Concept and essence of magic

Despite the many books and writings about magic that are available in bookstores, almost everyone who wants to delve deeper into this knowledge misses a good textbook on the areas of practical magic.

First Dr. Musallam's writings gave some good clues, but they were not enough for most because they require certain prior knowledge and a firm conviction. For this reason, I am now trying to use these teaching letters to fill the existing gap in order to convey the knowledge of the individual areas in a more useful and usable form to all those seeking. I will try to avoid any foreign words if possible, unless I don't have a German expression for one or the other.

What is magic?

The true term and designation is: "It is the secret knowledge of the forces and powers in nature!" Magic is not sorcery or the art of sleight of hand, not black art, and even less does it belong to superstition. The oldest worldview, the original religion, is the area of magic.

Unfortunately, as a result of the degeneration and confusion, the most absurd concepts exist among the people.

Thus, among the ignorant, the magician is considered to be connected to the DEVIL through a pact; one's own blood is necessary for this and the like.

Such views are the bitter consequences of centuries of incitement through the glorification of bloodlust.

First and foremost, let us remember: "Magic is the secret knowledge of the hidden, the hidden forces and powers in nature!" This apparently brings us closer to materialism, the God-denying view that denies divine origins and control. In reality, this is how we get to know the true creator and rightful master of the world.

I was once visited by a gentleman, a businessman by profession, who had read one of my writings and now wanted further information. For the sake of importance for what follows, I am presenting the conversation as it actually took place.

The Lord: "I want to become a knowledgeable in magic to help myself, what must I do?"

Me: "First of all, you must allow me to ask you a few questions; from the answers I will then be able to determine your respective attitude and suitability for magical science!

Are you a church Christian or an opponent of the confessions that have so far been anchored in it?"

Mr. Th.: "I am an opponent of the church!"

I why?"

Mr. Th.: "Because I cannot accept their teachings and behavior!"

Me: "Are you a supporter of the doctrine of unity or a denier of God?"

Mr. Th.: "Neither of the two. The unified doctrine is too bland for me; the teachings often contradict each other. It is not my place to deny a divinity!"

Me: "So you still believe in God?"

Mr. Th.: "So far I have not been able to build even a makeshift building in place of the collapsed church faith. I'm floating in the air, so to speak, looking for something to hold on to, a quiet point in the flight of phenomena!

But what faith can you have now?"

Me: "I'm an Adonist! – The word and the concept are unknown! – I would be happy to explain it to you. I am a follower of the original religion, the oldest worldview of humanity!"

Mr. Th.: "This is new to me. Can I also become a follower of this teaching and how?"

Me: "Tear down the remaining rubble of your previous school outlook. Clear out all the space in your heart from heresies and distortions and then – then you will become a magician!"

Mr. Th.: "Isn't it necessary anymore?"

Me: "I beg you, a lot is needed, because it couldn't be done with a few words or gestures. You have to change completely in your thoughts, feelings and actions, fundamentally change. Only then will the place for true religion be made!"

Mr. Th.: "Could I join a school community?"

I: . You can do that if you want to and believe you have greater support in the ongoing battles with your own self. But only come if you are serious about the matter, otherwise it's better not to!"

The Lord Th. went away like the rich young man from Jehushoah.

If only it weren't for the work on one's own self, people would probably take up the field.

So another gentleman visited me and demanded immediate magical help in a special matter. He wanted to reward accordingly. My answer was:

. Help yourself! I want to give you the instructions!" The answer must have been the right one, because he quickly recommended himself.

In my archive are the results of those students who took my words to heart and acted as they were told. After a long period of practice, the proud word appeared in their reports: "Success". Despite everyone

Obstacles brought good results. (Members of our admin can confirm this from their own experience.) Enthusiastic letters reached the "revered master"; But I do not boast that I am a perfect master and my knowledge and skills are nowhere near that of a Chakim at Bit Nur. In general, we never stop learning in life on earth; new doors to new secrets are always opening.

However, the seeker does not want to be influenced by bias by thinking that membership in the "Adonist Society" is enough and then everything will happen by itself. The masters will remove everything that is inconvenient from the rest of his life!

Everyone should memorize the sentence: "Magic is self-knowledge through self-training!"

Only from this self-knowledge can the awareness of knowledge be formed and expanded. Anyone who suffers from the term: Magic is the art of obtaining the gold from doing nothing, he is going astray. All the initiates rejected these earthly additions to their acquired knowledge with full hands and distributed the treasures among the starving ignorant people; They were not egotistical; of course the recipients who were served by it also had to be worthy. - Such cases still arise today.

Magic as knowledge is divided into many individual areas. Every seeker starts with the basic knowledge and then gradually progresses. Occupying several areas at the same time has a fragmenting effect. The learner very easily falls into the mistake of treating the knowledge of individual areas tepidly and negligently. He then gets caught up in the dense web of self-created phantoms of his own imagination and cannot distinguish the truth from the false. The illusions of the apostates are not far from completely confusing him.

Stay critical of all experiences. Only believe what you are truly convinced of! Avoid any involvement or leaning on heresies or distorted beliefs! Remove everything from your thinking, from your knowledge, that is not part of the law - ruthlessly! Then the magic will become a revelation and the means will become an end in itself!

Let's remember the third sentence: "Magic is the means of self-discipline!"

It is said that MAGIC is devilish knowledge and the means of making a pact with the devil. This view is a heresy of Christianity and a consequence of those church teachings. True magic has nothing to do with these degenerations. It is the secret teaching of the rightful lord and creator of the world, who is presented by the other as the rejected opposite pole in his teachings and to whom the sins of that other are attributed as coming from our Lord. Anyone who does not want to turn away from these false concepts in the fullest sense of the word and does not dedicate themselves to the service of the true Lord in all their thoughts, actions and actions will never ever become a knower, let alone an initiate .

Almost all so-called magical books contain distortions and mixtures with or through the currently prevailing religious views.
Such knowledge is watered down and unsuitable for life.

True magic is the ancient belief system and worldview. It was transmitted to people by the invisible people in ancient times and over the millennia it has been preserved in its pure form in various places on earth until today.

Let's remember the fourth sentence: "Magic is the secret teaching of the true Lord and Creator and the true religion and worldview!"

When the seeker later becomes a knower and he succeeds in lifting the veil of fog that lies between the two worlds, he will find in the world of the invisible that this magic, this primal religion, exists there in the most perfect sense! After such experiences he will ask himself: "Why didn't I get my sight sooner?"

I also asked this very question to my invisible teacher and was given the answer: "Because you were not yet mature enough in your development and mental attitude!" Even though I sometimes complained indignantly: "Why did I record this now Didn't I receive knowledge sooner when I could have used it so well?" I receive the definite answer: "Everything has its time and only when you have reached this point in your spiritual knowledge will further knowledge be revealed to you!"

I cite these submitted answers to show the seeker that nothing should be forced with "your own pain". So here in these teaching letters I will do the same as my invisible teacher and demand that everyone put in the time necessary for development and not go a step further before the covered area of knowledge has been properly learned and understood.

Deception and illusion are not magic and neither have anything to do with magic!

Magic is the most sacred priestly knowledge as the secret message and hidden teaching of our rightful Lord and Creator!

This is the fifth mnemonic, the fifth line in the drawn pentagram, which leads back to the starting point. Make all of these sentences your own and keep them carefully, because they will be of use to you in your later exams.

What is the magic supposed to be and what is it?

Starting from these basic ideas, I would like to explain the details.

Magic is supposed to be the means of easing the burdens imposed on earthly human beings, which have been imposed on them by the imposed rule of others.

It is intended to convey information about the true Lord and Creator to him and help him overcome all the dangers of existence.

The hidden knowledge is not book knowledge. It cannot be taught in universities or purchased by the wealthy.

It is an invisible possession and belongs to everyone, regardless of whether they are rich or poor, wealthy or have nothing, as long as the person concerned makes a diligent effort to acquire it.

Nobody needs to travel to distant lands to gain hidden knowledge. He does not need to starve, suffer, or torment or torture himself in order to become a person of knowledge. No one can hammer it into him unless the seeker himself strives to get possession of it.

Do not envy those who managed to stay as earthly people in the place of such an earthly guarding place. Sooner or later you too can receive consecration with your invisible body at the “Holy Fire”, invisible to the ignorant. The areas of magical knowledge, their teachings and instructions should be the means for you to do this. All you need is a firm will that cannot be shaken by anything and real, true faith in the rightful Lord and Creator of this world; the most unwavering loyalty to our Lord. This is easy to read and express, but difficult to maintain!

Whatever else may come at you, throw it back! You don't want to know about it!

Every doubt, even the quietest and most inconspicuous one, be banished from you and out of you! Only the ignorant can doubt!

But magic should be the knowledge of all knowledge for you. Nothing else! Every other thing is just an addition and a side effect.

Remember: “Magic is also the preservation of unwavering loyalty to the rightful Lord and Creator!”

Knowingly insert yourself into what is happening, as part of the world soul, as a link in the chain, as a piece of the cycle!

You are still clinging with every fiber of your being to the fragments of the inherited and ingrained heresy, to modern principles, social conceit and whatever they may be called. You don't forgive yourself if you know all this about yourself!

Jehoushua once spoke a word that every seeker can also accept: “If you do not become like children, you will not enter the kingdom of heaven!” Children have and know no suspicion, no doubt. What their father, mother or teachers tell them is the truth to them. Even if it is the most blatant contradiction.

Do not become childish, but childlike in your thoughts, actions and actions; then you can fully grasp the message and teachings of magic! Then

The seeds scattered in you will bear rich fruit and you will become a truly knowledgeable one!

Nothing comes from nothing, nothing can arise from nothing! Every thing, even the smallest, will have a beginning, a cause. But if from the outset you focus your thoughts and efforts only on the gross material and thereby ignore your inner spiritual development, then don't be surprised that you have to accept failure after failure!

The magic, the hidden knowledge is not a science that suits everyone can be disclosed. It is like a pearl of great price that cannot be fed to "swines", i.e. apostates, slow thinkers and ignorant people!

As long as this eon lasts, it will always remain a hidden science, a proof that only pleases those who know how to pluck it.

Magic is supposed to be the spiritual bond between the people of the earth and the inhabitants of the invisible world!

You want to remember the following sentence: "Magic also represents the link and the means for communication between the visible and the invisible vice versa!"

Degenerate and distorted magic In my remarks

I have already touched on degenerations and distorted magic, but it is necessary to write about it even more clearly.

All older and modern teachings and writings about the Jewish Kabbalah, which have often been interspersed with Christian views, especially by Eliphas Levi, can be described as degeneration. Also the blood ritual of the so-called "black" Satanists, the monastery writings and the devil pacts.

Either they have been falsified, perhaps unconsciously. Just read how ironic the contents of the "Fiery Dragon" are. Further the "8. and 9th Book of Moses", where magic is directly portrayed as trickery.

It is really time that the distortions are finally erased from all these writings. The activity of the "Health Prayers" and that of the "Dragon Brothers"; Both types are just adulterated magic and can also be described as detrimental to true magic because they harm the whole thing.

The use of the Psalter in "Spiritism" is mostly based on degenerations. So almost every area shows unfavorable changes in public.

Distorted magic is also the knowledge of the white, invisible, perfect, secret, humane (and otherwise boastfully described) lodges or organizations, such as modern Rosicrucianism, Phasophists, Christian, Indian or New Theosophy. Their promises remain empty and useless, whether they were made by Indians or Westerners with Indian master titles. The more incomplete their teachings are, the more esoteric they are!

The good will is by no means taken away from their intentions and actions.

But since this is not the right thing, I emphasize again: The seeker should remove everything from his thinking that somehow hinders or could hinder his spiritual development.

He removes the dross and fragments that still remain and clears the slate within himself. Only then can he achieve true conviction and knowledge, because no one can serve two masters!

Adonism is the rebirth of true magic, the original religion of Egyptian and Chaldean magism. With him you don't need any other direction of thought or any other support. It offers such a wealth of knowledge that it will take any seeker many years to fully acquire it!

The word magic may sound strange and seem strange to those who know it it will be the source of his knowledge!

Areas of knowledge of magic

There are many areas of magical knowledge, many of which are already taken for granted today and very few people suspect that what they call or know is a branch of magic. That's what I call magnetism, hypnosis, suggestion, telepathy, sympathy, mediumship and somnambulism, and we already have seven branches of magic.

If we still mention the lower sections, such as card reading, palm line reading, forehead line reading, handwriting and pendulum reading, as well as dowsing with its problems, then we have seven branches of science again.

The middle areas include: mirror magic, astro magic, formula science, talismanology, sigil science, splitting and moon magic. The sigils or pentacles are certain signs intended to achieve a connection with the invisible. But formula science teaches the actual bonds.

Each sub-area is divided into sub-areas, which are later explained to those in the know.

Higher areas are: the teaching of magical energies, about the matrix, solar and earth magic, onomasticism, passive and active intercourse with the invisible, as well as the ultimate knowledge teachings. The majority of those mentioned are explained and dealt with in these teaching letters, but are designed in such a way as to provide every seeker with a practical book. The most well-known and a lot of the unknown are brought together in it.

White and black magic

In many writings there are places where “white” magic is recommended, but “black” magic is “railed” against. Why? To put it clearly: this happens because of ignorance of the secret teachings. The authors of such articles or writings do not know the tradition at all or only know it superficially and they lack any in-depth, intensive study of it. Rather, they copy “traditional” sentences from other “source texts” and give what they have learned as their own opinion. However, out of pure “philanthropy” they try to “instruct” other people and in order to hang up a lot of their “slow sellers” from their “junk shop”. I would refrain from such harsh words if I had not had the experience that such “copymakers” are at work to denigrate my achievements and knowledge, but on the other hand are not afraid to faithfully and obediently “rewrite” my older writings.

Years ago I was even presented with a paper in which the author claimed that there was a “red” one in addition to the white and black ones.

So what is white, black or red?

Only the following word: magic, but not knowledge. Such a division does not exist and probably cannot exist at all, because those hidden forces and powers represent an indivisible whole.

But the person who uses the knowledge he has acquired determines the effect himself. We know from other Adonistic writings that when the rightful master of the world was overthrown, a number of the Kabirs and servants turned away and were forced into the service of others. For this reason the effect of their powers is not always as good as it should be or as it was before the fall of Adoni .

The apostates cause precisely the opposite of what they otherwise have to do, and only when they are under direct coercion from others.

There are now situations in which the knowledgeable person is forced to make use of apostates in order to achieve the desired goal, consciously, under the control of his own will, but in empathy with natural events. This may give a false picture of all knowledge, but the performer still does not become an apostate or even a servant of the Other.

The concepts used about the division of magic into black and white are heresies, which were mainly invented and spread by the ignorant and untrained.

But there is an active and a passive way of acting, which can also be described as positive and negative, but mind you as a way of acting, not in science or the field of knowledge.

A theosophical distortion now claims that “white magic” is godly, while “black” is devilish! The reasons that now support this View can be given, but are very hollow and not valid. Let us therefore develop our view.

We Adonists and also all seekers who want to become successful must definitely confess ourselves to be the children and most faithful of our Lord. We have to fight our way to this realization. If we do not fulfill this or if we shy away from it for the sake of certain social advantages, we will be denied any great success.

Only when we stand ruthlessly with him, but only with him, can we correctly understand and apply the mysteries and the secret teachings.

What is offered today as so-called "white magic" is almost always the service of Esvaba. (Others.)

Anyone who works with such false knowledge will reap failures. His spiritual knowledge may benefit from it, but it is not advantageous when converted to material use.

I know really important Kabbalists who have very deep knowledge in their heads, but are forced to live on the poor money of the city administration, they completely lack the connection between spiritual knowledge and material benefit. There is a big gap in their "white magic" and so far they have seen no way to close it.

There are lodges in which high spiritual knowledge is taught and explained in detail, but unfortunately to date they have not been able to achieve even the slightest material or visible results.

Everything that is taught and described today as supposedly white magic is worthless, useless and a burden on the brain.

Let us now turn to the representatives and authors of "black magic" and what do we find here? Much of what I have read and seen from the "demonologists" so far have been fantasy products or copies of monastic works. There's nothing really positive there either, just huge accessories and nothing practical to be found!

Although these people now want to dedicate themselves to the "devil" with everything they have; the "devil" pays no attention to them – the worthlessness of the regulations used in the mixture of those teachings contributes to the fact that the ignorance cannot be eliminated.

People believe that if they only light "consecrated" candles, burn incense and repeat the Faustian "compulsion of hell", they would immediately be overrun by ghosts and showered with gold or other wealth! How do ignorance and thoughtlessness prevail here?

I am personally aware of a number of such fonts, including several that are only available against lapels. All of these regulations were met exactly, but no real success was achieved.

Only natural events occurred, but these can also be repeated using a specific word. Since all efforts were in vain, many people have already become confused about the existence of the invisible ones. Others contracted temporary or permanent possession. It is precisely the last-mentioned conditions that show that every person who uses these distorted and false teachings is unwittingly joining the apostates, the servants of the delivers to others. One can therefore draw the conclusion that the other, who on the one hand presents himself as the all-powerful and sole ruler, in reality only represents the evil principle who only seeks to harm and torment people on earth in every respect.

So anyone who claims to be able to give exact differences in magic, don't listen to him, because he is one of the false prophets!

Due to the battle of the gods, we are also forced to take active and positive actions to protect ourselves and defend ourselves against enemy forces, but such actions are only possible in extreme emergencies and they also happen within the framework of the course of the world.

We are not created to merely endure and suffer, but for the joy and glorification of the true Creator. This does not mean that we must ruthlessly destroy everything that opposes us and our will or convert it with "fire and sword".

Every life on earth, be it a thing, form or being, is sacred to You!
Sparks of the world soul are also present in them. Be the master of nature but not its tyrant and only those who rule with violence!

But you should be a faithful disciple of light and love.

The use of certain magical customs can already be found in the currently dominant religions.

The ignorant are told "that this is white magic ," although its zealous advocates otherwise condemn all magical knowledge to the ground. But they themselves are not afraid to use magic with the significant omission "for the greater glory of God!"

The area of formula and word magic plays a major role.

This is a branch of magical bindings.

The regular use of certain words and formulas and the vivid thinking this creates in the listeners undoubtedly brings success. Almost every religious book contains instructions and reports about it; The most useful thing is the Psalter. Baptism, unction and communion also provide the starting point for binding magical powers. Incense, holy water and invocations serve the same purpose, but none of it is the right thing.

Every ritual action creates magical vortices of power that benefit everyone involved!

What is already possible through false and distorted teachings, how much stronger the effect can be expected in right faith and in the service of the rightful Lord!

Anyone who doubts or has little faith. He will never really benefit from this because he cannot feel anything and therefore cannot absorb anything because he is one of the lukewarm or half-finished people.

Which do you belong to?

I strongly suspect that you haven't yet gained the right conviction. You are probably still "between the doors" and wondering whether you should now take the step forward.

Go for it and be happy!

Give yourself with all your heart and mind to the service of truth, light and love.

Then the mists will disappear from you, which now obscure your view of the past and the future.

You too will become "seeing", as every initiate has this quality.

Now, not once, because then you would only be a little improved!

The group of faithful people in earthly clothing is increasing so that true worship can be established and maintained anew. You too, serve the unnamed God, who is, was and will be the true Creator and Lord until the end of days.

You came into this earthly life equipped with rich spiritual gifts.

Behind you lies the experience of 6 previous earthly walks, use the knowledge you have gained!

Karma is not synonymous with burden; but the primal life, the inscrutable fate, to which you are also subject, produces the effects.

You have nothing to regret because your self is essentially blameless! Your supposed sins are the fault of the other person and so you don't need to atone for anything. Isn't this an uplifting message?

Why are you hesitating and looking around for support?

Away with the previous false and distorted teachings!

Away with all doubts and the implanted evils of others! Away with the symbol of the Cross of Suffering!

No human being can ever absolve you from sin, even if it were the Son of God; because sin is precisely a burden on the other that he caused.

The Other who brought sin and shul into the world can never rightly be its ruler.

Have you ever seen a manufacturer supply half-finished machines and claim that it is the machine itself that is unfinished?

No.

Everyone will set their ambition on it and here the ambition is in place to create success and grow in personal values. (Stinging for honor means contesting the honor and also wanting to acquire it.)

The half, the defective does not come from the Creator, but from the Other, who has taken control of the Great Empire by force and is now trying to destroy it in its details, to annihilate it.

It is not just an attempt, the secret teachings already report on deeds that were aimed at the complete destruction of the earthly human race.

Why does the angry natural force not pay attention to the many processions that are organized to appease the eruption of the volcanoes? But also destroy the places of worship of the dominant religions!

The spirits of the natural forces are fighting against each other, they too are trying to throw off the hated yoke!

It is not the planet Uranus in the zodiac sign Aries, nor the position of Saturn in the area of Sagittarius that are to blame for catastrophes. These stellar bodies have nothing to do with what is happening on Earth; other forces are at work that bring about the changes. Think about these sentences and learn to recognize the true causes of everything from the effects; Nothing will surprise you anymore!

Magic according to the Adonist view We Westerners

usually feel an aversion to every new thing with an unknown name, which is based on a prejudice.

I wasn't excluded from this either and first had to get used to the peculiarities of Adonism. – Of course, I did not use a manual of general knowledge or other book reference agencies, but as a knowledgeable person I went to the place that lies above the spheres. From there I got the information that I needed and so it happened that I was apparently able to penetrate the knowledge faster than others and I found Adonism confirmed as the spreader of the original religion.

The rabbinic book "Enoch" speaks of the stars, which came to earth and fathered the mighty people of the world with the daughters of men and taught them the hidden knowledge. I often sat in front of this book and read those dark passages, until one night my path in the astral body led me to the places where I received instruction from the stars mentioned.

These stars are not solid planetary bodies. but rather the leaders or guardians of them.

I received certainty that Adonism rightly calls itself the religion that leads to the truth. Adonism now describes magic as a natural religion, it advocates the revival of the old magicism and divides the great secret knowledge into its sections.

It is the religion of pure, unadulterated truth, which, however, is always referred to as a secret doctrine as long as the present eon exists. As long as our Lord remains the unnamed and the unknown God to the ignorant, his messages are hidden knowledge.

Due to the progressive development of natural events, people were increasingly distracted from the true faith by the servants of the Other, the apostates.

The sparse existing traditions and reports were distorted, ostracized and dragged into the mud in the West. People on earth have been forced to have completely confused concepts about magical cracking.

The representatives of the other's religions always tried to eradicate everything that did not belong to them; What's more, they tried to force the faith on the peoples of foreign countries in the most cruel way.

Anyone who follows the records of world history will find where, instead of the religion of love, the religion of hatred, greed, etc. was introduced, on the special instructions of others.

According to the Adonist view, magic is divided into two complementary main areas, secret doctrine and practice.

The secret teachings bring, on the one hand, the spiritual view and the knowledge that develops from it and, on the other hand, the mysteries, the cult activities in the sense of these teachings.

The practice brings the causes and effects of the actions taken also in material matters. It fills the previous gap in secret knowledge out of.

The knower is therefore in a position, as soon as he has achieved the necessary knowledge of the knowledge, to be able to use what he has gained in practical life.

The deeper he has penetrated into the secret knowledge, the greater his power becomes and only faith and a firm will form his support.

Faith towards . . . that is the firm, unbreakable conviction of the lawful the Lord and Creator and keeping loyalty to him.

The will is the hard trained thinking power, the perseverance and the sticking to the one thing that should come to fruition.

The secret teachings are further divided into the knowledge of the lower, middle and finally into the higher traditions, that of the upper areas.

Every seeker must first become a Talmid, that is, a knower (Mulammad Kabalit), before he matures into a Chakim (Chakim Kabalit) and an initiate.

The acquisition of all knowledge does not just involve reading teachings and other Adonistic publications, or taking an exam, but also constant work on yourself, self-training.

Until the lower areas of knowledge, in the general sense, are mastered, the middle and upper areas cannot be grasped. It is completely hopeless to want to start active contact with the invisibles in the first half of the year of membership.

Development takes time!

Every innate gift can only be developed gradually. This can also be described as a hasty study if the individual now impetuously demands other secrets that are still withheld from him due to insufficient maturity.

According to the traditions that I have access to, it took 3 full years in old priestly schools; before this time the seeker was not admitted to the examination.

Let us now also remember that the times at that time allowed for in-depth study, because students were freed from life's worries about their physical well-being.

The kind of distraction that affects us today did not exist and for this reason a three-year period is not too high, because we usually only have the off-duty hours available to engage in magical studies, which are better described as intensive research work .

As spiritual knowledge increases, practical knowledge also deepens; Nobody should become a juggler or a sleight-of-hand artist, because magic has nothing to do with these agility skills.

The goal of everyone should be the mastery of the hidden forces of law and the powers in nature, as revealed by the secret teachings. For this reason, women are by no means excluded from this study; although it is their natural law to give love and joy and to live entirely in the fulfillment of these duties.

Magical knowledge requires a firm belief and an unbending will; neither hesitation nor faltering when obstacles arise. There should be no doubt about the facts; Perseverance and tenacity are required to carry out the task.

Everyone must make an effort to soon become a truly convinced Adonist and to live completely in accordance with the secret teachings.

Adonism requires the strengthening of the true believer.

Self-education, self-training are the basic conditions and these factors are also the keys to success.

Everything else that remains from the previous worldview or way of education; Even if one or the other has already achieved this, the deficiencies must be remedied.

You can absolutely be a believer in your heart , despite any social obligations.

You have to be at peace with yourself, then the whispers of the apostates will fall away.

Not to mention the moral concerns that the lukewarm and half-baked of the overly intelligent are so fond of raising.

If local Adonist communities exist, it is easier for the right rules and principles to be implemented and maintained among those who belong to them.

Where these are missing, development work must be carried out and a foundation established. Everyone is suitable for our knowledge.

Many are called but only a few are chosen!

The Adonistic world and life view is based on the seven main parts of the secret teachings. Knowledge and practice are based on this knowledge

If the solid foundation for both is laid, then the desired success of emerging from the suffering of earthly life will certainly be achieved.

The seven main teachings of Adonism

The first main teaching is about chaos and the gods, about the origin of all existence. Chaos = Chajoth, in German the primal life is the primal being of all existence. The initiates of the ancient Egyptian period used the double circle with the flame surrounded by an oval as a symbol of this primal life.

The Kabbalah has the same sign as the symbol of infinity and here a very wise distinction is made between eternity and infinity. An eternity is not infinite because it has a beginning and an end. I will comment on this certainly interesting omission in detail elsewhere. The ingenuity of the ancients was aptly characterized by the explanation of the symbols. Primordial life was the origin of everything, including the gods.

If we make a circle and cut it into two pieces, halfway apart, we have two halves, which, when put together and joined together, always form the previous circle. Now let's take a large piece of paper and draw a circle on it that will form the fill of the paper when it is inserted back in. We divide the circle we took out in the middle and we have two halves in front of us. If these two parts are placed together, the old inner circular area is created.

If we now write on one half: time - force, but on the other half: space - matter, we have the pictorial process of the beginning of everything that exists.

The Secret Doctrine says: From Chajoth emerged Beel and Beelit, they are the first; Gods, the primal parts of primal life.

From the union of the two gods first emerged the principle of evil, the cold, inexorable right that his name should never be mentioned.

Then the pair of gods Adonay [Adonis] (Evisul) and Ashtarh (Ulrah) or light and love. These two become Chaldean with Adonis and Dido designated.

These gods are now the individual rulers of the eternities and the secret doctrine calls these periods of time eons.

Development, emergence and so on are subject to the influence of primordial life, which now represents the unfathomable and inscrutable fate. Those initiates symbolically described it as a circle from which seven bundles of rays emanate; they mean the world energies that permeate everything and keep it moving. More about this in the sixth teaching letter.

The second main doctrine speaks of the creation of the world. Only through the union of both parts does the circular area arise; Thus, the union of both parts of God, the deity, the god and the goddess, also represents the perfect unity.

It is through the connection between man and woman that the truly complete human being is formed.

The invisible world emerged from the union of the god Beel and the goddess Beelith, and the visible world emerged from the union of the god Adonay and the goddess Ashtarh. The closer to primal life, the finer, lighter and more transparent the material is; the further away, the denser it will be.

The visible world is now the faithful image of the invisible and its people are at the same time, the formerly invisible people condensed into the visible world, the faithful replicas of the gods.

However, the secret teaching also says that the visible world is the embodied feeling of lust from the love union; That is why the sexual instinct is the strongest of all natural instincts and sexual union is the most sacred mystery of life. The latter is a sacred connection in both its conception and its use, and our existing morality and moral outlook needs to be enriched with this knowledge.

The marriage we have now has neither been instituted nor sanctified by the deity. In the halcyon days this institution did not exist. The man's duty was to worship the gods and the woman fulfilled that of love. So no female creature denied herself to any man if he strived for perfection. Likewise, no man refused the offer of a woman. The gender binary runs through all parts and particles of the entire world, both visible and invisible.

In order to get ahead of possible questions, I would like to go into some of them in more detail here. First the specific question: "Do spirits also have sexual organs?"

During my astral wanderings I have now carried out studies on this and can therefore answer the question with "yes".

The invisible are people like us, with the same body shape and form with all our organs and limbs, only they are invisible to the eye of the earthly body. However, they can condense their invisible bodies for a shorter or longer period of time according to their will using certain earthly substances and thereby also become visible to the physical eyes of earthly people.

There is only a compulsion to reveal ourselves if we have the true name.

Procreation exists here as well as there. However, there can be no question of overcrowding in both worlds, because everyone, gods and the human race, also have a limit to their reproduction. If this limit is reached, sterility occurs.

Producing offspring through the union between people from both worlds is possible; either the invisible person condenses his body for this purpose, thus creating an earthly person, or the visible person leaves his earthly body for a short time, thereby creating an invisible person.

However, this is not always possible, because we must note that the invisible human race is significantly older in its origin than the earthly one.

The females from the royal family of the Invisibles have long since fallen victim to infertility, and no invisible human child will arise from a union with such a woman. Anyone who acquires Lilith 's favor will find my information confirmed.

The third main teaching tells of the "golden age".

All religions of the peoples of the earth speak of that time of true happiness. The paradisiacal state was not disturbed by any catastrophe or other natural event. The people knew no enmity or other vices. Likewise, suffering, illness, sleep and death were unknown. Peace and joy reigned. The man only fulfilled the service of divinity, and the woman forgave love. That was the time of complete happiness, when even the invisible often stayed among the visible for long periods of time. In such a state there was no accompanying practice; only the mysteries and great knowledge existed.

The fourth main teaching speaks of the present aeon.

The other managed to seize control in order to get the visible world under his power. This was foreshadowed in the womb of unfathomable fate. Since that time his rule has existed and even the cruel one fears the same.

So the happy time was followed by the eon of world obsession, in which the world soul was pushed out of its sphere of power for a certain time and restricted in its actions. Disorders arose in natural events and the people of the earth mourned their lost happiness for a long time when they realized what had happened.

Only the secret messages of the true Lord and Creator comforted them, plus the oral traditions from the mouths of the emissaries of the invisible ones.

The cruel one's attempt to take possession of the invisible world failed and this remained with Adonay and Ashtarth.

The invisible people, under the leadership of their princes, made a covenant with the true Lord to maintain their unwavering loyalty to the lawful. This is the covenant of Ashmedey; whose emissaries became the actual teachers of the people on earth and the founders of the secret teachings of the hidden knowledge of the magical areas. In Egypt, a subsidiary organization of the League of the Invisibles emerged, it was the "Exalted League of the Upper and Lower Cham".

In the land of Ur, later Chaldea, today's Iran, the other power center was created by the emissaries.

The "Exalted Covenant" has long since disappeared in Egypt, only its buildings are still standing, and many scientists wonder why Chaldea has the same buildings as Egypt.

The center of power in Egypt sank because the members of the alliance allowed themselves to be blinded by the apostates. So only the force field in Chaldea has survived to this day.

The guardians of the "holy fire" there resisted the temptations and persecutions to the utmost, even though the number of initiates was often reduced. There the visible source of fire shines all the stronger and purer, while the one in the other power center only glows in the corruption, buried under rubble and sand. According to the cruel man's will, the flood was supposed to extinguish both sources of fire. But the plan failed because this pure fire proved to be stronger. A deep mystery is hidden underneath, which only becomes apparent to the initiated with the help of the invisible.

For the benefit of the believers, Adonay gave the practice to the secrets of the ancient teachings and its use is only successful if the right faith is cultivated and upheld.

I have evidence, given to me with the strictest discretion as to names, showing that even today, in our modern age, it is reserved for the Initiate to create great material advantages by means of the Secret Doctrines and Practices. The person in question, whose name and position I am leaving out here, became a multi-millionaire and a very well-known diplomat within 5 years. Previously it only belonged to the nobility without having any significant assets. This is a striking proof of the West, it requires the right faith, the firm will and the toughest perseverance - nothing more.

Even if the other person tries everything to secure his position, he will not succeed. Just a short while longer and his deeds will no longer be mentioned and will be forgotten.

The fifth main teaching talks about false prophets. The cruel one seeks to eradicate the true belief in the rightful Lord and Creator among the people of the earth in order to thereby increase the number of apostates.

He sent four false prophets whose life's work was to establish the cult and faith of one another. Of course, there were other heresies, but their reforms were limited to smaller circles.

Abraham, Moses, Jehoushua [Jesus] and Mohammed, these are the names of the four heralds. Moses was also a knowledge of the Egyptian secret teachings.

Unfortunately, as an apostate he departed from the true faith and founded the covenant of the Mosaic religion. Abraham was named before Moses, he was the most unsuccessful of all the prophets. Jehoushua emerged as a reformer of the teachings of Moses and became the founder of Christianity.

Mohamed was the founder of Islam.

The followers of the most diverse directions soon fought each other fiercely and so the earth became the scene of bloody conflicts. People were tearing each other apart and it almost seemed as if this spiritual deluge was having greater success than the material deluge.

But the forces from the original life, the current fate, are stronger than the will of the tyrant. Why are certain representatives and leaders of religions successful?

I am thinking of the evangelist Seitz from Großhartmannsdorf in Saxony, the abbey who wrote under the name Eliphas Levi, von Bodelwikelh and the pastor Frommel, these are also part of it.

In the following teaching letters I will describe the closer reasons that helped those representatives to succeed, as the miracles of Rabbi Jehoushua and his disciples fall under this category.

(If you are interested, request the private printing: Denuvar Bubam, to be obtained from the publisher!)

We must not ignore that at the very time that marked the beginning of Christianity, Simon Magus and Apollonius of Tyana lived, who taught and acted in the service of the rightful Lord.

From the teachings of Simon Magus, Gnosis later developed with its followers: the Gnostics, who were cruelly persecuted by the Christians of the doctrine of letters. Little is known about the life and work of Apollonius of Tyana.

(One of the teachings for the adepts will provide more information about where old legacies of the same are published.)

All success is based only on the correct attitude of one's own will and one's own knowledge. But I certainly don't want to promote those who could say: look, he too gives us magical success!

For this reason, we just need to change how we think, feel and act. The achievements that have been made in the service of others are always quite sparse; they evaporate very quickly and therefore have no lasting value. When the successful person passes away, so does that person

Life's work done. Every imitator achieves only failures; On the other hand, lasting success can be expected in the service of what is lawful.

The sixth main teaching announces sleep and death. We know that in the early days the people of the earth were mercilessly at the mercy of the other's tyranny and their arbitrariness.

This state would have remained if the true Creator had not taken care of his work, who sent two of his angels to earth, sleep and death: Malach Hamun and Malach Hamuth (Imicath and Osrail).

As a result, earthly people were removed from the power of the cruel for a certain time; Sleep shortens our lifespan on earth by more than a third. He sinks our bodies into unconsciousness and makes everyone drink the water of oblivion. We gain new strength to continue carrying the burden.

Death separates us from the respective earthly shell and enables us to enter the resting life, without sensation or recollection. We all have to die seven times in the age of the other and return to earthly life again and again.

Only when we are embodied on earth for the eighth time do we find a different time.

Then the happy time of that lost happiness will reign again!

All of us who live now are in the sixth and seventh life on earth and have lived for 5 - 6,000 earth years behind us. We do not know the experiences of the rest periods during which our (earthly) bodies decay.

It is impossible for us to remember those events, but the details of the last lives can be recalled and we become aware of where we lived and acted as humans on earth.

This recollection is also a side effect of magical knowledge and is only given to those who walk in the right faith.

Then we will be enlightened as to why we are shaped the way we appear and why each individual has gifts and habits in which they differ from other people. Then we realize that there is no sin, but only a continuation of previous actions and ways of life.

What we ourselves have created or begotten will also be revealed to us; Regardless of whether we come from the family of a worker, a farmer or some other pariah in terms of our earthly body, if we come from ancient royal blood, we will always have the attitudes, the characteristics and talents of the old family, either king, To be a leader or a chosen one.

It is not birth or schooling that creates the knowing gifts, but rather the inherent spiritual gifts.

That's why I can say in summary: We as seekers of hidden knowledge come from that race, which at that time was partly fathered by the emissaries of the invisible and partly taught orally.

We are those ancients who came from Egypt from the land of Ur Chaldea, the . . . of the later knowledgeable and initiated people of that time, the priestly race of a long-ago earthly period. No one will come to us who has not already been one of ours, no one will be able to change themselves! The has not previously stood among our Lord's faithful followers. Our current birth counts for nothing, because the earthly descent, possessions and material knowledge as I would like to call it means nothing either, if only we were already in the retinue of the great Adonay , then he will be our refuge again this time!

Today you do not yet know where you come from according to your spirit, nor which energy area you belong to in hidden knowledge, nor do you know what you did in your previous and in general in your previous earthly lives.

As a knowledgeable person, you will find out more about it yourself! The mists will clear and you will receive the right knowledge, but not overnight, but only when you have been found by those invisible ones to be a proven member of the invisible covenant, will the worlds of the ether have the opportunity to vibrate your soul to move.

Banish any doubt, it's just like I told you, you'll confirm it to me when you've found the connection!

The seventh main teaching discusses world redemption. It teaches that everything has a beginning and an end, whether it is eternity, infinity, world existence or age. The invisible people calculate in light years, which cover approximately 1,000 Earth years and which periods may seem almost improbable to us earthly people.

This knowledge is described in more detail in the book: "Adonism" . According to the information of Dr. Musallam encompasses the entire becoming and passing away of seven eons and these contain different times measured in light and earth years.

(Musallam represents the Chaldean direction) However, the Egyptian direction only knows five eternities, which represent an infinity , but otherwise say the same thing as the Chaldeans.

Our current eon consists of seven light years or 7,000 Earth years and then there will be what is called the happy time or the golden age.

The first aeon covers the period of Chajoth until the emergence of the first pair of gods, Beel and Beelith.

The second aeon extends to the creation of the Other and includes the creation of the invisible world.

The third aeon counts until the emergence of the second pair of gods, Adonay and Ashtarh. This also includes the emergence and further development of the invisible world, its people and all its details.

In the fourth aeon, Adonay and Ashtarh create the visible world, its human race, and thereby establish the golden age.

The fifth aeon is the period of the tyranny of the Other, which towards the end of the aeon must again give way to the happy age under Adonay and Ashtarh .

In the sixth aeon the dissolution of the visible world occurs.

In the seventh aeon the dissolution of the invisible world and the return of the gods to Chajoth take place.

This may seem quite strange to us who have so far heard about the kingdom of heaven, about hell and purgatory and about a beautiful afterlife. But if we ask where heaven and hell are, we get nothing but silence as an answer.

One looks for heaven above the clouds, but hell in the depths of the earth.

Yehoushua says significantly in one of his speeches: "In my Father's house there are many mansions!"

-However, nothing has been said about the area in which these premises are located.

If we call the azure blue vault that rises above the earth sky, we do not know how far this visible space extends. We also do not know how high the belt of air that surrounds the Earth reaches. We also don't know whether the Earth has the shape of a ball or a pear.

Recently, a researcher claims that the actual Earth represents the inner wall surface of a large hollow sphere. All of these questions remain unsatisfactorily answered from the point of view of school science; because proof of one or the other cannot be provided.

I used to spend a lot of time on it myself. To shed light on these very considerations. Through "astral wandering" I gained a quicker insight into the wonder of nature.

Our world system, to which we and the Earth belong, resembles a tube that has expanded upwards. That invisible one called it a vein, which is located in a part of the skin or a muscle part of the worldly human being, and our earth forms the valve ball in this vein.

In an orderly state it would only rise and fall depending on the existing blood pressure from the vein. The "blood pressure" in our system (and also in all other gross material world systems) is created by the energies that sustain life in the entire organism.

The rotation of the Earth is caused by the feverish state in which the world man now finds himself. This is not a normal state, and it will disappear again as soon as the "world obsession" is dissolved. I trust that every reader has understood this picture correctly. The walls of this vein are transparent and therefore we can see in light At night we can see the many other star groups with our eyes. They are not scattered randomly throughout the universe, but are arranged in a system. (The other teachings for adepts provide more detailed descriptions of them.)

Each area includes seven rings and a valve ball; Each ring has a star body and a planet as a signature.

By combining all areas of magic, it becomes a remarkable science and a sublime worldview.

We teach nothing that the seeker cannot verify for himself sooner or later and we open up great insights into the secrets of nature.

Anyone who correctly grasps and recognizes the teachings can also derive great benefit from them for material life.

It would be just dry knowledge to make further claims without providing proof of feasibility.

Magic offers an inner vitality and is by no means a religion of the dead .

It is considered not to be bought at too high a price if magical science is taken up at the expense of "immortality" or other utopias.

Every existence has a limit that no one can ever cross.

Finally, I cannot resist commenting on the distorted view that "there is a triune God". The very concept is a distortion. Triune, that is three in one. The image resembles that of the earthly god Shiva with many arms. But what is symbolism there is explained here as fact.

The designation: father and son would still work, only the mother is missing, but to view "holy spirit" as personified is a deformity that goes beyond comprehension.

What is spirit?

Spirit is something volatile, invisible, a combination of air and water, possibly drinkable or at least combustible. But she is supposed to be a deity and I find a strange composition for this. If the father now has a son, he is subject to the development of the whole, then according to his physical quality he is transitory and not eternal, omnipotent and so on. Support was provided by the fact that the Virgin was elevated to the status of "Mother of God" and thus placed in the same position from which the "Son" is said to come. Now let's assume that the Son is on earth, the Father is in heaven and the spirit is somewhere else, where is the deity? It can only be a whole if all the parts are together. But how much guilt does the father have to have his son executed out of "mercy"? Was Almighty God not there yet? If you can believe this, look at the world! If an unmarried virgin gives birth to a son, she is called by a dismissive name, but at the same time the guardianship court deals with the matter of researching a father. But let's assume and leave it at that that the caring legislators back then were not as advanced as they are today.

But now the supposed Mother of God was a temple maiden, that is, a kadishut, temple dancer; she had been ordained to this high service by her parents. (Probably a firstborn.) As soon as her condition made it necessary, the temple authorities handed the woman over to her relatives, in this case the carpenter Joseph, who had to marry her. The report writer has left out as unimportant the addition of values with which it was entrusted to him. After the secret reports about the details in the communities and places of worship of the "Exalted Covenant" in Egypt, the ruling high priest criticized, among other things, the behavior of some who had sold sacred virgins to strangers.

Such a case may also be the one described above.

With the priests' profit-seeking intention, the temple maiden was passed on to a stranger as an object of pleasure; everything else then developed logically. However, the component son as such of the deity can only be produced by the main part of the deity, the mother , then a real God would exist.

Through the union of "God" and human woman, the species of divine humans arises, which, although endowed with a high level of knowledge, always belongs to the race of earthly humans and not to that of the gods, as might be assumed. So the conception of the Trinity contradicts itself through its composition.

There is a deity who is bisexual and who created the first of the pairs of gods from himself. This is the Chajoth or primal being. Because the first pair of gods came into being, the deity dissolved in its entirety and transferred its previous work to the parts.

From it comes fate, the unchangeable law of becoming, which sets the limits to all prosperity in the energies, whose supreme rulers were the first couple of gods.

The deity only exists when both parts have united with one another. Likewise, the human parts only form the perfect human being when man and woman are connected, only then does the actual human being exist. Is this difficult to understand? Why the deceptive talk, the mysterious activities surrounding natural things?

The reputation of the deity does not suffer from this natural representation that we understand. On the contrary, since we represent only the sparks of that primordial life, we must retreat from the grandeur of that tranquility of the primordial parts and admit our smallness. Nevertheless, we remain aware, as "children of God", that everything visible and invisible is a work of the Creator of the world.

If we rightly recognize the Deity in the true sense, then we can approach Him in worship and veneration; For us, the intimate union of both parts of humanity then becomes a parable, a holy act and not a loose game of passions.

The hidden knowledge of the magical areas brings you the right knowledge, it lifts you out of the crowd and makes you free from deception and distortion. With your eyes and senses open you can then attend the mysteries as a knower and thereby you will experience what tremendous source of power lies hidden in the use of the mysteries. May ignorant people and. Strangers mock and sneer, try to condemn the hidden knowledge, just remember that the opponents are ignorant people and you will be given the task of convincing them of true divinity !

Magical propaedeutics

The correction of one's own personality is a main requirement in the preparatory teaching of magic. It includes the care of the body, the unification of thoughts and a list of basic exercises to promote mental development on a daily basis. I can assume that most of the interested readers would like the magical teachings to be explained in as much detail as possible, which is why the content of the teaching letters was written in such a way as to do justice to this situation.

The practice of practical magic requires a trained mind in a healthy and well-groomed body. This should be kept free of diseases and illnesses, which is best done through hardening. If you want to control other people, you must first be able to keep your own body and all of its organs under control. That free physical culture with its effort to make people resilient was really created for the current times, because we should not just develop as "room plants".

The citizen of the earth who frolics in the sunlight and in the open air need not be ashamed of his nudity, since our descent is of divine origin. People's opinions always enjoy being different.

The prevailing custom still teaches us that certain rules of etiquette are mandatory, and anyone who finds these annoying can carry out their personal hygiene in a secluded room with the windows wide open. The more often the whole body is exposed to air and sunshine, the better the blood circulates in our veins and the nerve areas vibrate in even oscillations.

If we still have to worry about disturbing foreign eyes in secluded places, then a curtain made of light, thin-mesh fabric will do a good job.

Personal hygiene remains the main task and since all people are made of the same material, one cannot speak of an injured sense of shame at all; in a direct sense the same will only refer to sexual stimulation, which should be ignored here.

A bath in the morning and in the evening will fulfill its purpose, in the morning it provides refreshment and in the evening it forms the transition to full rest, favorably influencing the activity of the soul and the spirit during the night.

After a complete wash, the skin is best rubbed dry in the open air; a circular massage has proven to be very suitable. Drying with cloths is not as advantageous as rubbing with your own hands; from the point of view of economy, this method has to be welcomed because it saves a lot. As soon as the skin feels dry, it is advisable to rub it with a balsamic oil to be evenly protected against cold and heat.

(For skin ointment oil, please note the publisher's directory!)

The external genitals require special care to remove all secretions from the sebaceous glands.

Regular care ensures that everyone gets to know and respect their own body; The harmful effects of "onanism" do not occur in such people.

The woman's body care can be continued without worry on the days of monthly cleansing; the bleeding will not increase in any way, but the body must be used to daily care.

Many diseases have their origin in the uncleanness of the sexual organs and therefore, as happens everywhere, special emphasis should be placed on cleaning them.

The treatment of the sexual organs must begin from early childhood, then the prudish hypocrisy of false shame will remain unknown to the growing sex.

The people of the last century have probably not been well hardened in this respect, with various exceptions, because the compulsion to walk in thick clothes, even tightly tied fur clothes in winter, prevents the development of the skin under the influence of the air currents and the sun's rays.

A consequence of such educational methods are the weak people who are adversely affected by almost every strong draft of air.

It would also be better to break the habit of covering your body while you sleep at night.

Especially when you are resting, the body needs a lot of air in order to supply oxygen to the nerves through the skin pores. The ancients of ancient times had a law in the priestly schools of the cult communities that forbade any covering of the body during rest. This increases the tension of the nerves and increases the energy of the will.

The conclusion of the daily body care is the invocation of the deity in the morning and evening; use the prayers to Adonay and Dido; they are written down in the teachings and in the book "Adonism".

If, after such a logical plan, the objection is raised that there is no time to carry it out, then by following the stated sentences you will gain the experience that free time can be created precisely by maintaining full possession of the powers through the teachings given.

Many people have a restless look. You cannot do the calm viewing. In order to eliminate such impairment, eye training must be carried out. For this purpose, use a mirror of the general type and choose the area of the bridge of the nose, between the eyebrows as a viewing point and look there as long as you can stand it. At first you will feel tired and your eyes will start to water. Then don't increase the intensity excessively, but stop and continue the adjustment later, your gaze will increase in sharpness and power.

I think it is unjustified to give students of the ancient sciences dietary instructions. He will see the main value in his learning and will not consume more food than necessary in order to improve his well-being and maintain his ability to work.

The stimulants also fulfill their purpose, and this will show in particular whether the seeker is a master or a slave of his body.

After this external construction work, the internal, spiritual work now begins. The rule of the "Adonist Society" applies, according to which belonging to a political party or other religious associations excludes admission. But such drastic measures must be justified. The explanation states that the cause of the current prevailing conditions is the obsession with the world, which was created by the Other. An exemption cannot therefore occur in organizations that are subordinate to the other. The tribal feeling, the emphasis on nationality and that

Highlighting class consciousness are bridges that cannot lead to intellectual freedom, because we are members of one planet and do not differentiate ourselves by forming several nations with many denominations.

Adonism begins to proclaim the true faith and as soon as the reforms have taken hold everywhere, the time will come when there will be only one fatherland and one community to praise the true Lord of the world! Everything that custom and morals teach must now be examined to see what additions were added by the other person.

Adonism makes its views known unequivocally, so there is no need for reference. The laws, especially those that attempt to solve contemporary love and marriage issues, require detailed discussion. What matters is not the connections that maintain the appearance of heavenly light and law on the outside, but threaten to break apart at any moment on the inside.

Tolerance is inherent in Adonistic society; It makes it a point not to force anyone to become a member. She has to woo people away until it becomes clear to the individual that a connection is for their own benefit.

If the marriage union, which is praised as sacred, represents a bondage in its further development, it can only be broken with difficulty. But since in this time of obsession with the world very few connections can maintain what is promised, many people will rebel against any connection.

Only the true brother or sister soul will show you full understanding as the part that belongs to you. Therefore, do not judge the beginning of the many who remain free as a sin when a union is entered into without a permanent commitment: cases that have unfavorable consequences always remain as the fault of the other, and only in the golden age will rough, free love receive the true blessing. In the battle of the gods, people only give up the pieces on the chessboard; they are often violently sent back and forth; The rightful master of the world constantly strives to save the best part of his loyal followers.

"If you want to rule, you have to serve!"

The point here is to first serve yourself and develop your personality. Any training cannot be given without tuition fees!

Energy and endurance deserve to be habituated and maintained. The thought formula: "My magical power is stronger every day!" If used daily, you can feel its revaluation. Wearing the magical headband while sleeping to concentrate the invisible forces on you proves its beneficial use, as records of the practice show. However, the benefits will only appear gradually, so don't be impatient! Or try to make the growing success ineffective through such considerations.

All impatience represents a weakness that must be overcome. Everyone has their time; the visible world did not come into being in a moment. Man must complete the period of becoming; a shortening cannot occur, in nature exceptions are not valid!

To learn in life you need strength and sometimes there is likely to be a lack of clarity, which means that this is constantly being renewed.

The sea of air that surrounds you contains your life force, and it requires a conscious attitude in the corresponding action to prepare yourself for reception.

The magnetic exercise is used; the Magus bandage (magic forehead bandage) is required. After you have finished your personal hygiene in the evening and have paid tribute to the deity, stand naked, facing west, with your arms raised and spread out, and remain standing in this position. After a very short time you will feel a tingling feeling in your hands that runs down your arm towards your heart. As soon as your arms tire, stop the exercise, but keep doing it for a while to allow the strength to accumulate. Through this action the hidden power of the energies of the etheric substance is absorbed. "Magnetism" is the other name for it.

The energies appear in three different strengths. They are expressed in heat, magnetism and electricity . We feel heat everywhere, the magnetism becomes noticeable through practice, but the effect of electricity actually offers resistance to those working with it. I have already described the three currents as resting, moving and flowing . Since there are now seven forces that express themselves in different ways, we have to get to know them in detail in order to be able to distinguish between them. The transformation of moving force into flowing force is brought about by the attitude of thought. Such a transformation often produces surprising results. If you neglect to remove all metal objects from your clothing, they will become magnetic. Pocket watches have therefore lost their value as timepieces. No master watchmaker would be able to solve the jamming of the wheels caused by the current.

But how important these energies are to evaluate can be seen from the teaching letters on intercourse with the invisible.

So far, no researcher has been able to use a technical device to absorb the electricity from the air and thereby make it particularly useful for earthly purposes. Electricity produced by machines is only a variety; But the scientist cannot explain what the power actually enables to carry out the often great achievements.

There are organizations that teach their members the use of electricity energies that influence them to achieve a desired result.

Every person is a transformer of these forces. Through its thinking power it becomes a transmitter and the brain is designed to perceive foreign radiations. This is how communication comes about between like-minded people.

Distances that extend over so many miles and even seas present no obstacle.

It is profoundly said: "Thoughts are free!"

The incredible will soon become clear to the learner, as there are so many things between heaven and earth that await discovery. The whole secret of telepathy lies in the arrangement of the call; an understanding of the brain that is kept free will then arise. Disturbances could arise from time to time, but the adjustment of the thoughts to the conscious activity will endure this.

The close circle of my friends tends to investigate such problems and test the practical side. In the first few years of testing we used a blue-colored crystal ball as a marker and guide; However, the remedy proved to be too difficult for the individual. Today we are using a composite mirror and a power vortex plate. The hidden knowledge of thought transmission is also known as "mentalism". It is of little use to the individual just to be a registered member of a large movement; to read their writings and, moreover, to indulge in the naive belief that the magical powers of society would now do their part to help the almost apathetic person lead a quiet life.

Such a misconception will only soon turn out to be deceptive, because only through training in practical use can enrichment be achieved in many ways.

Magical science cannot be learned in one course and a short working procedure does not make you ready to use it.

The work must be done from the ground up; practicing too quickly brings just as many disadvantages as acting hastily. The former begins in the middle, the latter at the end of the introductory work.

The preparatory basic exercises are then later joined by trained thinking. Almost everyone will think that they can think correctly, but this is not about playful training, but rather the area of magical thinking, in which it is important to transform one's own will into action and to accomplish the deed through plastic thinking. For most people, the decisive will probably fails and the entire thought process becomes invalid.

In order to be able to properly absorb magical thinking, it is necessary to establish a calmness in thought, the calmness of the excited brain and the emphasis must be placed on remaining in control of one's own thoughts! But that might be a difficult task for someone who is struggling with their careers or lives and has a lot of things to think about. No matter how big the obstacle may seem, it still has to be overcome!

The view that suggested complete emptiness of the brain has also proven to be erroneous. Writers of this school of thought do not seem to have fully grasped the matter, because complete rest of brain activity only occurs when sleep overwhelms the person concerned and takes him into his rights. I therefore consider it advisable to repeatedly throw a certain idea as a formula into the chaos of the abundance of thoughts, for example the word: "power", in order to bring the new ideas that constantly arise in a certain direction. After the word "power" has passed into thinking, its value is recognized.

imagination and will

The title lists two different activities, but they are connected to one another. To imagine you need the will and to have the will you need the imagination.

Magical thinking is also called hidden thinking and plastic thinking connects with imagination.

To make an idea possible, you only need a keyword that describes a thing or thing. If we say the word: apple, the idea of the fruit of the apple tree is formed. There will also be extensions that target individual varieties, etc. However, this is not yet the correct idea of plastic thinking. In this case the object must acquire the solid form, color and life through the will, only then the correct imagination has been carried out.

Now let's look at the will. It encloses something high and that is why opinions are often expressed to place a strong will as property in the foreground of self-respect. A small sample will easily convince you otherwise. For this purpose we use a sidereal pendulum and it is best to choose one from the edition by Dr.

Musallam, because these pendulums are made according to the regulations of the secret doctrine. The pendulum is hung freely on a frame and waited until it has returned to its natural resting position.

At a distance of one meter, the examinees sit down individually and, using the willpower of their thoughts, command the pendulum to circle.

At first it will not be possible to cause the pendulum to oscillate even the slightest. But after repeated repetitions, you can initially force a small circle, which soon. is described more and more quickly.

Finally, a short mental command is enough and the pendulum will make the desired circles. But this skill cannot be achieved in one day.

Another test of will is to test two supposedly strong-willed people against each other. This is done in such a way that the partners sit opposite each other one meter away from the pendulum and now one influences the pendulum to swing while the other tries to maintain the resting position. This is a test of strength of a special kind, since for one person it is not important to set the pendulum in motion, but rather to first neutralize the opposing force's inhibiting force. In such experiments, the evidence should be enough to convince people of willpower.

Careful care must be given to the weakly developed will. The exercises that are so often described, such as lifting matches and moving a square centimeter of paper, seem a bit excessive, but they are reserved for those who are capable of plastic thinking.

Gross material parts are generally more difficult to direct than living forms.

The will is the radiation of thought waves brought into concentrated form, which is why beings and forms are easier to control because they also carry a spark of primal life within them.

"I want" are creative words to which only the "It will" need to be added in order to guarantee achievement if we have a trained will and the correct idea of what we want. But our will is in the

There is a temporal and material limit to the impact, because we cannot imbue a figure made of clay or stone with the breath of life, nor can we recall the spirit of a dead person against fate.

We can revive a dead body for a short time after the death in rhythmic harmony with the will of fate, but the effect diminishes when the original law has decided on the dissolution.

The training of one's own will must be constantly expanded in its application. Concentrating your thoughts on one thing, so to speak on one point, requires careful observation. If the superior attitude applies with every fiber of your body, success will also be noticeable. There are many failures and other obstacles to overcome.

The often apparent phenomenon that when the zero point of development is reached, a failure of the forces becomes threateningly noticeable, but that a complete failure brings about an end at the last moment, should be taken into account. The body then tends to revolt at first and rebel against the great tensions with force; the unfamiliar work of converting the energies becomes annoying for it. At times, the feeling as if a thousand insects are tormenting the body places great demands on one's elasticity. Overcoming this body revolt entails the sacrifice of the body. The Egyptian priestly schools already mention this in the hysteria in the places of worship.

The ultimate control over the "sacrifice of the body" must be carried out by initiates in order to exclude any damage to the body. The will is based on the combination of all thought waves; we achieve the necessary level of strength by transforming the world energies, which we use through the trained imagination from the air around us.

If we are in the dark and we suddenly close our eyelids, many sparks and stars pass in front of us. These are the electrons or energy components that surround us everywhere.

By adjusting the thoughts to these, they contract and form stars, spheres and waves, the latter are rightly called the ether waves.

The receiving surfaces of these electrons in the human body are the inner palms, the pineal glands, the solar plexus and the genital field. (In the 3rd

The drawings are included in the teaching notes as illustrative material.)

The solar plexus is closely connected to the navel. This point is also the exit area when "hiking". A trained person, standing next to someone involved in the recording process, would see flickering light blue flames shining at the indicated locations. The sexual field reacts most quickly to the incoming electrons, which is expressed in feelings of well-being without erotic thoughts arising.

The pineal gland is the main transmitting site next to both hands. If this absorbed current of force were to be measured in the various parts of the body, it would show that when it enters the body, positive and negative currents are created; the conversion takes place immediately. With the help of the mental image, the individual can now store more of one type of electricity or generate it through transformation. We cannot allow the stream of life itself to arise completely independently because it includes the invisible body and the high creative word. The attempt would result in the earth's shell shattering and earthly existence would come to a violent end.

Training the imagination leads into the magical territory of suggestion. Auto-suggestion, self-influence, comes first, followed later then the actual suggestion, the influences. The whole area is divided into sub-parts. So there is verbal and written influence on the masses through deeds. As a result, they are nothing other than the effect of the imagination with the will.

In every area you must always start with your own personality and always consider yourself as a test subject and only inform other people when the results are satisfactory.

An example of self-influence can be seen in the habit of hitting the bedpost with the big toe of the foot at the time of awakening the next morning, shortly before falling asleep. The result is never giving up on oversleeping the time.

The same purpose is also served by imagining the dial of the clock with your eyes closed and, with the help of your imagination, moving the hand to the hour of your desired awakening. As soon as this image appears sharp enough, a short command is sufficient: "I wake up at this hour!" Even if you were lying in the deepest slumber at the set time, a sudden twitch goes through your body, you wake up and see the clock that shows the predetermined hour.

Such and similar cases would be worth using everywhere; the scoffers should at least demand an examination. Training the will will strengthen the imagination. It is by no means appropriate to accept any traditional appearance as true; phantoms are all too easily created by the imagination, which then stand in the way as inhibitions. Imagination refers to the reflection of thoughts, illusions or misty images that glide past our eyes in a shadowy manner. Picture after picture unrolls here, figures line up after figures and the whole thing billows like wafts of mist.

Phantoms are always shadowy figures, always recurring, haunting us in constant company. The fantasy condensed into a phantom also describes shadow figures that we have created ourselves and that remain alive because they do not leave our field of vision. They are deceptions of one-sided thinking, and negligence in actions also contributes to this.

A phantom can easily develop into a demon that feeds on our matrix and clings to us like a parasitic plant.

The demonic bond can easily occur if an attempt is made to banish the characters of the shadows with arbitrarily imagined forms. Only ignorance can lead to this. Every event and every phenomenon that presents itself to us must be checked for authenticity; The imagination must therefore be kept free from wild illusions. This also includes playing any future music; it is not good to spread the bear's fur before it is caught.

The magical acts in which the focus is on the speeches that would have to be spoken to have any effect at all should be rejected.

The flash in the pan of enthusiasm will go out and those who are so enthusiastic will collapse, feeling discouraged and weak. There are only a few people left who learn to master magic. Reading many or all of the authors on the designated field is of no use; true faith and right knowledge provide the best support as a guide to practice.

Anyone who cannot submit and fit in because of personal pride in their own advantages would do better not to devote themselves to studying, but rather to complete their career as carelessly as possible.

With his partial knowledge he will only increase the number of possessed people and a fantasy that has become a phantom will soon destroy the person concerned.

Those critics who judge negatively suffer from delusions of greatness; they are convinced of their own infallibility of a learned view; As a result, they inhibit their own spiritual development and then fall into idolatry.

Some people want to achieve something, but are afraid to actually do it. Exercises are hated companions for them and yet they hardly know how to take a proper breath.

If we want to properly build our progressive knowledge in the knowledge of these areas, then the ground must not be sandy, the firmly founded ground guarantees the logical path to the top! All misconceptions must be eliminated and what is necessary for flourishing is purified. Never "let yourself go", it seems advisable to bring the previously practiced strolling gait into a consciously firm position.

One's own will and the ability to carry out one's will become hard, no matter how difficult it is to combat existing weaknesses. Many types of inhibiting obstacles arise, the most resistance coming from the relatives of the community and from the circle of friends.

If opinions about the right life differ in matters of friendship, then dare to remain firm and test the power of the will to harmony under a magical attitude. The right friends will be kindred spirits and then understand your attitude.

If necessary, one's own will would have to break iron, comparable to a jet of fire that burns everything in its path.

In order to make it easier to consolidate your will, it is not just about being noble, but also about asserting yourself in everyday life. How the daily goal will be achieved and whether this or that means would be right to make the path viable.

The great value lies in achieving the considered, set individual goal in all cases in order to get closer to the bigger thing. Concessions are not compatible with the pride of self-confidence. The free one can have the head

If the mission is to be fulfilled in a lesser profession at the beginning, it must be carried out; it is the spirit that will pave the way forward.

You don't have to bow down to anyone, especially here you have to show off your male pride in front of royal thrones. Even if you don't own any riches, everyone's worth lies in their mental state, not in their possessions! Do not become discouraged because of the difficulties that arise; every disability serves to expand the energy of perseverance and will often have to pass a tough test. Practice silence and do not talk about matters that are in preparation. Acting in silence is the great art of magical practice.

A chatterbox will never become a knower, let alone an initiate, but he is required, upon request or at his own discretion, to show other people the path that leads to the truth. It is important to show the direction of development in words and deeds, but not the joys of life to those who are seriously searching withheld. It is only necessary to pass on the best of the wealth of personal experiences for distribution, thereby establishing the legitimacy of the Adonistic teachings.

For many, time will be the real helper; failures are inevitable, but even a few successes help a lot, encourage us in selfless work and ensure enthusiasm for the work of winning everyone over.

Furthermore, it is not important to form a sports community of sects and to increase confusion in special organizations. Everyone should lend a hand and tirelessly proclaim the true faith, especially to Christians who have gone astray in their faith. Why cowardly stand back and deny the true rightful Lord and Creator of the world? Indolence is the first vice to be conquered. Every convinced Adonist should be the light of enlightenment in a prominent place in his district. As heralds of the truth, we want to walk together and storm the strongholds of our opponents and their fortresses and break off our previous bad habits. The reform takes place according to the meaning of the secret teachings.

The commitment to Adonism cannot be denied, so let us fight as one for our cause. By founding school and later also life and cult communities, we make the difficult missionary work easier for the emissaries of the august covenant and provide credit and recognition for voluntary assistance in good works. The enemies of good are certainly doing everything they can to increase their sphere of influence and we cannot stand idly by.

Anyone who feels they have the strength to lead a study community or a local community should make their work available without prejudice and demand the performance regulations from us. If the location in question is not outside my district, I am happy to support the work by giving lectures.

The commitment to Adonism requires action after the vow of the spoken word; through cooperation we should demonstrate our seriousness about the matter. The words just mentioned are addressed to those who want to be disciples of practical magic. The Christian Freemasons also use the magic chain, it is a force field of action that benefits everyone involved. In the churches and communities we have founded, it would be possible to generate the power to be used to promote our conditions.

The trained will and the vivid imagination can do the most here.

Therefore, create the sources of strength for yourself by leading those seeking to the Adonistic society. Experience has shown that any special alliance only leads astray; A strong, unified organization, on the other hand, can do justice to the wishes of the individual. At first I also resisted Adonism and tried to break away from it and continue on my own path. However, the strength failed to settle personal matters, although I have always been counted among those with knowledge.

My invisible friends now advised me to wholeheartedly join the Adonistic Society; the school community for magicism should only serve practical instruction as part of the whole. (In the meantime I would have to take over the chairmanship of the Adonist Society in Germany.) I now want to be the pioneer of the rightful lord and creator. Serving the Chakimun of Bit Nur.

Anyone who makes a serious effort can enter the House of Light! From there the secret teachings are spread again to people of the present eon to help alleviate the difficult fate which is further aggravated by the other. Convincing faith must appear to be unshakably consolidated and uninfluenceable. True faith must remain pure and anyone who cannot voluntarily submit to this consideration does not belong to us, we must reject them and thus leave them to their own devices.

My conversation with the "Chakim of Bit Nur" lasted a whole night and I brought forward all the arguments to object to the truthfulness of the mission I had taken on, but not a single point could be raised against the matter. The movement is based on the secret teachings, and these proclaim the original religion. Individuals now believe that they can read contradictions in comparison with the writings of Dr. Musallam. However, we want to correct them. Dr. Musallam only knows the Chaldean direction, and before that I only knew the Egyptian traditions, as I received them through the invisible ones. This explains the apparent contradictions.

The purity of heart, senses and actions is required, and the quality must therefore be guaranteed. I was not motivated by the selfish consideration of becoming a famous man; rather, I went to Dr. Musallam approached and offered him my cooperation.

It is important to serve our fellow human beings and to revalue the knowledge we receive. Each individual forms a link in the chain that holds the whole thing together. Given my previous attitude, a level of spite is being shown towards me that is truly undeserved. I registered as an Adonist and teach and write for Adonism. But I don't practice a personality cult or consider the founder to be infallible. If anyone feels disadvantaged by me, please give me an explanation. To err is human, but so is to forget. My efforts now, having entered the path of right knowledge, are to spread the teachings of the rightful Lord of the world, to consolidate his reputation in the world, to earn merit for people. None of the people on earth can influence my will, "There is nothing in the world that can against me!", these words retain their meaning. Even the apostates must first have a point of attack before they can defeat you; people will not harm you if you do not want them to. So don't become lukewarm and weaker in your work, always be on your guard and act according to the law of primal events! Follow the prescribed path of fate and you will remain victorious in the dispute!

Magical Thinking Training

The key point is thinking. After you have brought your thoughts and thinking in general into a certain purity by removing what does not belong there, begin to switch your way of thinking according to the magical laws. The thought process itself represents the practical use of the accumulated magical powers and brings them to radiance. The sending out of the magical commands, combined with the plastic imagination through the personality, creates the effect.

Magical thinking means creating plastic forms of thoughts and enlivening these images, being a creator on a small scale.

Different lengths of time are necessary for implementation; more than one working day is definitely required to check the accuracy of the information. As the years go by, maturity develops in everything.

It is not enough to be an Adonist in name, but the ability to live as an Adonist believer is required.

You have to let your images come to life during the treatment. The power is there to continually nourish and grow the image so that it takes shape. The will must be developed into one's own creative power to produce the effects; the omnipotence of the world soul is partly active in you. Magical thinking continues to mean converting the knowledge gained into action, bringing what is perceived by the senses into real norms. The thought process can be compared to a birth preceded by conception, because nothing can come from nothing. An effect must always have a cause as its basis. The gender relationship is not taken into account here, because the creative thought, the creative power, is present in both parts.

You have to deal with your project over and over again. You are the lens in your body through which the rays of the surrounding forces are refracted.

It is necessary to take a closer interest in the organic processes and the structure of our body and to gain a little insight. In the narrower sense, the thinking process requires five important nerve centers, of which people usually experience nothing or very little. These are: the cerebrum and cerebellum, the pineal area, the suction nerve networks of the temples and the radiating surfaces of the forehead skin. In addition to these areas, we find so-called secondary areas on the body that represent suction or radiation surfaces. In men these are the inner palms, the navel area, the nipples and the penis.

In women it is also the inner palms, the breasts, navel area and the vagina.

The palms, nipples and cable panels emit suction surfaces, the penis and vagina are radiation surfaces. The cerebrum and cerebellum with the pineal part denote the collection points, focal mirrors of the transformation points of all absorbed radiation forces.

The nerve networks of the temples are the suction points and the forehead skin serves as a sending surface.

There is probably a prevailing opinion that we think with our brains; But this does not think independently at all, it can only collect and transform what it has absorbed, depending on the will of the ruling spirit. The thought process itself is a purely mental matter and no organ of the body can produce this action. We have to view the body as a wonderful machine and yet as a transitory gross material substance. The gross material can only produce the same element. Life and all subtle functions are independent of the body.

According to an inspired work, the human brain is described as a number of pyramids. The side surfaces of which form panels which are described by the obelisks standing in front of them, which explains the brain as a collection point.

The senses of the physical body, sight, hearing, feeling. We ignore taste and smell and focus on the sixth sense: thinking.

The sixth sense is a specifically spiritual product of the actual spirit body.

The question could now arise: where is the seat in the blood and nerve substances, what is supposed to constitute the sixth sense. However, there are always parts and organs in the astral body that remain there even if the visible body has been deformed. This also includes the complaint of amputees who report pain in their limbs in parts that are no longer there. The earthly body is modeled on the astral body. So there is no need to be surprised when we come across figures whose yellowed paintings are gathering dust in some museum. The image has apparently come to life, although only the astral body is on the move. We always return to earthly life, but the conditions, the environment and the earthly bodies are always different: but the spiritual body remains the same because it is made of the same materials as all other invisible things.

Thinking is therefore a purely spiritual matter of the astral body. Now what are the thoughts?

The thoughts resemble the waves of force sparks which have been absorbed through the suction surfaces from the energies surrounding us and stored by the collecting organs in order to then be radiated and expelled at the appropriate time as a certain order form.

Thinking is impossible for us if the collecting organs are empty; really intensive thinking is still possible even if the collecting organs are overloaded with worthless electrons. resp. became.

The latter occurs particularly when the soul is impregnated by possession. Soul impregnation occurs when other souls have become naturalized in addition to the dominant spirit. Such guests can be departed people, so-called sleepwalkers, or unborn invisibles of the lowest levels of development who avoid direct incarnation.

The condition only occurs temporarily, but in many cases it is a permanent cause of change. The possession exists until the actual lord of the earth's clothing comes to the fore again, otherwise only death will bring about a clean divorce. The thoughts are form-fitting sparks of power. We are therefore required to clean the collection orrane to make any influence impossible.

The cerebrum is the collection point for the sensory tools, the cerebellum is the center for the blood and nervous system, and the sexual organs with their many branches are also part of it. The pineal surface is the collection point for the suction and radiation surfaces. However, a conceptual difference must be taken into account. Sensual excitations, which are received through the absorption of rays from differently directed (sexual) bodies collected in the pine area. Sperm and ovaries are released from the cerebellum, which is the responsible collection point for material excretions. The pineal surface, incorrectly called the pineal gland, is the point of connection between the spirit body and the flesh body. It is more important than the navel field, which is called the solar plexus; the exit point of the astral body when "wandering" is here.

The bones at the temples of the head are very thin-walled; underneath lie the nerve networks of the suction surfaces. As a result of our culture, the other suction surfaces of the body are usually almost covered with impermeable clothing, and a temporary atrophy occurs, from which the entire organism suffers.

The temple areas then become more and more sensitive in order to be able to absorb the electrons. But if we want to strengthen and perfect ourselves, we must expose our body, with all its organs completely exposed, to the influence of light and energies as much as possible. The sixth sense has the best benefit of anticipating the increase.

The forehead. forms a special radiation surface, we have radiated the sparks of force brought into form; a process that is only possible for a person to observe in clairvoyance; otherwise it would remain unproven. Then the end face resembles a plate from which larger and smaller sparks jump off to the front and sides.

The more trained the thinker is, the greater, stronger and more persistent the radiation will be. The type of broadcast also indicates the strength of use of the given teachings.

By nature, everyone knows how to think, even if it turns out to be confusing. But whoever wishes to become a person of knowledge must learn correctly ordered thinking; It means the key to magical success and everyone wants it.

First, the cleansing of the Sanmel organs, which is combined with physical rest while eliminating the other senses. The impossibility of clearly grasping a thought arises, and it seems impossible to make the dominant impressions disappear. The word "force" as concentration has a peculiar suction effect, and it is more likely than others to be able to provide calm in the confusion of thoughts. The penetrating sparks of power strengthen this word and thereby form a thought that is brought into form.

All power is transferred to the collecting organ until the existing power has been sent out again in a different form and stored in the secondary organ, in the umbilical field and in the sexual glands. Any other member of the body can be filled with this power if it is transmitted with the help of imagination; how power can be drawn out and redirected and collected from any point.

It's not for nothing that our inner palms are designed as suction surfaces; we can use them to absorb existing pain and transfer or divert it away. All possible types of transmission are explained in the teachings on magical practice. Trained thinking now means bringing the collected sparks of power into a desired form, in contrast to ordinary thinking, in which the absorbed sparks of power are transferred into random forms.

The correct way can only be done through daily systematic exercises, the time of day it is used is irrelevant. Not the posture, but the idea of the will is the deciding factor. The Magus bandage is an ideal aid to use; it promotes the exercises extremely well.

Another instrument represents the work of Mr. Müh in the "concentrator". He acts inwardly on the pineal surface, but the magical forehead band advantageously transfers the force outward and creates a radiation across a wide field through the Saturn talisman. Especially for beginners, the free forehead causes the rays to be scattered too much, which results in excessive energy consumption. The collected forces are almost always used up instead of collecting them and radiating them sparingly.

Thought formulas are essential, once sucking and then radiating, to trigger the desired effect. Long sayings are tiring and confusing, what is required is brevity that contains everything that needs to be achieved. Once the idea has been conceived, it is essential to hold on to it and put it into practice in order to bring success. Don't put up this today and that tomorrow, because that will lead to collapse.

But thinking does not mean speaking, even whispering must be stopped. When thinking correctly, the plastic image must be formed by every word thought, as if the effect were weak at first and then increased with each exercise until it appeared to the mind's eye as it grew larger and larger. Once this stage has been reached, all that is required is an energetic command and the thought brought into form leaves the brain and creates the desired result. It hits where it is aimed.

Closing your eyes during the exercises is highly recommended. For the clairvoyant person there is the possibility of seeing the ever-increasing waves of thought rushing from the pine area to the front wall; the trained thoughts must beat against them like sea waves, comparable to the massive waves of surf that hit the dunes more and more violently during the high tide.

The formed thoughts then have a resounding effect and tear down everything that opposes them. The longer the radiation takes place, the more noticeable they will be when they occur.

The third teaching letter begins with explanations about training in magical practice. I will first provide instructions for such magical actions, which prove their effectiveness due to the organic suction and radiation surfaces introduced here.

Guide to magical acts

The magical practice, the art of using the appropriate knowledge for material purposes. I have already stated in earlier parts that magical practice is a consequence of a deeper understanding of individual magical areas. Here too, development can only happen gradually. In order to give everyone a correct understanding of the hidden knowledge, I feel compelled to first explain the causes of the actions. We have already spoken about the suction and radiation surfaces of the human body. These areas in centers and fields must primarily be used for their intended purpose. Most people have atrophied as a result of disuse. This disadvantage must be removed and, last but not least, great importance is placed on correcting one's own personality.

At the same time, this also ensures systematic adherence to the basic exercises. Accuracy, care, perseverance, tenacity and perseverance form the sides of the pentagram and every person forms one. He always wanted to seek to acquire and maintain unity. Agrippa von Nettesheim already wrote in his Kabbalah about how "magical works" can be read in his works.

In practice we have to consider the type of defense or attack option. Every magical attack is aimed at the body's force fields, because only there can the astral body be hit. It is a misconception that damaging an image of any person can cause visible harm to the earthly body. The visibility of the injury, which is expressed as hardening of the blood, is already an effect of the sequelae. Only the visible body, the spiritual body of the person concerned, is always affected. Two courses of action are available, either withdrawal of strength or overfilling of strength. Which one the individual chooses is up to them. It may be important to know both options in order to be prepared in all cases. Research has shown that overloading with strength results in quicker success than depriving oneself of strength. There are many bad acts, and I will announce a number of those who have passed a test. When force is withdrawn, the attack is usually directed at the collection points of the cerebrum and cerebellum, as well as the pineal area. In our own cases on the umbilical field. Direct attacks on the lungs and heart almost always fail due to the energy of the person concerned.

Only for those who are completely ignorant does this lead to an improvement in the blood and hardening of the lung cells. So I got to know a case in which a lung patient used the image magic to treat a person who had previously been very close to him. This resulted in severe muscular dropsy. After eliminating the cause and applying balancing force, the person concerned was freed from the evil. The development of the effect of transferring suffering from the spiritual body to the physical body is very slow, even if initiates use harsh means. It takes a long time before there is visible success. On the other hand, the withdrawal of strength and ability places great demands on the actor's toughness and endurance. Things are not that simple and easy. Here too, the processing time varies between 7 weeks, 7 months or 7 years. If the person affected is informed of the effects of the current, they can easily neutralize and possibly reverse the effects. Then the person doing the action harms themselves the overabundance of strength caused by the withdrawal of strength more than in the person being attacked. The so-called means of protection, such as Odmantel, glyphs and silk robes, probably only provide the illusion of protection. The best protection is your unshakable belief in the rightful Lord and Creator of the world and your own trained will. Power overload involves working with one's own strong energies to one-sidedly overload the affected person's spiritual body. But let those who are initiated tell you that an accumulation of certain forces will have serious consequences if it is absorbed unused, without increasing it by means of one's own physical power system.

This own strength must increase or be increased in the same proportion as one wants to use the energy strength. But people belong to very different areas of power according to their origin and starting point. The higher the original decree is, or the stronger our own strength, the easier it is for us to work and the more difficult it is for others to influence us. Those individual energies and the group of people belonging to them are discussed in a treatise in the 6th teaching letter. To overfill with force, use the suction surfaces and then the radiation fields of the human body. These are the nerve networks of the temples, the inside of the hand and the umbilical area as suction surfaces.

Frontal field, nipples and genital field as radiation surfaces. The last one in particular is a particular overcrowding point. The collection containers for material waste are also located in the same area.

The matrix of man

We know from physics that excessive current causes fuses to burst and burn out, causing the light bulbs to go out. The same thing happens here too. However, we do not need any metal conductors, but rather work wirelessly. We also don't need an electricity plant because our lives take place in one of the size we imagine. This may sound absurd, but it is true. University science is already dealing with the electron problem, which will ultimately have its cause and consequence in humans themselves. The idea of extracting the electricity that is always present in the air around us and using it exclusively for the service of humanity also deserves special attention. The researchers should not forget that the energies can only be made available through similar converters and their voltage strength can easily destroy any earthly measuring device. An initiate of the supernatural current areas would probably be more successful in working with such powers. It is not safe to use for the general public.

So far I have noticed three different strengths of these energies. I generally refer to them as heat, magnetism and high current. The latter quality is close to electricity in the usual sense. Heat absorbed is bearable. Magnetism spoils even useful things, such as pocket watches, and high current may cause physical damage, including health problems. In any case, a warning should be issued not to use high-voltage current without a compelling reason. All too easily the Elias arises in the fire against Gimmel. The body fields are the places through which the magical influence takes place and it is necessary to know about them. We live in a time in which everything possible is used to keep the opposing parties in check. There is far too much at stake because we humans are always just the means in the battle of the masters of the world. The other person is always inventing new things cruel methods to reduce the number of loyal masters. We therefore have a duty to learn about, defend and combat means and aids. A persistent and invisible battle is being waged. I managed to gain deeper insights into natural events and become thread connections. I was able to solve many puzzles.

At first I was perplexed by these forces. I felt its effectiveness, but I didn't know how this could happen. Later I came across the information which revealed further information when I checked it. I had to endure many blows to the neck. However, I didn't give up on the matter. The searcher should be offered opportunities to avoid making mistakes. The most viable path can only be shown; everyone has to take it themselves. He must not let anything weigh him down. To a person like that Should and may storm in, whatever happens, he just takes to heart: "There is nothing in the world that can go against my will," so he cannot succumb. A true magician must not allow himself to be swayed by human moods, ideas and regulations. Even blood ties have to take a back seat here, as already mentioned. Precisely where people are most likely to be hit, the /other/ lets the renegades use the attack. Become hard, figuratively speaking, a living stone if you have to. Even if your entire material economic system collapses and you become as poor and despised as Job, still stand tall, persevere and you will be given a hundredfold what you lost in battle.

If you want to be an honest, faithful Adonist, create true, unbreakable faith in the rightful Lord and Creator and always act as an Adonist. In all hours never deviate from the path. This is the only way you can become a real magician and penetrate the hidden powers of nature in order to master them. Otherwise you will remain empty straw, which every wind scatters and which the flame destroys. As long as you only have the membership card of the Adonist Society and hold back on working on yourself, you will also lose the constructive power to become a true Adonist. When you have fought your way through to the right conviction, there will no longer be any limits to your path to the perfection of humanity. Every development takes time, including yours. Nothing should happen suddenly and suddenly. Almost everything has to be fought for. Seek help from yourself by utilizing the secret teachings that have become apparent to you. You will get a lot of use out of it. But don't try to take control of your inner secrets by force.

You cannot receive it until there is appropriate maturity in your own development. Raging and pleading doesn't help. Through self-discipline in self-training you can achieve self-research. In earlier years I, too, was once such a celestial stormer who thought I would receive initiation with stormy steps. I was denied this and shown the hard path of my own inner development, which I had to take before the further secrets were revealed. Today I am faced with a wealth of hidden knowledge and new areas are constantly being opened up to me, as well as surprising revelations that I had previously overlooked. Anyone can get there if they only have the right faith and a firm will to do so.

As I said, start building from the ground up. Put your previous knowledge and skills aside. Become a protector of hidden science and learn to read and write in it. You will then understand why silence and action are necessary. You are then on the right path to knowledge.

Hide vices such as pride and vanity. They represent the thorns on this path. Whether you are rich or poor, learned or uneducated, it doesn't matter.

Such conditions are excluded here because they can be created at any time. As long as those thorns prick you, your development will be hindered. Therefore, trample down the thorns and practice the right knowledge. Socially, you remain what you used to be. You always remain who you are. You don't forgive yourself in the slightest, on the contrary. You promote yourself and your affairs exceptionally. Not everyone can be a master. There must also be officials as brothers. Everyone is placed in their place on earth according to their spiritual development. which he has to fill out and can grant her full satisfaction. Many things can be avoided if the deficiencies are discovered at the right time. Prevention is therefore better than cure. The few minutes for practice are always worth it, as everyone has time to sleep and simply start their research work. Will is particularly important here. Excuses don't count.

Start with the few minutes before you fall asleep, then time breaks will automatically be introduced for further development. This creates an incentive.

You don't have to let yourself be affected by fear that something will happen that could disadvantage you. A convinced believer has no reason to be afraid of anything. Rather, everything unknown can only be valuable to him.

In order to perform magical acts, it is necessary for everyone to train themselves so that they can absorb and transform the hidden powers in their body at any time, on any day or hour. The strength ratio of your own energy must be adjusted to that of the dominant force.

Disagreements must be reconciled. To determine your own power you use the teachings of astromagic. The sixth teaching letter provides information about this. This contains the usage tables. By means of mental representation and a firm will, one strengthens what is present in the collecting cells by absorbing the parts of the force. In every human, animal or plant body, life flows as long as there is strength. Any dormant strength will then not be particularly noticeable. The magically trained person is able to strengthen the powers resting in his organs and increasingly use them for magical actions. It is important to expand your own field of activity. First you start with yourself, with experiments on your own body. For example, if you experience pain due to fast running, which is referred to as a side stitch, then place the inner surface of your right hand on your forehead and the inner surface of your left hand on your painful hip and form the thought formula for this; /The disturbance is now over/. As a result, the pain will be reduced, but the feeling will be as if the left forearm has become significantly heavier. There is a buzzing something in it that disappears when the left hand is placed briefly in pure water. The water should be thrown away after use because the problem remains linked to it. To explain this process, it should be noted that the right hand sucked forehead force out of the radiation surface. At the same time, the left hand also pulled the disturbance away as a suction surface and through the transfer of the upper force, the pain effect was compressed in the left forearm, which announced the disturbance with the humming sound. Just the mental image causes the absorption and the transition. But anyone who fails to discharge it into the water or into the earth will only transfer the organic disorder to another part of the body. It then reaches the shoulder joint and the rheumatism is over. Headaches in the muscles of the scalp are a disability that requires treatment.

The root cause is secondary and the only effect is to eliminate the pain. To do this, you use the power parts, which are in pure water available. To do this, fill a large bowl with pure water, place your right hand in it and your left hand on your forehead. The formula is again formed in the imagination, as has already been mentioned. A cooling feeling soon permeates the scalp and after a few minutes the pain disappears. The strange pull then becomes noticeable on the left arm and it propagates its effect through the collarbone area over the right arm into the water basin. The action must not be interrupted until the fingertips of the right hand report the pull.

Elimination of blood overflow in the sexual organs

If you live a very abstinent life for a long time, the overflow of blood will cause real pain. There is an accumulation of force here that needs to be transferred. Place your right hand on the root, but your left hand on the navel area.

Create the thought formula: /The abundance escapes to the collection point/. The feeling of pain soon gives way to a feeling of well-being that spreads to the entire lower abdomen. The blood pressure goes down and the organic disorder is resolved. We each have a left and a right temple, a left and a right hand, a left and a right ovary. The left side is always positively charged, but the right side is negatively charged. Although both palms are suction surfaces, the left hand is used to supply force and the right hand to remove force. If the left hand is the suction surface, it sucks from the inside out, that is, from its own body collection point outwards. But the right hand sucks from the outside inwards. But this only happens when the hands are held on different parts of the body. Both hands stretched up to head height, sucking from the outside in. When placed on certain parts of the body, they attach themselves and create a bond. Whatever is grasped with both hands falls into bondage. On your own body, you eliminate the disturbances on the right side of your body with positive force and on the left with negative force, with the left or right taking over the transmission from the damaged area. The same law applies to the treatment of the sufferings of strangers.

The magical fire

If you hold both hands at head level, completely unclothed, palms turned outwards, using the thought formula / My magical power is getting stronger every day / then after a few days a strange observation will be made. Every thought and every breath resembles a stream of fire. The feeling of a flame inside the body pours an abundance of blood into the sexual organs and all organic cells are filled with the power. It's like being caught in a blaze of fire. If the exercise is stopped, this state returns. The term baptism of fire may come from this phenomenon. Such a baptism of fire, a fire position, must be created again and again if the magical effect is to be created. Only then can one carry out special actions without causing any harm to oneself. In contrast to other writers, it should be explained that this sexual abstinence is absolutely not necessary. There are actions in magical areas that require the representation of the perfect human being, the union between man and woman. The mental image is the deciding factor. The purpose of the action must animate all preparations and partial actions.

The signs of magical influences

None of us is excluded from being subject to magical influence. Be it individuals or certain associations that dedicate themselves to such work. In order to counter attacks ineffectively, I provide the signs here, as well as the rules that serve for defense. We distinguish between the attack on health, the economic conditions and the imposition of death. When strength is withdrawn, a dull, nagging headache occurs, which is mainly limited to the pineal area. A weakness of the limbs sets in. The inertia of the blood results in a dullness to all external influences. The person concerned is apathetic towards everything that happens.

At times, stinging and irritation occurs in certain parts of the body. The muscles become weak, followed by a thickening of the blood. Later also the cell tissue. When there is too much energy, feverish heat occurs. The overstimulation of the sexual nerves becomes noticeable in abnormal ideas and unconscious actions that harm the entire organism. Decomposition of the blood promotes dropsy in the abdominal cavity or in the muscle areas. Growths and cancerous phenomena break out.

Increased fainting spells create suicidal candidates. Swelling of muscles causes muscle wasting, the cellular tissues are scattered and torn. Hot temper and rage symptoms cause strokes and cerebral stroke. When the economic conditions are attacked, unexpected, mysterious business difficulties arise, large losses are accompanied by theft, embezzlement and forgery of documents and bills of exchange.

Unconsciously, those doing the work are often forced to do actions that they themselves would otherwise abhor. An attack on the economic and private circumstances usually ends in the complete ruin of the person affected.

The magical death

The various effects are written about below. No judge on earth can hold the perpetrators accountable because they simply describe the possible acts as superstition and thus seem to get ahead for the moment. But then a sword of Damocles hovers over him, and if an unjustified attack is made, he will be caught and crushed by this invisible power. When magical death is imposed, the attack is mainly directed against the brain, pineal and navel fields due to the corresponding overload of force. The affected person's astral body is forcibly pulled out of the physical body. The connection between the spirit body and the flesh body is interrupted for a certain time, a roaring sensation arises in the body itself and announces the emergence of the magical fire. The pulses are pounding and feverish, and the body is overcome by tetanus. All movement is prevented from the feet up to the head. The hearing alone perceives the noise of the surroundings as if from far away. If no countermeasures are taken, the heartbeat stops and the body takes on a corpse-like pallor. However, the person affected still remains alive and hears everything is going on, but cannot do anything to save him. The magically untrained doctor determines that the cause of death may be heart attack. If the spell is not broken, a pseudo-dead person can easily be carried out of the ranks.

The protective measures

The best protection is true faith and maintaining unwavering loyalty to the true Lord and Creator. Then the invisible ones, as his faithful ones, will warn us at the right time and teach us to avert the impending danger.

But it is very beneficial if we create a magical protective wall for ourselves by practicing the thought formula 7 times a day. /There is nothing in the world that can work against me./ These thoughts, thought intensively, are a shield from which the enemies' weapons and waves bounce off. If we are orthodox believers, such considerations are of no use to the half-baked and apostate. Faith and will, alongside right imagination, create the best magical protection.

If opponents accuse people of being uninfluenceable, which manifests itself in a stubborn, stubborn nature, then it must be examined whether these vices arise from vanity. Often the ideas defended are worth more than an entire human life. If you want to become a real magician, you have to follow your path unwaveringly. Dangerous opponents can be shaken off by taking a solution action. The following instructions, a translation from the Adonistic language, are good to use. All you need is an incense bowl, 7 charcoals soaked in spirit, a piece of wool, a date and a string knotted seven times. Before the action, at least your face and hands must be washed and the magical headband must be put on with the magical robe. This eliminates the need for underwear. A Mars hour that wakes choose to work. The same begins with lighting the incense fire. The sayings are whispered in a low voice and the actions described in them are carried out at the same time.

O Lord of the world;

An evil spell hovers over my head.

A spell of imprecation has been spoken over me; the curse of an enemy has fallen upon me.

O Lord of the world;

Break the spell that hangs over my head, destroy the spell of imprecation that was spoken over me, remove from me the curse of my enemy.

O Lord of the world;

May the enchantment of which I have become a victim be cut into pieces like a date, untied like a knot, torn like wool and destroyed in flaming fire.

O Lord of the world;

as I cut this date into pieces, so may that magic be cut into pieces,
and let the flaming fire consume,
the cut up date and the spell my enemy cast on me.

O Lord of the world;
how do I untie this knot,
so may that magic be solved,
and let the flaming fire consume,
the untied cord and the spell that my enemy cast on me.

O Lord of the world;
As I tear this wool apart,
so may that magic be broken,
and let the flaming fire consume,
the torn wool and the magic that my enemy did to me.

O Lord of the world;
Break the spell that my enemy has cast on me and strike him himself,
him and his wife,
his children and servants {Here comes another line that unfortunately cannot be deciphered...}

The charcoals must be well soaked in spirit, and the incense bowl must also contain some spirit so that the flaming fire does not go out sooner.

As soon as the act is completed, one takes off the headband and robe. The remains in the smoking basin must be carefully removed and later thrown into running water. If there is no such thing in the area, then the knowledgeable person buries the ashes in a discreet place in the ground.

Such an action must be repeated 7 times. There is a break of 7 days between each exercise. The benefits can be seen in a very short time. These actions also broke the enemy works that are being done with the help of the Invisible Apostates. We are also masters of the apostates, as I will show later.

If the effects of magical death occur, then you press both hands into fists against your forehead and constantly think that thought formula; /There is nothing in the world that can go against me./ Such a rigid state requires special attention to be paid to the wrists and temples, which must be treated with cold water.

If the water in the basin begins to boil as a result of being placed on it, it should be thrown away and replaced with something else. An attack lasts no more than 3 or 5 hours. After this point, Will is triumphant over all.

It used to be unbelievable to me that such an impact could be possible. But when I felt it in my own body and had to fight against it, I became convinced of it.

In the explanations of the attacks, the secrets of certain organizations whose effects were verified are briefly highlighted. The existence of special connections is not a matter of superstition, but is a tangible reality. No human being can escape such magical influences. Only the person taught knows how to protect themselves. Protective glyphs or amulets are often touted. However, their blatant presentation always calls for caution. The best protective plates are those that you make yourself according to the secret teachings or have those who are actually initiated. The same applies to protective gemstones. The amulet itself remains dead and has no effect whatsoever, and it would also be the most precious stone if it had not been made and consecrated according to the teachings and instructions of the secret teachings. It must be based on personal fate and spiritual

Take the buyer's characteristics into account. The teachings and methods of modern astrologers are very problematic. I created my own means of protection. As part of these teaching letters, I provide instructions for production and practical use with effective options for use. Every follower of Adonism will benefit from it.

The acts of attack

Naturally, the instructions for possible attacks must be more numerous than those for defense and it is important to balance them with the right method. Worth mentioning here are the works with pictures and wax plates using dolls and mummies. Mumia is the magical act with or without personal substances, such as blood, skin, nails, hair, sperm, cloths and also signatures. But the options for action are far from exhausted. However, they will be completely sufficient for most cases. The aid always only creates that

Link to transfer the effect to the person concerned. Later comes the work under the servitude of the invisible assistants, both the faithful and the apostates. However, this method of action places great demands on the person performing it and he can only use it in the correct way as an initiate. The right faith and the most unbreakable conviction must have become second nature to him, otherwise he will end up like the sorcerer's apprentice in Goeth's poetry. He can no longer get rid of the spirits he called. In the reprints, which are of ancient origin, one may find distorted information about the magic of the image. Even among the people, the strangest stories about it pass from mouth to mouth. So e.g

Damage can be caused by thrusting a dagger into the image of a living person or by tracing the outline of the person in question on the image with glowing needles. The samples are free. But it is useless work, because it requires a little more force of conviction.

First, a firm, unshakable faith is necessary, then a hard, trained will in addition to precise knowledge of the magical act itself. It consists of different parts, the order of which must be observed precisely. At the same time, the type of aid you intend to work with, be it a picture plate, doll or mumia, remains the same. The main commandment in all of these statements is to act in silence. Anyone who talks about it beforehand or makes certain plans has no chance of success. He is wasting his stored up strength with such illusions. Rather, you have to think about the effect that you want to create. The formula used for the first action must always be retained in the same processing. Forming one word today and another word tomorrow only results in a fragmentation of power. All formulas are short. It is clearly and firmly expressed that the use is justified and effective.

The action consists of a ban, a curse, an invocation, as well as the imposition and consolidation of the desired thing. Performing any magical act requires a certain amount of personal preparation. If a complete washing followed by anointing cannot be carried out, at least wet your face and hands and say the invocation in a low voice with your hands placed on your forehead; /Lord, hear my word, for you are the ruler of heaven and earth as well as the true creator who will return in the happy age

/ Then you start making or preparing the aid that symbolizes or is intended to represent the person in question. Pay attention to which day and at which hour the action has the most favorable effect. Not all times are equally good at the beginning of the story. Therefore use the usage tables of the 6th teaching letter. The Saturn hours and the Saturn time day are best suited for magical actions. We Adonists count the night before the day starting with the first hour of civil time. From 6 to 7 p.m. or from six to seven in the afternoon of the previous day. Our Saturn time day begins on the civil time day Friday with the bell striking 6 o'clock in the afternoon and ends on Saturday evening at 6 o'clock. Shurim and Shumrut should also be taken into account when controlling the hours. But there are further usage tables here. Everyone can do the small count that is necessary to find the prevailing influences at the time on the day of action. Tatwa and counting the hours from sunrise can be omitted. All preparatory work should be done before the actual work so as not to lose a minute of the best influences. A ban always happens twice. First, you banish the person to be worked on into the auxiliary field through mental imagery while it is being created. The exact same thing happens with photographs if the person's first and last name are written on the back of the picture. Please note here. If you want to help someone out, their name will be written on the back of the picture.

When cursing, concentrate your mind on the person and say the blessing or curse over the aid in a low voice.

At the same time the hands actuate the imposition. When wishing blessings, the affirmation strokes should be made with both hands from the head to the feet, exactly as if one were magnetizing. Curses cause the intended harm. At the end you use the consolidation. To do this, make five or seven knots in a strong twine and wrap the aid with it. The action is now completed. Another rule says that you have to tie 2 knots and then add another 2 knots for each subsequent action. The consequence, as a repetition of the change with no need for the production of aids, should be carried out either daily at the same hour or after seven days. Under no circumstances should the bond be dissolved before the desired success has occurred. If the result achieved is satisfactory, then the action must be carried out in the reverse order.

Loosen the hold and all knots aside, the damage, say a blessing and never separate entire aids.

The conclusion is the saying, which is used as an invocation. The material used must not be left lying around carelessly, but must always be locked away.

Used utensils should be entrusted to running water for eternal destruction.

The magic of images in a simple action

A bulletin board is required for this. It must be large enough to accommodate a photograph several times. Incense burners, charcoal, denatured alcohol and incense powder No. 13 are still required. All individual parts are available in drugstores and pharmacies and will be easy to obtain. Also use equal parts of Peru balsam, myrrh, galbanum and pure frankincense. Mix the crushed substances with the urinary galbanum and mix the balm underneath. This then forms small grains, which must be collected when stored in well-sealed containers. Galban is a Persian plant resin and has a strong, pleasant smell. Several steel pins and some objects for attaching the picture are at hand. Once you have all of this together, write down the favorable hours from the usage tables. Likewise, careful consideration should be given to the final act and how the effect should be manifested. Repeatedly check the thought formula for its influence to ensure powerful action. Keep all necessary documents in your lockable table. How this is carried out has already been described. What remains to be explained is how it was made and imposed. Place charcoals in the smoking fire basin, cover them with denatured alcohol and light them. The purpose of the denatured alcohol is to make the charcoal glow faster. This work can safely be done a quarter of an hour before the start of the convenient working hour. As soon as the embers are full, pour some of the incense onto them and hold your hands in the rising smoke for about a minute. Then take the magic headband out of its container and put it on. Now the invocation is made as the beginning of the work. The picture is placed on the black board and the first and last name of the person in question is written using an ink pen with the greatest concentration. The picture is attached to the board using the pins. The treatment now takes place as you have the person in question in front of you. Magnetize for good work and in the event of punishment, threaten your unbending resolve with a pin. The threat is reinforced by the glowing needle in the incense burner. The duration is determined by twisting the twine around the picture and the board while it is knotted. The whole thing must also be kept in the table under lock and key after completion.

This work using drawing is more difficult because it requires a good imagination. The tools remain almost the same, only a 7 x 10 cm piece of unused parchment is used instead of the picture.

The naked figure of the person to be worked on is drawn on this parchment, the color of which can be white, gray or red. The beauty of the lines is not important. All parts of the body must be visible or recognizable as such, e.g. eyes, nose, mouth, ears, nipples, sexual organs, as well as the navel. Side views should be avoided. The crux of the matter is that the performer makes the drawing himself and creates it with a precise mental focus on the person in question. Such a sketch completely replaces a picture. The plot is the same. Here too, your first and last name must be added before use. The purpose decides whether the front surface is to be used for this purpose or the back. Instead of the whole body, a partial drawing of the affected organ or limb that needs to be healed is sufficient. In all cases, however, the name must be written down. In order to achieve an understanding, it should be added that the drawing must always be placed on the relevant organ within the person depicted, whether it is on the front or back. The edge, top or bottom page should not be written on. The name always covers the whole picture of the person.

Treatment with the Tepha

The Tepha is a wooden box that, in addition to the battery or accumulator, also contains a device for clamping the picture or drawing into an electrical circuit. The usual current is 28 volts. The magical action is the same as already described. Only when the image is installed, the image is introduced into the circuit, that is, a suction surface or a radiation surface or even the collection point is drawn to one of the two wires, in such a way that the left and right sides are connected. The end of the wire is bent back so that the wire ends cannot touch each other directly. Both temples or nipples, forehead area or genital area give off a connection. Likewise left or right side of the brain or left or right hand. The latter only if they were not held together in one part of the body.

There is no need to secure it using a knotted cord. Just close the box tightly and don't open it until the solution has been solved. The specified parts of the body turn out to be the most effective points and all success would be possible through them. The Tepha continues to work alone as long as the image or drawing is introduced with proper concentration on the person and purpose of the action. This has the advantage that you can magically work on several matters at the same time. Of course, for each thing a different Tepha is required. The power consumption remains minimal because the wire ends do not touch each other and the connection is made by the body piece in between.

Working with wax plates

Use the clay bowl as a mold, as it is used as a coaster.

Of course, new, unused ones must be used. Pure beeswax of the same color, liquefy and at a suitable hour pour the mold. The bowl should be dry to avoid bubbles forming in the plates. The action itself is presented in the following sentences. The plate should be cast at the hour of the new moon, which can be seen from the epheries. The person being processed can be captured very clearly in concentration. If the name signature is at hand, it should also be pressed into the liquid mass with the writing facing upwards until it is completely covered with wax. Use the invocation formula at the beginning of the action. As soon as the mass has cooled and it has formed a solid surface, draw a pentagram with a steel needle, which is drawn in one stroke without stopping. The evenness of the lines is not important here. All thoughts should only focus on the person in question. Then fill in the drawn lines with black ink and then carefully knock the plate out of the mold. To work, place the plate on the side where the pentagram is and treat it exactly as you would a picture. As long as this plate does not break, the person being worked on remains under the influence of the person doing the work, whether he or she continues to touch the plate or not. Breaking the embossed form also releases the spell, even if the desired result has not yet occurred. In order to continue the work, a new plate must be created at the appropriate hour. The desired effects appear more slowly than with direct image magic, but they therefore have a more lasting effect. In a magical sense, the wax plate represents the drawn pentagram on the human body represents the suction surface of the navel field.

Working with Mumia

Clippings of nails, parts of skin, hair, handkerchiefs or signatures are used as binding elements that are worked into the doll that represents the person in question. The model to be manufactured makes no claim to beauty. But it must allow all limbs to be recognized.

Whether twine or hemp yarn should be used to sew and make the limbs clear is up to the individual. Use the person's signature so that the side of the characters is facing the body or back. The action is only likely to bring benefit and support if the writing is placed on the body side. Attached to the back, it only causes damage. The work must be carried out as described. The knotted string must be wrapped tightly around the doll so that it cannot come loose without someone else's help.

Finally, a few remarks about physical magic should be added. It is good for those who know, and ultimately all those who wish to become knowledgeable, to pay attention to such points so that they can protect themselves from harm. Every single person passes by things very carelessly that people don't like to talk about, let alone work with. The substance in question, the body's excretions, is often handled far too carelessly.

The sperm, which is obtained in the condom and poured onto a glowing plate after sexual intercourse, causes the man in question to be infertile.

Menstrual blood also destroyed brings diseases to the uterus. Sperm mixed with yeast in a sealed jar and stored in an airtight container creates the man's semen flow. The same substance mixed with spirit melted into a wax doll creates sexual dependence on the person who is in possession of the doll.

Swallowing sperm creates horniness in women as well as men. Sperm added to a virgin's drink turns her into a prostitute. Severe vision afflicts those persons whose semen or menstrual blood is placed in the grave of a dead person.

The lover's cut pubic hair, carried in a leather pouch made from the scrotum of an animal, is said to be prepared or eaten raw, producing sexual desire and increased horniness. Oxtail soup, obtained from the tail of a bull and prepared cheaply, results in a very strong stimulation of the sexual instinct. Anyone who has examined these records in detail will no longer be surprised that the excited blood lashes the senses of this or that person and that actions are committed that are fundamentally incompatible with the rest of the nature of the person concerned. One solution is systematic impact. Such actions often result in effects whose full extent the producer can no longer control. It is therefore advisable not to use it. Knowledge of these things is therefore not suitable for everyone, because using them improperly has consequences that certainly rule out further misuse. We want to look at the other tools and get to know the purposes of the actions.

More on this in the fourth teaching letter.
