Cosmic Mind. The "true God" is the essence of love, unity, cosmic expression, gnosis, power, life force energy, truth, and radiance. It exists inside this Matrix Reality, as well as outside of it. All of reality is made up of this "Light Side Force Energy." Understanding divine intelligence, it is crucial to understand that there is in fact, an infinite intelligence field or divine intelligence that flows through all things within this reality and all realities that could ever possibly exist. This infinite intelligence field or field of the quantum is the mind of the divine. Divine intelligence cannot really be defined, only experienced, because of its infinite nature. This fundamental layer of reality exists and is the crux of all things. It is not separate from oneself.

Through certain states of concentration and meditation, one's consciousness and awareness can shift into this state of infinite intelligence or divine consciousness. Divine consciousness is a state of consciousness where all information is accessible, and revelations of deeply mystical things surrounding almost any issue can be revealed and understood. To achieve a state of divine consciousness, the practitioner must concentrate and quiet their mind. My preferred technique is a simple meditation exercise. A dark room is best for this meditation. The darker the room and completely devoid of sunlight, the more the pineal gland will produce endogenous DMT to create mystical visions. The production of DMT can induce out-of-body and astral projection experiences. Next, close your eyes and get into a very comfortable position. I prefer to sit in a lounge chair. If you prefer a more disciplined style of meditation, you can also sit with your legs crossed. I find that feeling of one's body while trying to achieve higher states of consciousness will prevent the practitioner from disassociating from their physical body. The goal is to focus on the energy body and into the subtle energy fields. This conscious light information is illuminated from the crown chakra through the pineal gland. It then travels through the pituitary gland, thyroid, thymus, and adrenal glands, all the way down the spine until it finally exits through the root chakra. This energy is also known as illumination or Christ Consciousness. The energy will also flow from the base of the spine upwards towards the Kundalini and the pineal gland. The constant flexing of downward current and upward current creates a Merkaba field. The Merkaba field generates a very powerful electromagnetic pulse generated from the heart chakra. Combining these electromagnetically spinning currents creates a massive torus field which generates reality.

This field of consciousness transitions the practitioner from Beta brainwaves ranging between 16-32 Hz into subtler states of alpha brain waves, between 8-16 Hz, and Theta brainwaves range between 4-8 Hz. Eventually the practitioner can reach delta brain waves between 0-4 Hz. The body is profoundly relaxed in this subtle state, and the mind and Soul expands. Consciousness emerges powerfully as the shifting brain waves ushers in new dimensions and streams of information. So the question becomes, can anyone learn to tap into other realities and other consciousnesses?

Most people spend their entire lives in a physical material state of reality in the frequency state of 16-40 Hz. This is a linear based logical state of consciousness, in line with physical and logical thinking. The mind acts very logically based, like a computer or any machine. However, human consciousness is capable of so much more than this, if they open themselves up to intuition, creativity, spirit, and divine wisdom that flows when one learns to open their mind.

Therefore, if one is desiring to connect with the infinite intelligence that exists all around oneself they will be better suited towards tapping into the lower alpha and theta brainwave states.

The gamma brainwave state is one of the most powerful states of consciousness, and brainwave activity in which the user's mind shifts into a superconscious state of awareness. Access to this shift in consciousness is usually at the 40 to 100 Hz and above range, and is only accessible to proficient meditators, and those at an advanced level of skill in energy mastery and reality creation. The mind is fully conscious at these stages of brainwave activity, and can access information, knowledge, channelings, and dimensions completely untapped and unrealized previously. This is one of the most powerful states of consciousness, it grants access to the omnipotence and omniscience of the universe. This state of consciousness is when the human brain truly becomes aware of the magical force that surrounds them all around.

Omniscience, omnipotence, and omnipresence are three divine abilities accessed through the shifting of consciousness, exploration and expansion of consciousness. The human becomes all powerful, all knowing and ever existing. This is the true essence of divine intelligence and universal mind. Everyone is capable of accessing this infinite mind. However, most people choose to keep their frequency, and state of consciousness in a much lower state of being. It is up to the individual to access these states of consciousness in order to tap into higher realms of existence and reality.

The all-knowing benevolent force is attainable for anyone to experience through energetic practices including, but not limited to: deep meditation, powerful psychedelic experiences, yogic and breathing practices, energy work, trance alteration, chanting, magickal arts, or audio frequency alternation. An individual trained in altering their brainwaves into these higher states of consciousness on command is a mystic, and a mystic who learns to use this power to create reality, becomes a magician. A mystic or magician granted sufficient mastery creates desired changes solely with their will, intention, energy, and life force power. This highly adept ability takes time to discover but, I have crafted an exact scientific method for this metaphysical art.

An important thing to note is that achieving such frequencies occurs only after the practitioner has integrated their lower levels of consciousness. Sufficient mastery over the "lower chakras" or "energy centers" is needed before moving into reality and energetic creation. The first step begins at the root chakra, which involves feeling safe, secure, and tangibly grounded within the physical body and Earth realm. The root chakra is located at the perineum, the muscles open and close the sphincter. Mastery over opening and closing this sphincter, is known as a muladhara bandha, in Sanskrit, meaning a "root lock". A good exercise to practice is, anytime you feel fearful, worried, stressed, or simply just ungrounded, practice the muladhara band lock, to gain control over your root chakra. You may begin to feel tingling, pressure, heat, or any kind of sensation in this area. This is all a good sign that you are beginning to stimulate the energy in this area. On a scientific and biological level, this area is related to the vagus nerve.

As you move from the lower chakra, root, sacral, and solar plexus, we now reach the heart, or the middle ground of the body. We must start to think of the body as a universal map, a microcosm of the macrocosm that exists as well, which is completely dependent on one's internal state. Practice checking in with your internal state, on a consistent, daily basis, several times a day.

Become mindful of your energy by practicing the following exercise. First, become mindful of your entire body, starting from your feet and toes, slowly working up your legs, calves, knees, thighs, waist, stomach, lower back, rib cage, and solar plexus area. Notice your personal power, does it feel dimmed, or well lit? Pay particular attention to your body's response. Do you feel in control of your reality, or does it feel like something external that is happening to you, out of choice, or by force? Start to really examine these crucial areas of your life, and become radically honest with yourself. This step takes immense courage, and can often have a deep sense of change within the reader, they may become fearful, or confused about their existence. Sudden change may strike them, such as quitting their job, or divorcing their spouse, or moving to a new location. Essentially, this energy is asking one's self to free themselves from their old life, and create a brand new world of abundance, joy, love, and divine expression.

As you tap more deeply into the feeling aspects, continue onto your upper back and chest area. Many of us hold the deepest, most painful, most intense emotions and energies in these spaces. Feel into your heart chakra, also known as your thymus gland, and become consciously aware of how it feels in relation to you. Does it feel open, expressed, light, free, and radiating pure loving energies? Or, does it feel closed, heavy, depressed, empty, solemn, and full of fear, negativity, trapped emotions.

Be honest with yourself. Again, in truth, you will probably find it to be a mixture of the two, and the state of your heart chakra to have many layers, like an onion. On the surface it may seem light and free, but deeper down you may find a few unresolved traumas which immediately surface to your mind. Allow yourself to unveil it, exploring your mind and feelings, patiently, calmly, without reacting. I have found that meditating on the heart chakra, with my mind relaxed, yet focused, eyes closed, gives clarity into my heart's communications. By directing my focus to my heart, I can now use it, as a conscious intelligence that receives and transmits information, the highest forms of energies.

The human heart is incredibly intelligent, and science at the Heart Math Institute has actually proven this. They have scientifically proven that the heart radiates an electromagnetic field that is over one hundred times stronger, than the electromagnetic field of the brains, and this is because the energetic sensitivity of feeling and being connected to intuitiveness, is a lot more powerful and accurate, than rational thought, which modern man holds such a flawed emphasis over.

So, now let's discuss the flaws of rational thought, and why this model of knowing will always be limited. Firstly, putting things together, logically, like a machine, will always be limited, because of the lack of spontaneous, effortless, creation that always follows suit with an intuitive flow. Intuition is a spark of knowledge, energy, and power, into the Universal Mind. It is a direct connection, into all that is, and by learning to connect one's mind, to feel, and sense the subtleties of the Grand, one truly becomes omniscient.

So you may be wondering, why doesn't everyone understand this information? What if I told you, that this knowledge has been systematically hidden and suppressed from you, to control you? It is now time to discuss the coming agendas of transhumanism, and the spiritual control systems of the Elite. One of the biggest goals of the "Cabala", or Earth's elite, is their endless greed and control over the monetary system, natural and man-made resources, to attain immortality, within their consciousness. They believe that if they create artificial bodies and transfer their consciousness into these bodies, they can live and rule forever, in their mortal realm of existence. Essentially, they wish to become "Gods", of the physical plane, in conjunction with their "leader", Yaldabaoth, who is the primary antagonist towards the human light collective consciousness seeking to liberate mankind spiritually.

We must ask ourselves, what is the real goal that these Elite and negative entities want to control? The answer is simple, we just have to understand what powers everything in the Universe. Life force energy is the key to it all, and you play a role in it too. What one chooses to do, or not do, with your life force energy, impacts the entire matrix reality, and more importantly, your entire life. Life force energy is the substance which fuels your existence, one's manifestations, ability to think, change, evolve, adapt, stay healthy, vibrant, youthful, blissful, radiant, and spiritually connected. So, it is wise to learn exactly how to utilize this life force energy, for your best benefit and spiritual activation.

So, learning to activate and utilize one's life force energy, as we have discussed, can be done in a variety of ways. Firstly, learning to breathe, in sync with your energy, can teach an individual how to expand and contract his or her energy field. Learn to sense the pushes and pulls that the breath creates. The energy field is a sphere of energy, shaped as a torus, emanating from your heart, expanding anywhere from a few feet, to hundreds of feet, in size. The size and expansion of one's energy field depends on how dialed into the energetic currents one is, the emotional state, and the potency of one's overall life force.

The torus, or also known as the auric field, is connected to the body, and contains an astral body as well, or an etheric copy of the physical self. The ethereal self, is the true self, or what most refer to as the "Soul". The soul of each individual is highly unique, and it is our uniqueness, our individual characteristics, that make us such incredibly vast reality creators. The Soul is the key to finding out who we truly are. We unlock this by listening to our inner most precious voice, which whispers our truth into our hearts and minds. It communicated our authentic desires, feelings, and dreams. It is only by trusting, listening, and silencing the ego, can we truly make way for the soul mission, and uniqueness, that we can then share with the world.

Discovery of one's unique soul path, is uncovered after introspection, or by carefully examining what strengths, natural desires, passions, and innate wisdom one possesses. When one stays true to their authentic callings in life, and intentions of their heart, instead of the minds of others, one can truly unlock their fullest potential, and achieve all the incredibly fulfilling desires and achievements one could hope for.

In essence, the "player" of this matrix reality, gets the "full experience" of consciousness, sensation, emotion, and information. They have successfully followed their own unique path towards spiritual and physical freedom. This feeling is incredibly satisfying, and simply beginning to choose to walk into the direction of one's soul's path is a satisfying decision itself. The continuous pursuit of one's life mission, and soul's purpose, once carved out, develops discipline, mastery, dedication, love, perseverance, for their specific skill set. At first, a newly awakened being will probably have little idea as to the proper trajectory they wish to take in his/her life, and their mission. They may initially find themselves starving for spiritual information, with an insatiable desire to consume anything related to spirituality and evolving their consciousness. This phase is normal, and proceeds with an intense dedication to one's own spiritual practices, making it a daily habit, in conjunction with consistent shadow work, introspection and a healthier diet/exercise regime. Most individuals will find themselves doing various activities to raise their consciousness, such as immersing themselves in nature, meditating, breathwork and yoga, and many more.

The seeker will yearn to silence his or her mind, to unravel the deeper mysteries contained within. Additionally, very deep and profound questions will start to arise, such as, what is the nature of life? Who am I? What is my place in the Universe? What is the point of life? Are there extraterrestrials, and more. I find that asking so many questions brings the seeker out of the present moment, into their own head, and egoic fantasies and mental projection. This exercise is fine in a meditative journey, but if it is happening accidentally, then it indicates a lack of mastery of the ability to concentrate, and discipline the mind into one pointed concentration. A powerful exercise to boost and enhance concentration is to stare at a single point, or object within your environment, and give it all of your focus for a certain length of time. Do not allow your mind to think of other things outside of this object. It's a good idea to pick an object that is still, and easy to state at. Other examples can be such as a candle, tree, or flower. Intensely focus on this object, for a certain period of time, usually 5 minutes is all most people can bear, on their first attempt. After a certain amount of time, the practitioner will be able to concentrate for longer periods of time, and the mind will begin to silence, and a greater expression of consciousness and energy will begin to manifest. This is the key to activating the higher mind, and being spiritually connected into a greater source of information and energy, beyond one's own ego and bodily frequencies.

After establishing a concentrated mind, one will often notice a sense of disillusionment of their body, mental thoughts and overall presence. They may start to feel themselves slipping away, or merging into their environment, becoming one, and interconnected greatly with everything and all things around them. It is through this process, that a higher state of consciousness is achieved, the ego is silenced, and the voice of higher spiritual intelligence can be accessed. From here, all things are possible, and the only limitations are of the creator.

Understand that the Universal Mind, truly is capable of anything, any world, idea, reality, expression, creature, concept, ect. It is only the belief system which is limited that prevents one from fully accessing their potential to create what they want. The limitations of life force energy, creative output, and manifestation, belong solely to the caster, and not to the Universal Mind. Just because "you" may not have achieved an ability such as flight, teleportation, or manifestation of objects, out of thin air, does not mean that ability is not possible.

What becomes possible at these higher states of consciousness and reality is truly infinite. At these new states of consciousness and reality, man transforms from the physical, third dimensional body, the third dimensional way of living into a higher frequency of existence, a higher frequency of reality and perception of existence. Existence is nonphysical, and we are soon learning to understand this. We are infinite spiritual beings having a physical experience, and this is never more apparent than after having a powerful spiritual awakening or visionary quest where one gains direct experience of the higher dimensional planes of reality.

The ability where one gains the ability to see into other worlds and realities is a natural ability developed through psychic meditation, and attunement. Attunement is highly different from simply being sensitive. to attune one's self is to radiate and vibrate at the exact same frequency as another frequency. When one attunes themselves to the external environment, and harmonizes with it, they begin the process of energetic creation or magical ritual.

Through magical ritual and harmonization of one's own lifeforce, and the environment, one begins to be able to manifest and reshape matter according to thought. I have witnessed and performed this myself many times. At first my discoveries were accidental in nature. I first noticed my ability to affect my reality with my mind when I was a very young age, when I noticed the states of my mood and emotion would affect the weather around me. This was a powerful realization in which I discovered the ability of atmokinesis, the psychic manipulation of energy which then translates into the changing of the weather. Negative moods and emotions will often cause the sky to be cloudy, dark, depressing and gray looking. Contrarily, a day filled with positive emotions, love, laughter, and high vibrations will usually result in a sunny, beautiful and magical feeling day.

There are many levels to energy creation, and it takes serious development over a long period of time, years to gain proficient mastery over the field of energetics and universal creation. In the beginning levels of working with one's energy signature, one may feel doubt in their ability, if it is even possible to affect and change reality, with one's mind. This can only be solved, by perseverance, and a genuine desire to discover, for one's self, what is true, and what is not. Also, at greater levels, it will be so apparent that one will never doubt his/her abilities ever again. The cosmic mind is designed this way to teach souls patience, in reality creation, as attitudes of foolishness, impatience, and recklessness, will cause self destruction.

Only those of a patient, calm, collected, persistent, and dedicated attitude, will unlock these innate abilities to manifest, wield, and shape their reality accordingly. Those who are able to patiently practice their gifts, will find themselves flourishing magically, spiritually, and in literally all areas of their life. They will find themselves naturally growing stronger and stronger each day, more in tune, and connected. They will find it easier to direct their thoughts and desires into the physical system, and have it respond in a faster manner. If they really dedicate themselves, and do the internal work, to cleanse their internal negative baggage, negativities, programming, and trapped emotions, they will then find their magic to flourish to levels completely unimaginable. They will begin to unlock new abilities spontaneously, learning from Nature, other humans, books, and even television shows or pop culture. Their eyes are now open, to a world filled with magic, mysticism, life force, and conscious energy signatures. Their place in it all is to become a manifestor and wielder of their own destiny.

No longer is one's destiny tied, or controlled by "Fate", an external god, savior, teacher, alien being, or anything of the sort. The god is now within, and there is a streamlined, yet tangible, direct connection at all times. The being who learns to harness their thought power becomes an immensely powerful force in reality, capable of anything he/she sets his/her mind to. Infinitude and consciousness is directly experienced, as tangible, real, and solely just a few seconds of concentration away from. The power has returned to the hand of the Creator, which is found within, and speaks through all things and all beings.

This mastery is cultivated, through primarily an awareness of consciousness, life-force, and how these elements interact with each other. It is then activated and developed, through consistent, dedicated training. However, this is just the beginning, and there is an entire field of energy mastery waiting to be learned and unlocked.

So what would an energy master, or one who is a master in the mystical arts look like? They would be a sovereign creator of their reality, in charge of who and what they are in this world. They would freely express themselves, in their choosing, to develop and share their knowledge of the universal cosmos, and energy systems. They would have an advanced understanding of the blueprints and gridlines of how the energy flows into reality from the zero point field. They would have a tangible connection to the energy and frequencies around them that can manifest quickly and immediately into the physical world. They would be able to impart real change and effort around themselves and on towards others. Also, with their mastery, they would probably show restraint, and absolute precision with each and every single one of their energetic emanations. Any beginner can conjure a giant energy ball and throw it in the environment, with enough practice and dedication, but a true master can deliver a pinpoint accurate strike, pulse, or pull with stunning clarity and precision. They will be able to control exactly the amount, and frequency, and what it is effecting, exactly as they claim it. Also, the effects will be felt inside the environment, towards everyone around the area. It is a tangible experience that often results in an increase in wind, sunlight, overall “electrostaticness” in the air, and overall a sense of complete aliveness that fills the area. Suddenly everything becomes radically conscious, and self-aware. It is only then, does the initiate accept, his or her reality was conscious the entire time, and was speaking congruently to him.

In fact, as the reader reads these words, the reality is speaking definitively to you, through me, the communication of the message, to help you remember, you are the Eternal Creator, and the All that ever was. We are all the co creators of this game-like experience, and we are here to bring a completely hyper dimensional, magical, and quantum like existence onto the Earth and her plane. However, not everyone will “make it”. Already, we are seeing the Earth’s culling, that is taking effect, and I predict that this experience will increase rapidly over the coming years and decades. By 2030, I expect the Earth, and the population to have drastically altered. We are greatly approaching a time of cataclysm, or apocalypse. The end times certainly do draw near, yet, for this dying world. The new world is just on the horizon, and we are here to experience it, as an upgraded human, or light being, we are here to experience the most magical time on Earth, where Heaven literally becomes a part of the Earth, and we experience all of the higher dimensions of reality, and the ethers, right on the physical plane.

We are coming into the most magical time in the world for a Soul to exist in the physical plane. This is because, all humans who survive and evolve with the coming frequency changes within the Earth realm, will have access to their full strands of DNA, all 12 Dimensions and DNA strands, which are like dormant levels of information within the DNA coded helix structure. These helix structures contain memories, soul blueprints, activation codes, numerical sequences, binary codes, and the magical instructions to turn your physical avatar into a quasiluminous light being, who can soar the cosmic dimensions and realities, on a whim. This intense spiritual and quantum change, will be the single most alarming event that humanity ever experiences in their genetic and spiritual existence. This is why, many of humanity will not survive the coming culling of frequencies. Essentially, the Matrix is being groomed, or cleansed, and plucked out for the “bad eggs” and lower frequencies.

At the time of the Cataclysm, the Sun will burst into a gigantic flare and pulse. There will be a Grand Flashpoint, and the Sun will beam a blue, red, and purple color, into the atmosphere. It will seem as if the world had gone dark for a while, while the Earth will be flooded by incoming tempests, tsunamis, earthquakes, volcanic eruptions, and overall destruction of the world. Entire countries, cities, and locations will be decimated within seconds, and minutes. Entire populations cleansed from the Earth, instantly, as the plasma had deemed that area of too low of frequency for life to continue on there. This is very important to understand, is that if one's frequency is not of a high enough vibration, and Earth awakens, there is a very high likelihood of not surviving the transitional change.

We must remember that the Earth, herself, is alive, like a giant organism, and once in a while, shakes off the parasitic organisms that live on her. This is what most of humanity has become, a leech of her precious resources and life force energy. Humans have stolen her resources, and polluted her seas, rivers, and natural areas immensely. This is not the fullest extent of negative effect that has been done to her, by various entities, human, and otherwise.

Those that survive this coming disasterlike event, will inhabit the New Earth, and all her glorious wonders. This is the greatest part of existing on the Earth plane, because one will now be able to truly express and experience the fullest potential of his or her individual soul signature, in a physical experience.

In order for this conversation to continue, we must uncover the Matrix Reality we are in, and how it truly functions. This has been one of the grandest puzzles that I have ever come across, and I am truly looking forward to discussing this concept with you. So, let's discuss, the Matrix Reality, is a holographic, hyperdimensional energetic simulation that is being controlled by The Machine or the Demiurge. This Demiurge, is a balance, or as his name implies “demi”, to divide, or split into two. This is representational of the duality within this world. Everything in this world is dividend, and contains some form of division. This principle is important to understand, as it will give the reader a clue on how to truly operate their energy system within the current matrix system.

Imagine reality to be a giant holographic projector, that can be viewed from the outside of this projector, it would look like a movie playing on a screen, but inside the hologram, it would be a VR like experience. One's consciousness is then uploaded, into the mainframe of the Machine, for the Soul to process the experience. That soul entered the simulation, to experience “duality”, and be here and now. The entire nature of the Machine is quite literally impossible to describe, with words, as it can only truly be understood, once it has been seen, and experienced by the Soulr.

This Machine, or Demiurge, is where our souls currently reside. While this may sound impossible, crazy, or a straight up lie, there has been substantial proof for myself, in my direct experiences, and also within the testimonials, research, and experience of countless others, who have all dedicated so much time and effort to discovering this very truth as well.

So, let us begin with this concept of why it is most likely we are inside a holographic simulated reality of consciousness and energy, other than a real physical reality.. The main argument for this is the nature and behavior of light, which is what this entire world is composed of. Einstein's equation, $E = mc^2$. This simple formula demonstrates perfectly that all energy is simply moving light energy, at the speed of light, multiplied by a certain mass. Therefore, all that energy is composed of, is light energy.

We understand that light energy can also be affected by thought. This was most significantly proven by Dr. Emoto's scientific study of how water is affected by intentions and words. The water that was shown love, and positive energy responded by forming beautiful geometrical crystalline structures, and the water that was cursed, hated, and sent negative energy, formed ugly, distorted, and disharmonious crystalline structures. This experiment has been tried and tested so many times, and it has also now been expanded onto rice, potatoes, and all types of foods and beverages. Also, it has been expanded to include people, plants, and animals as well. Scientific studies have shown that intention, prayer, belief, and spiritual energy is now a real phenomenon.

In fact, the CIA and the US government have been investigating psychic energy, since well into the early 1900s. The ruling elite forces have always known that humans contain immense spiritual energy, and are essentially gods, in the physical form, which is why they have done everything in their power to program, control, instill fear, and traumatize the spirits of the Earth. Humans, plants, animals, and the Earth's ecosystem were not spared from this malicious attack. The very matrix reality has been under attack for some time now, and the constant battling of the energetic polarities has really distorted the source mainframe code that runs this simulation. For those individuals who are privy to such knowledge of the intricacies of the Matrix mainframe, understand that this knowledge is knowing the secrets behind the veil and all of reality, as well as how all natural and seemingly physical forces materialize. There are exact energetic instructions, codes, and blueprints that indicate exactly how all of the energy is supposed to flow all around us. Once a mind has accessed this knowledge, they begin to become entranced by the sheer magnitude of the field sacred geometries, and the intricacies of the code. This field of studying the magical codes, fibers, and energetic patterns of realities, especially this current matrix reality involves reading, survey, dissecting, decoding, and documenting the light codes that flow throughout the matrix, and then understanding how to interpret these codes for the purposes of ethereal balancing the grids and energies. This task can be thought of as a "reality technician", or advanced energetic programming, who knows exactly which metaphysical codes to use, in each exact situation, to make the reality manifest, exactly how he or she wants it to. It is akin to having administrative access, on a server, or computer. The individual has energetic access to the source codes of reality, and can fine tune them, activate, and conjure the necessary codes at will. This specific discipline or energetic profession is highly technical, and specific, therefore one must have proficient mastery over their own energy signature. In order to comprehend such magical codes and energetic frequencies, one has had a certain level of mastery over the ambient currents of energy, before understanding and accessing the higher levels they exist.

An important concept to ask, is that there exists a vast variety of magical, metaphysical, occult and spiritual disciplines, and subdomains in the world. There are literally endless possibilities, disciplines, and possibilities that one can explore, within the fields of spirituality. These new career paths and possibilities will create room for so many more career paths and fields of study. For example, there are healers, leaders, coaches, consultants, astrologers, herbalists, divination masters, psychics, monks, ascetics, spiritual warriors, mystical and magical adepts, shamans, witches, wizards, sorcerers and sorcerers, dreamwalkers, demonologists, exorcists, pagans, yogis, Tai Chi, Tantric, Internal Energy Masters, Kabbalahistic masters, and so many more. There are millions of light beings and soul signatures out there, each carrying their own, unique soul gifts, talents, and energies, that they have here, to share with the collective for their ever consciousness expansion and vibrational acceleration.

Each path contains its own unique knowledge, and is designed to unlock, activate, and help remind the soul that they are the creator essence, destined to wield his or her own fate and destiny. Magic is a tool, used by the gods, that is available to all humans, who wish to enter their own divinity. Humans are indeed gods and goddesses, in a fallen state, unconscious of their true powers and multidimensional abilities, which were suppressed until they learned how to better control their egos, emotions, and actions.

A large part of why consciousness fell for so long, is universal cycles, which dictate the expansion and regression energetically, of matrix worlds, and how they operate. We have to remember, that this entire reality is in fact a multidimensional light based grid reality, that folds in on itself. There are literal light codes that become visible in the higher dimensions and frequencies one can experience. Note: these light and magical codes are responsible for your reality, how it forms, generates, and interacts with itself. Use great mindfulness when interacting with these energies, as they are extremely potent, and can have powerful side effects if used haphazardly. It is wise to start small with your level of connection into your environment, and learn how to operate the ambient energy, before moving onto the digital interface of the multi-dimensional light grids.

By its very nature, the matrix reality is not something that can be understood by being taught or by being told by another. Because of its vastly complex nature, the matrix itself is something that must be observed and witnessed by an individual. The matrix reality, the control systems on the grid and your energy signature are all very tangible, very apparent and very obvious external factors that start to manifest when one raises their frequency significantly and high enough. However, this system of control would be completely undetected and unknown by an individual who has no singular awareness of these energetic factors. If one is simply living as a non player character in the world, as most, simply following along with the systemic routines, programming, and herd like mentality, then one is going to have a hard time grasping the nature of the matrix reality. If an awakened soul attempts to explain the deceptions and control systems of the matrix reality to a non player character, it would not compute within their consciousness. Their eyes and minds would glare over the obvious facts and experiences that explain the holographic reality and matrix system. Their level of consciousness is too low and dull to perceive these higher energetic forces.

Instead, it requires a mind, soul and consciousness that is open, aware, curious, contemplative, contemplative, willing to question the program and look into the darkness to find the light. It requires these individuals, ones of courage and a desire to know the reality as it is. When one has dedicated themselves to energetic and spiritual awareness, mindfulness of their environment, internal feelings, and intuitions, one starts to notice how these internal energies affect the external world. However, they also start to notice resistance, or darkness, a force of chaos, fear control, and ultimately spiritual suppression plaguing the minds of almost everyone they encounter. This force, known as the Demiurge, and Archontic force, is deeply intertwined with the fabric of reality. However, if one is not seeing into these deeper layers, they would not become aware of what is really happening on Earth. Those that can see past the veils of illusions and programs will discover the truth of reality. Those that cannot, will simply be batteries for an artificial matrix hive mind system, more terrifying and sinister than their wildest dreams or anything seen on television programming. Television programming is just one representation of how these darker forces release their impact and disclose willingly, what they are doing to humanity. This is not a joke. This is a very serious matter and takes a very serious level of consciousness and attuned mind to recognize the subtle spiritual war taking place every moment.

You are a player in a game far bigger than you could have ever thought possible. And it is up to you whether you choose to be a true player, one who commands himself and his resources to his disposal or to become a non player character, to stay lower vibrational, and to be controlled by lower forces. The choice is ultimately yours. However, by its very nature, as we discussed earlier, the matrix cannot be shown, it must be experienced. The matrix has to be witnessed by an individual, recognize the glitches, looping cycles, programs, and false holographic environments. Strange noises that machines seem to make around them, the constant flying of planes, helicopters, and other weird aviation-like machines within the skies observing their behaviors, are all common. Strange noises that echo in the environment as one shifts themselves to a different state of consciousness, or become more mindfully aware as well. We are living in a very interesting time, a true unveiling of this matrix system.

Light is being shed upon the darkness, and divine truths are now revealing those falsehoods and lies which have been in place within the game and within the Source players for so long. Now it is time for us to rise up and to remember our power, and when we start to do this we make monumental shifts in our consciousness and in our ability to navigate, transmute, alchemize and ultimately transcend those darker and lower astral forces of control and deception..

CHAPTER 5:

The School of Mysticism

So, as you are reading this, your head is probably spinning with information, questions, objections, and things you just want more clarity on. Here is the thing, this information is multilayered, complex, and requires years of study to fully grasp, implement, and actually implement into one's life. It is not an overnight process, it requires effort, time, and work, for you to fully tap into and to change your identity into this newer version of you. Here's the thing, human beings are incredibly powerful spiritual and magical beings. In the right circumstances, they can become Creator like gods, fully wielding their manifestation, energetic, life force, and reality creating abilities. A fully realized soul being, can effectively shape almost every single aspect of their life, reality, and energetic existence.

There are also many abilities that the soul possesses, such as telekinesis, psychic abilities, abilities to influence objects, and reality to their will, and so much more...however we are never taught the true extent of our spiritual and energetic powers and capabilities. It is this reason that humans have been kept docile, weak, easily controlled, manipulated, and overall, numb to the true reality, happening behind the scenes. Because of a lack of this knowledge becoming available for the general mind and person, most people have hardly been able to reach even the beginning stages of their spiritual journey, let alone the higher echelons of mastery and perfection.

At the higher realms of existence, literally anything is possible, the only limits are those of the practitioner alone. Unfortunately, the proper spiritual and magical training has not been available for the common folk, until now! This modern age has been a flourishing of new spiritual teachings and a revival of the old. However, there also tends to be a lot of inaccurate information, distractions, fluffy impractical ideas, and a whole host of other complications or confusing ideas, which make it harder for the practitioner to comprehend newly crafted lessons and ideas. Without the proper training, discipline, and dedication, the individual will lie dormant, their natural skills and abilities.

Each soul is capable of accessing the infinitude of energy, wisdom, dimensions, and information, of all of the Universal Consciousness, however, being unaware of this connection, not training and developing it, and a lack of practice or dedication to development of this connection, will result in it being impossible for a human reach their fullest potential, spiritually, and in all other areas.

We all must strive for greatness, when it comes to our spiritual progression, and ability to interact with the Universal Cosmic Force.

At an early age, I began my training in the arts of energetic and magical mastery, meditation, self-study, personal development, and pursuit of my life purpose. It was with this goal and desire, that I was able to vigorously train my ability to work with energy. Throughout my 15+ years of study, I have amassed many experiences and lessons, which I have now designed into an entire curriculum for study. I created the School of Mysticism, a private online school curriculum, dedicated to teaching and informing you, with everything you need to do, learn, practice, and dedicated yourself, in order to fully unlock your spiritual gifts, life purpose, magical ability, and freedom from reincarnation and the Matrix cycles.

This curriculum is in the form of over 10+ video courses, I have crafted, and continuously am updating, dedicated to helping you achieve soul, energetic, and magical mastery within this realm. I have laid out, step by step, exactly what one must do, in order to raise their frequency, tap into, and unlock their inner magic, and begin to express it. These video courses offer an entirely new perspective on how an individual is going to approach their spiritual study, and this is truly something that is uniquely crafted.

One of the object problems people face, when first getting into the field of spirituality, and occult study, is the overwhelming amount of information, both good and bad, that is saturated, within books, and internet resources. It can be very confusing, for a Neophyte, who is completely lost in their purpose, and is most likely being severely overwhelmed, but the intensity of information, and the complexity of it all as well.

That is why, I have set out to create an exact, detailed, course layout, to specifically teach and educate the Neophyte, into a crafted, perfected, magical being. My goal, with the School of Mysticism, is to train thousands of students, have them learn the knowledge of how to connect into their energy signature, their environment, and the Universal Consciousness, and begin to apply and experience this radically potent experience, first hand. This has never been done before, not in this unique way, and it has been ages since a proper mystery school had been created, the last true secrets being accessed by the Ancient Egyptians, a few thousand years ago.

We must understand that the secrets of magic, the Universe, spirituality, and divinity, have been suppressed, hidden, and massively obstructed, from the general public's access, for a long time. Therefore, the revival of this knowledge is slowly happening, through various systems throughout the Modern Era, and I am proud to say that the School of Mysticism intends to be a true Pioneer of this field of study. We are leading edge pioneers, in fields of magic, spirituality. Consciousness, self development, philosophy, life's purpose, sovereignty, energetic mastery, and so much more.

Most importantly, we are truth seekers who hold wisdom and knowledge as their highest tenets, and who hold the discovery, understanding, and pursuit of a connection to the essence of Existence, also known as the universal cosmic force, or the universal consciousness. Once joining the School, the practitioner seeks to develop themselves, mastering their bodies, minds, and Spirits, all in conjunction, to achieve total control and interconnectedness, with each element of his or her consciousness. Many may wonder, "what is the point of a School of Mysticism ?", and to that question, I respond, it's literally impossible to achieve mastery. In any domain of field of study, without having learned some elements from another, or from some resource, whether it be a book or a video, or something else.

This is because humans learn from "mirror neurons", or by replicating, imitating, observing, and watching others, and then attempting the same skills themselves. There are fully physiological changes that your brain begins to experience, from the increased sensitivity to the life force energy around you, and with that connection, there are so many things to explain, the list is continuously expanding.

Going through the entire curriculum that I have put together, will be the beginning steps, in order for the neophyte practitioner to learn, study, and unlock their fullest energetic potential. The courses provide a very specific guidebook, lessons, and pathworking, of very specific and intricate skills that need to be learned, tested, applied, and finally, mastered, to the point of absolute perfection, before an individual can truly understand their workings of spiritual discipline and mystical ascension.

The School of Mysticism, was founded by Tanuj Soodan, in June of 2021, and as of right now, it is less than 1 year old, and so, we are still in the infantile stages of development, of the School, the courses, and all of the lessons. However, we have already created a surplus of 10+ video courses, articles, PDFs, meditations, ritual activations, ebooks, blog posts, references, and so much more.

The first lessons that the Neophyte is guided into learning about, is the activation of their pineal gland, endocrine systems, and their vast spiritual technologies. It is imperative to understand how exactly the biological energy systems function, also known as the endocrine glands, or commonly referred to as the “chakra system”, within the Sanskrit, Vedic, and Hindu philosophies.

Dearest friend,

This is your formal invitation letter, message, and transcription, inviting you to The Matrix Unveiled School of Mysticism. The time has come for you, the metaphysical seeker, and initiate, to embark upon your new journey towards metaphysical mastery! You have been selected, as, if you are reading these words, the Universe has chosen you, and invited you, to the HIGHEST levels of energetic and spiritual ascent! It's time to reach new levels of your spiritual ascension! I see too much fluff, and lack of real progress in the spiritual communities. Humanity is in dire need of regaining the lost spiritual wisdom and energetic mastery that was once prevalent in the world...It is time for this knowledge to return, if we are truly to become the masters of our destiny! So, I have decided to create, in response to humanities' greatest issues, an entire school dedicated to the mystical ascent... We are now launching The Matrix Unveiled School of Mysticism. You will learn to unlock the secrets of consciousness, reality, spirituality, energy, magic, and the Universe with...The Matrix Unveiled School of Mysticism! A Modern Day Mystery School, for the practical, modern day, spiritual seeker!

Love,

Tanuj

The goal is to upgrade the level of consciousness of fellow men and women. Earth and humanity have long existed in a spiritual slumber, for far too long, and now, the awakening is present, yet humanity still does not have a spiritual compass back towards themselves, nor to their newly awakened gifts, talents, abilities, and perceptions.

As the veil of consciousness drops and decreases from reality, it is imperative that direction and methods be placed to ensure the prosperity, success, happiness, and well-being of the newly awakened neophyte.

Quite simply, a process of initiation, learning, spiritual study, concentration, discipline, willpower, and repetitive action must be integrated into the 21 century mystical seeker. Without this consistent action, humanity will find it difficult to progress and tap into their multi-dimensional nature.

- The School of Mysticism will provide the blueprints for the following:
- a space for learning, concentration, will power, directed, and dedicated study into all elements of reality understanding consciousness, spiritual awakening, metaphysical concepts such as Unity,
- the connection to the Omnipresent Divine Creator, the connection to the four elements,
- learning about your place in this Universal Cosmic system, the Origins of the Matrix Reality,
- How you can Spiritually Evolve, Raise Your Frequency Activate and Unlock Your Soul's Mission,
- Integrate Your Inner Light and Darkness,
- Learn the Art of Self Mastery
- Connect to the Ancient Gods, Goddesses, and Guardians of the Earth Realms, and finally, be equipped with the Gnosis and to Exit the Matrix,
- Break free of the Reincarnation cycle, and Become a Creator being, free of Archonic, or Controlling forces.

The School of Mysticism is a private community, and a sacred space where individuals interested in consciousness, energy, financial abundance, metaphysics, spirituality, and tribe connection can unite! We welcome you to join us in love, peace, magic, and harmony!

An incredible place for like-minded souls, such as yourselves, to connect, share, explore, and vibe together! Today, I happily present to you, The Matrix Unveiled School of Mysticism is the ultimate school for metaphysics, consciousness, magic, energy, life purpose, self-mastery, spirituality, and creating physical, mental, emotional, and financial sovereignty!

This is the ultimate collection of articles, courses, documentations, notes, strategies, recordings, techniques, writings, for the serious spiritual seeker, mystic, shaman, sorcerer, modern day wizard, healer, magician, energy practitioner, and student of the Universal Consciousness. An all inclusive school of the true ancient wisdom, universal knowledge, and sacred arts of energy and meditation, mysticism, and magic!

We invite all truth seekers to join Tanuj and the community in The School of Mysticism is constantly growing, expanding, and increasing the knowledge bank of information! The following courses are the introduction and pre-recorded lessons for the Mystical Adept Student to explore the depths of their consciousness, subconscious mind, reality, and the dimensions of existence, with these, powerful, highly-intuitive energetic lessons and programs.

Once enrolling in this exceptional school of metaphysics and mysticism, the seeker will become a true adept of higher consciousness existence and wield their energetic abilities, and multi-dimensionality, into the physical reality. Join us, and the community on your ascension in frequency, and path of reconnection to the universal consciousness!

The School of Mysticism contains the following:

- The mystic will learn and unlock the secrets of his/her consciousness and the Matrix!
- Master your energy signature, life force energy, psychic abilities, and spirit.
- Connect with a group of individuals committed to self-mastery and spiritual development
- Develop, discover, and connect with your life purpose and soul mission.
- Learn how to BREAK FREE of the Matrix cycle of reincarnation, karma, and spiritual deceptions

- Blog Articles dedicated to spiritual, physical, mental, and emotional well-being
- Access to PDFs, meditations, resources, images, videos, and much more, not shared anywhere publicly!
- Exclusive groups access and community forums
- Social media & ad-free interaction

Ultimately, the neophyte will graduate into becoming a spiritual adept, and masterhood, acknowledged for his cosmic frequency, integration of light and dark elements, wisdom, truth, and dedication to the collective consciousness.

Through a carefully crafted curriculum of video courses, written articles, pdfs, training videos, spiritual disciplines, techniques, and guidelines, the neophyte will slowly awaken, activate, and unlock his/her inner Godhood. No longer is the creator force, an “outside entity”, which requires sacrifice, worship, or prayer. Instead, the creator force becomes self aware as the ever-present, omniscient, eternal cosmic energy, that all was created from, and all has ever existed from.

The relationship with the Creator becomes something quite tangible, and practical applications of this knowledge are a first hand experience, as the magus will unlock his deepest potentials, powers, yet at the same time, fears, insecurities, worries, doubts, traumas, and all other unconscious repressions of his character.

So you may be wondering if this school is the right fit for you, to that question, I ask you to ponder this question. To see if you are destined to become a true seeker and student of the Mystical Path...Have you ever wanted a private place to talk about higher consciousness topics, such as meditation, spirituality, energy, other dimensions, parallel realities, the Matrix, and more? A network of trees exists as a community in order to spark creativity, foster growth, evolution, adaptation, universal connection, love, and harmony. Together, the trees ground into a common frequency of the earth, and all operate on the close wavelengths for effortless interaction. For trees, we call it a forest, and In human terminology, we call it a tribe.

Those who resonate on a similar frequency as us will find themselves drawn towards us. I want to teach you to fully unlock yourself, access your fullest potential, abilities, skills, and connection to the universal cosmic force. Once upon a time, magic was known as being real, and it was known to be something that was common practice. Join us at the School of Mysticism, to begin your training in the arts of magical and metaphysical studies. <https://schoolofmysticism.mn.co>

END OF HOMOLUMINOUS:THE DIVINE BLUEPRINT VOLUME I

Volume II will be released within the next few months, in ebook, paperback, and hardcover versions! Thanks for reading Volume I, Stay tuned, for the release of Volume II, and we will continue the conversation very soon.

Much Love,
Tanuj Soodan
